in this country, instead, and will go west in the near future.

A heavy cloudburst June 7 caused considerable damage here, wrecking trees and completely ruining many flowers and plants. Over an inch of rain fell in one hour, ending with a severe hail storm, which caused much damage.

W. J. & M. S. Vesey had an unusually fine Memorial day business in bedding plants and cut flowers as well. Their out-of-town trade was out of all proportion to last year.

An immense business was enjoyed by the Doswell Floral Co., both at their downtown store on West Main street and at their greenhouses, located near the entrance to Lindenwood cemetery. Plants and cut flowers had about equal calls.

A. J. Lanternier & Co. report that Memorial day business this year was considerably greater than that of last year. They were completely sold out in all their large line of stock and had an especially good plant trade. Funeral work has kept the store force busy many nights during the last week.

Three weddings and a funeral gave the Flick Floral Co. a record day June 2. The funeral work included a large casket cover, for which roses, lilies and sweet peas were used. An excellent cut of Hoosier Beauty roses is being received daily from this company's greenhouses.

Visitors to the trade last week included P. J. McCarthy, representing Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, Ill., and the representative of Wertheimer Bros., New York city.

Yellow calla lily plants are selling well as a novelty at the store of Edward Wenninghoff. He is also offering rhododendron and hydrangea plants and cut Madonna lilies. He forced Madonna lilies for Memorial day and says they met with an excellent demand.

R. F. B.

CONCORDIA, KAN.

Few cities of this size in the United States can boast of florists' establishments so well equipped as are the Concordia Greenhouses, of Harry L. Hunt, pictures of which recently appeared in The Review. The value of the modern store equipment adjoining the greenhouses is being made more apparent each day, as business is increasing steadily. The building, which is of native brown stone with stucco gables, not only contains a salesroom on the main floor but above it has a display room for baskets and other accessories which is proving a decided adjunct. In addition to the output of the greenhouses, Mr. Hunt handles a large variety of baskets and other novelties, birds and goldfish. This department was specially attractive at the opening of the new building, for here colored maids served ices and cakes while Mrs. Hunt received the visitors.

HOLYOKE, MASS.

Club Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Holyoke and Northampton Florists' and Gardeners' Club was held June 3, with George Strugnel, head gardener at "Bonny Briar," Holyoke.

The president, Harold Keyes, was in the chair. The members voted to omit the July and August meetings. The result of many years of skillful and hard work at "Bonny Briar" by George Strugnel was enjoyed immensely by the members present. A. H.

DENVER.

Record Frost.

May 31 and June 1 will long be remembered by local florists, for on those days we had the latest frost ever experienced in this locality. Coleus, salvia and heliotrope were completely frozen. Cannas, geraniums and other bedding plants lost top leaves, but are growing out again. Dahlias for the most part were not up out of the ground, but those that were up were frozen. Peonies were not hurt. The practice of planting carnations outdoors is not indulged in here, which in this case was pure luck for the grower, as there is a shortage of carnation plants now.

Various Notes.

Sam Lundy is still at Mercy hospital, where he was taken May 4 to undergo a major operation. His many friends will be delighted to know that he is able to sit up now and is feeling much better.

Florists who were in the army are rapidly returning from overseas and for the most part are taking their old positions. R. C. Nesbitt and Lyle Stone are again at the Crown Hill Greenhouses. Charles Willmore has resumed his work, assisting his father at the dahlia farm. C. Dunsmore, Waldo Kerl and Mr. Western have also returned to Denver.

Holly Zaleman has bought the Columbine Greenhouses, at 1901 South Logan, which have been operated for several years by Theodore Laken. Mr. Zaleman takes possession July 1, and is going to grow carnations and a general line of pot plants, in which endeavor he ought to have success, as he has grown pot plants for the Park Floral Co. for about ten years. Mr. Laken will devote his entire time to his store at the loop. R. S.

A Glazing Putty of Real Value

In all our experience and investigation we had never found a preparation for bulbing over the outside of a greenhouse that was quite satisfactory, until we ran across PERMANITE. This was about four years ago. At that time we set about investigating the merits of PERMANITE and proceeded to watch the results of its application to greenhouse roofs.

Last year we were entirely convinced of its high quality and durability, and accepted the western agency for the sale of these goods.

We applied PERMANITE to hundreds of greenhouse roofs, over almost every part of the United States.

The results obtained were highly satisfactory indeed. Glass roofs of all kinds, both old and new, were made water-tight and air-tight, saving thousands of plants from being spoiled by water dripping on them and saving many hundreds of tons of coal by making the roofs proof against the wind and storms of winter.

We give PERMANITE our unqualified endorsement and recommend it highly for all kinds of glazing.

We have a very large stock on hand in our warehouse and can ship immediately.

Greenhouse Heating

Subscribers are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

A DISMANTLED GREENHOUSE.

I have bought a dismantled greenhouse of the size designated in the enclosed sketch, with 500 feet of 1½-inch pipe and the Boynton Patriot water boiler, No. 424. I wish to know whether a boiler of that capacity will heat the house when the outside temperature is 30 degrees below zero. What is the best way to install the piping?

C. W. J.—N. Y.

The sketch accompanying the letter shows that the proposed house is 17x47, with eighteen inches of glass in each of the side walls. There will be three benches, each four feet wide, and two walks, each with a width of two feet. The side walls have a height of four feet. The letter does not indicate the temperature desired, but if the house is to be used for growing carnations and similar crops, with no occasion for maintaining more than 50 degrees in the severest weather, we would advise about 400 square feet of radiation.

We are not familiar with the rating of the Boynton Patriot boiler, but for a house of the foregoing size, under the conditions mentioned, we would use a boiler rated for at least 500 square feet of radiation. While the size of the grate for a boiler of that capacity varies widely, we would prefer a diameter of about twenty inches.

The 500 feet of 1½-inch pipe will provide only 250 square feet of radiation and 100 additional feet will be required, besides the radiation which will be supplied by the flow pipes, of which there should be three 2-inch. Run one of these at each plate and the other two feet under the ridge. The 600 lineal feet of 1½-inch return pipes should be arranged in three coils, one being under each bench, and each coil should be connected with one of the flow pipes at the south end of the house. Thirteen runs of pipe will be available, and we would place five in each side coil and use three returns in the coil under the middle bench.

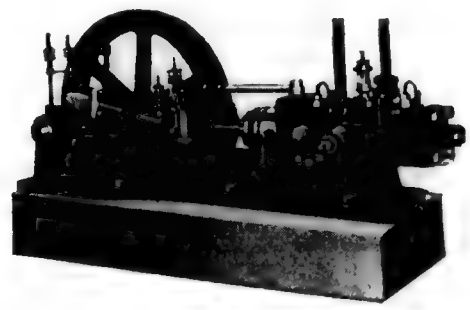
The flow pipes may be connected directly with the boiler, or a 3-inch main flow pipe may be used and the 2-inch flows may be connected with it near the north end of the house. Attach the pipe leading to the expansion tank at the highest point of the system and give the flow pipes an even fall of three or four inches. The same size and arrangement of pipes should be used for connecting the returns to the boiler as has been suggested for the flows. The coils should have a slope of about four inches toward the north end of the house.

If a temperature of 60 degrees is desired in weather 30 degrees below zero, we would use three 2½-inch flow pipes

COMMERCIAL FLOWER GROWERS OF CHICAGO

Greetings:

THE post-war revival of business is a most healthful sign of conservative optimism and is reflected in every institution that builds for the present in order to provide for the future.



THE Commercial Flower Growers of Chicago and adjoining localities with whom it has been our privilege to transact business for some years past, are among the progressive institutions showing unmistakable signs of renewed energy after a period of somewhat abated prosperity due to restrictions in coal and other essentials.

WITH the awakening of spring demands, the Cut Flower Grower comes to the front with a united personnel in the name of the COMMERCIAL FLOWER GROWERS OF CHICAGO and takes his place among the reliable commercial organizations.

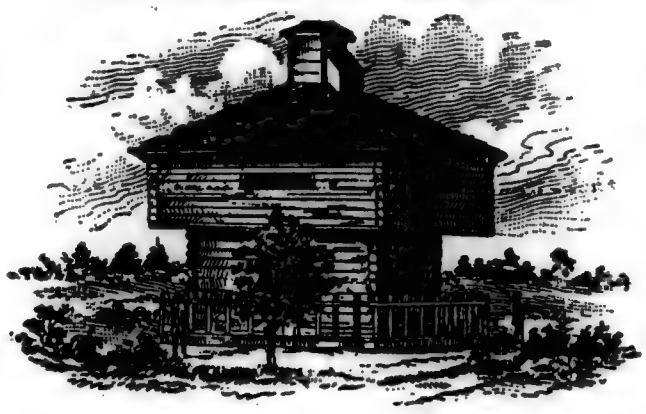
KROESCHELL BROS. CO., though perhaps not the first, is nevertheless not the least in its expression of a sincere welcome to the newly organized association. Our past relation with the individual members is a sure guarantee of the present and future co-operation in the advancement of the organization.

OUR relations with the Cut Flower Producer have made us privileged students of his efforts for advancement and development. In a practical way we have been permitted to offer such aid as our business restrictions will permit and our association with the Cut Flower Grower has been the most helpful and cordial at all times.

TO the end that the new organization may realize in a full measure all its objects and aims, Kroeschell Bros. Co. extends its sincere greeting and offers its practical aid in any effort to promote the general welfare and prosperity of the Association.

HEATING and COOLING are two branches of engineering on which we specialize for the greenhouse trade.

Over thirty years have been devoted by us to the construction and designing of boilers and refrigerating apparatus.



During this period we have furnished and installed heating and cooling systems for the most successful greenhouse men in this country.

When in need of refrigeration investigate the Kroeschell System—its high efficiency and low cost of operation place the Kroeschell System of Refrigeration in the foremost rank for greenhouse use. Our System of Refrigeration and Cooling is easily installed—perfect control of temperature and absolute safety insured—no ammonia used for this system.

and sixteen 1½-inch returns. There would then be six pipes in each side coil and four pipes in the coil under the middle bench. The boiler under these conditions should also be twenty-five per cent larger than the one already suggested.

PIPING TWO ROSE HOUSES.

We are enclosing a drawing of a new greenhouse that we are building. The walls are concrete to a height of four feet. There will be no side glass; the sashbars will rest directly on the concrete walls. The house is 50x104 and will contain seven raised benches and one solid bed. The solid bed is at the right, as indicated in the drawing. The sashbars will be twenty-eight feet long.

This house is piped with one 2-inch flow and two 2-inch returns for each bench. Is that sufficient piping? We wish to disconnect this house from the rest of the old houses and add it to the new house. What size of Kroeschell boiler will be required to heat the two houses to a temperature for growing roses? The outside temperature in this vicinity seldom drops below zero; the average temperature is 22 degrees for about forty days.

How many flows and returns should be placed in the new house and what is the best system of arranging the pipes? If we run the pipes under the benches there will be eighteen inches of fall for the flows and returns. In other words, there will be eighteen inches of fall in 104 feet. B. F. C.—Ida.

The amount of piping and the size of boiler required for heating the two houses described will depend upon the number of nights in which the temperature is likely to drop to zero during the winter. If this happens only on two or three nights, it will probably answer if the piping is planned for 10 degrees above zero, and then when it drops to zero a little extra attention will suffice to keep up the temperature in the houses. Under these conditions the piping in the house forty-one feet in width would be sufficient, but two or three additional returns will be needed if a zero night temperature is of frequent occurrence and only ordinary attention is given.

For the house fifty feet in width we would use a 2½-inch flow upon each plate to supply a coil upon each wall. In addition we would use three 2½-inch overhead flows, placing one under the ridge and the others about halfway down the sashbars. Use each of these overhead flow pipes to supply the coils under two benches. Each of these coils should consist of two 2-inch returns. There should be three 2½-inch pipes in each of the wall coils.

The difference in the length of the houses gives them practically the same amount of exposed glass, and for 60 degrees about 1,700 square feet of radiation will be required for each house. To heat the two houses we would select a hot water boiler rated for at least 4,000 square feet of radiation, especially if soft coal is to be used.

There is no occasion for allowing more than one inch of fall for ten feet, and one inch of fall in twenty feet will answer if care is taken in grading the pipes so that air pockets will be avoided. It is advisable to keep the returns as high as possible, unless considerably above the top of the boiler.

CINCINNATI.

The Market.

Business is slow and does not nearly take up the receipts, which are heavy and have brought on a glut in the market. Besides heavy cuts of indoor stock, the outdoor cut is also heavy. The demand from out of town holds up fairly well, although it has let down somewhat the last fortnight.

The rose supply is heavy and includes many fancy blooms. Carnations, too, are in good supply, but a great many of them are of rather poor quality. Some Easter lilies are again available. Rubrums and callas may be had. The sweet pea cut is limited. Gladioli are fairly plentiful and, relatively speaking, meet with a better demand than anything else in the market. Lily of the valley sells fairly well. Outdoor offerings include cornflowers, coreopsis, candytuft and feverfew.

Fisher Automatic Air Trap Type 30.

Fisher Steam Trap Type 33.

Which One Do You Need?

If yours is a hot water system you need Fisher Air Trap Type 30. Air retards the flow of water. It will get in and no system can work up to top efficiency until the air is expelled.

Fisher Air Trap Type 30 is an infallible method of relieving a main of air. One of them placed at the highest point will keep an entire system free of air. No greenhouse operating on hot water can afford to be without it.

Fisher Steam Trap Type 33 is a necessity in all steam heating systems. It eliminates condensate rapidly. It keeps steam hot and dry—insures the maximum of radiation.

The Fisher Steam Trap is trouble-proof. There is no complicated construction. And its capacity is so large that one may serve where two ordinary traps would be required.

Let us send you catalogue bulletins fully describing these two traps and other Fisher Greenhouse Economizers.

June weddings are now furnishing considerable work for local florists. There have been many of them within the last two weeks. Graduations have also added to the volume of business done, although the sales are but a tithe of what they used to be, as most of the public schools forbid the public presentation of flowers at graduating exercises now. Such flowers as are sold in connection with public school graduations are sent to the houses of the graduates. There is still some business in connection with parochial and Hebrew schools and private institutions. Prices of flowers, although a little lower than they were last week, are still high. Transient trade is small, owing to the fact that so many people are beginning to have flowers in their own gardens.

Various Notes.

Philips Bros., 938 Broad street, have purchased a new Dodge delivery automobile, which they had repainted and lettered in their own color and style. It presents a neat and attractive appearance. Business is reported excellent, with much wedding work, at the present time.

The Rosary Floral Co. has had an appropriate summer window display, which attracted much attention. Half of the window is taken up with a pool of water, in the center of which is a cobblestone fountain. About the pool is a pebbled shore. Three live goslings swim in the water or amble about on the shore. The whole display has a pine-tree background. R. B. M.

The Market.

June is the month of weddings and commencements and all have been busy in these lines, both in the cities and towns. Practically all commencements come inside of two weeks, and so there has been an unusual rush for roses, which has absorbed the supply.

Carnations have been abundant, ranging from $1 to $5. Peonies, missing on Memorial day, are to be had by the hundreds at your own price. These are of good quality, but sell poorly because of their abundance. Yards are full of them. Gladioli are becoming more plentiful, and are holding up well at from $8 to $20. Snapdragons are scarce. More Easter lilies are appearing to take the place of the callas that have gone. Delphiniums have put in their appearance and are most welcome. The spikes are fine and sell well. Gypsophila is also a welcome newcomer. Daisies are fairly abundant and sell well.

Various Notes.

The Shriners' convention, held here last week, brought thousands of visitors to the city. All the hotels were jammed, and private homes filled. It is estimated that over a million and a half dollars were left in the city. All was in gala dress for the occasion. The local florists decorated for the occasion and intermingled with flowers were "Welcome" placards, flags and emblems.

The Pahud Floral Co. has bought another automobile.

E. E. Temperley made a business trip to Chicago to make plans for erecting another greenhouse this summer.

T. D. Hepler has been at Detroit on business.

O. E. Steinkamp, as a member of the gatling gun squad, and E. E. Temperley, as a member of the patrol, helped entertain the Shriners last week.

Irwin Bertermann has just returned from Detroit, where he had a fine time. His firm was busy with decorations for the Shriners' activities. Bertermann Bros. Co. will auction off their seven greenhouses on East Washington street June 14. E. E. T.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

Early June, as usual, is experiencing the inevitable glut intervening between Memorial day and the weddings of the month. The market is loaded down with flowers for which there is absolutely no demand, the hot weather of the last ten days having developed blooms of all varieties much more rapidly than they can be disposed of even at the minimum prices. Considering the abnormally hot and dry weather of the early season, products of all kinds are of fair variety.

The prices of roses remain about the same as they were last week. Of the bunched flowers, calendulas are 20 cents; snapdragons, $1 and $1.50; yellow daisies, $2 and $3, and Spanish iris, $6 and $8.

Various Notes.

The A. W. Smith Co. has opened a charmingly appointed little branch shop at the corner of Penn avenue and Stanwix street, which is in charge of Miss Margaret Burns, who had been at the main store for several years.

Roderick Campbell, formerly superintendent of the Greenlawn cemetery at Syracuse, N. Y., has joined the landscape department of the A. W. Smith Co. and will have charge of the cemetery work. He spent last week in Ohio.

Segt. Ralph F. Pinner, formerly manager of the landscape department, did not return last week with the ambulance train of the 80th Division, but remained in France to complete a course of landscape work at Clermont-Ferrand. Mr. Pinner expects to return to the United States next month, and later will resume his former work.

Louis F. B. West has returned from Philadelphia, much improved after five weeks' treatment for his injured spine.

Immediately following his discharge at Camp Dix, announcement was made of the engagement of Segt. Edward Earl Ludwig to Miss Jane McDaniel, of Wilkinsburg, Pa. The wedding is to be in October. Sergeant Ludwig is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Ludwig, and before enlisting in Ambulance Company 112, of the 28th Division, was manager of the farm of the E. C. Ludwig Co., at Ludwig Station, near Mars, Pa.

Frank Smoller has received his honorable discharge at Camp Dix, and is now having a good rest before returning to

The Market.

During the week a novel condition existed—a condition reminding one of old days, when all one had to do was to wait until he got orders and then go down and select what he needed. Cut flowers of all descriptions were more than plentiful. The cool and dark weather had been so prolonged as to retard the crops. With the sudden extremely hot and bright days, everything came on at once. The cuts of carnations and roses have been surprising. Their quality is exceptionally good for the time of year, but will no doubt weaken if the hot days continue. Sweet peas are also good, but their keeping quality is poor, much of the stock spoiling over night. The weather for the last few days has been extremely hot.

Various Notes.

James Pickleman has a new car, in which he expects to make a trip to Syracuse, where he will remain for a week.

Frank J. Baum has rented a piece of land, on which he is planting stock geraniums. During the fall he will furnish the trade with a quantity of young potted stock.

All shops are busy filling wedding orders. All report the largest wedding business in their history. The orders are not only plentiful but all average high in value.

The Use of Federal Greenhouse Cement is a

GUAR=  ANTEE

of Freedom from Trouble

Picture yourself up on the top of your greenhouse in winter, with the temperature below zero, trying to stop a break, a leak which is mighty stubborn in resisting your best efforts; then and be assured that you will have no trouble whatsoever during the entire winter.

Decide to use Federal Greenhouse Cement

In Federal Greenhouse Cements you will find the acme of perfection—you will wonder how you ever got along with the inferior cements.

We make the following Black Greenhouse Cements:

Federal Greenhouse Cement No. 1.—Thick paste consistency, especially adapted for use on metal, slate, composition and other roofs, and for effecting general repairs. Some florists use this consistency for glazing, although it is rather hard to apply, because it works stiff. It can be handled fairly well, however, in the greenhouse gun.

Federal Greenhouse Cement No. 2, or Regular.—A medium thick consistency. We consider this the ideal consistency for glazing work, not too thick nor too thin. Can be used in greenhouse gun, putty bulb, or other instruments. Those who prefer a slightly thinner consistency can thin with Federal Special Greenhouse Thinner.

Federal Greenhouse Cement No. 3.—Semi-liquid consistency, especially adapted for lining gutters, etc. Last year we sent out this consistency for glazing work in general, and many florists prefer it. It of course works very easy in the putty bulb. We believe it is a little too thin for glazing, and consider No. 2 better.

Federal Greenhouse Cement No. 4.—Made on a different base, from the products of wood distillation. This cement is similar—in fact identical with certain competing brands of greenhouse cement on the market. Some florists prefer this base. We do not consider it nearly as permanent as No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3.

Federal Greenhouse Cement No. 5 and No. 6.—Respectively paste and semi-liquid, made on a gilsonite base. Very quick setting and efficient; preferred by carnation and rose growers, but not quite as good for general work as No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3.

Federal Greenhouse Thinner, in 10, 5 and 1-gallon cans, is an excellent article to keep on hand to restore cement not used at once, to just the consistency that you like, in case the cement thickens somewhat.

BUSINESS BRINGERS—REVIEW CLASSIFIED AD

ROOTED CUTTINGS.

Wietor Bros., Chicago, are famous as suppliers of Chrysanthemum cuttings. For many years the largest growers of cut mums for the Chicago market, their stock includes only varieties of proved commercial value. For many years hundreds of other florists have each season obtained their young stock from Wietor's and never been disappointed. We have an immense stock, but it is wise to order early.

PANSIES—Continued.

The picture of my place, showing the Pansy beds, on Page 14 of last week's Review, shows some of my Pansy seed beds at the Pansy Gardens. This Ozark Mammoth Strain is a combination of Steele's Greenhouse Special, Diener's Ruffled Giganteum and the best of the Kenilworth and many other strains. There is not a plant in this strain from which I gathered seed that I paid less than $7.00 to $15.00 per ounce for the seed, and while this is the third year I have been growing Pansy seed for the market, I have been growing Pansies for wholesale and retail for 16 years. While you may pay more for your Pansy plants and seeds from firms that have been long established, there is yet plenty to be learned about the Pansies, and don't get it into your head that this red blood of America won't bring great improvements yet in plant strains.

Our prices are as follows: Seedlings, 4 to 6 leaves, $4.00 per 1000, prepaid by P. P., of the following strains: Ozark Mammoth Strain, Steele's Greenhouse Special and Steele's Private Strain; seed of the Ozark Mammoth Strain, 1 oz., $5.00; 2 oz., $9.00; 3 oz., $12.50; 4 oz., $16.00. Special prices on large quantities. There is absolutely no Trimardeau in this strain. Our prices are cash with order.

WHEN WILL FLORISTS FLY?

Will the Chicago wholesale florists make deliveries to outlying towns by the newly established air service already advertised by a large firm of tailors? How soon will the salesmen for the florists' supply houses make their calls on the trade with an air "flivver?"

An American aviator crossed the Atlantic for the first time, but the only announcement of one of the trade employing an aeroplane comes from across the water. Boulton & Paul, greenhouse builders, at Norwich, England, who turned over their plant to the manufacture of aeroplanes during the war, have continued an aircraft branch even after resuming their former activity. Not only have they entered a biplane for the London Daily Mail's $50,000 prize in the transatlantic flight, but they have actually commenced using one of their two-seater machines as a vehicle for one of their sales managers.

Some of the largest importers of cut flowers from the continent, it is reported, are already making inquiries as to the possibilities of aerial transport, and Boulton & Paul may before long build aeroplanes as well as greenhouses for the trade in the British Isles.

IN DEFENSE OF SENTIMENT.

When the Chicago florists provided hundreds of dollars' worth of flowers to be strewn before the parading soldiers of the 33d Division, just returned from France, last week, someone with more frugality than imagination had to spread a little gloom by bemoaning such ill-placed generosity. The prompt defense and praise of the florists' act by a reader in the next day's Daily News impressed John Poehlmann. Here it is:

FLOWERS FOR SOLDIERS.

"L. B." wrote: "The idea of strewing flowers for the boys of the 33d Division to walk on is most absurd." "L. B." undoubtedly wrote without thought, as many people are likely to write. The floral offering to the heroes of the 33d Division was a gift from the florists of Chicago, who wished to show a beautiful sentiment at the home-coming of these men.

Chicago florists have been extremely patriotic throughout the war. Their record is 100 per cent plus in the purchase of Liberty bonds, while they gave liberally of flowers during the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. drives—to be sold for the benefit of those societies, which have done so much good during the last four years.

"L. B." must be one who does not believe in sentiment. He forgets that life is largely sentiment. Sentiment makes values in real estate and in nearly all items of personal property. "L. B." says: "I think instead of flowers the people should give the boys jobs." He doesn't stop to consider that the magnanimity of the florists of Chicago in presenting flowers to the returning soldiers creates a grand sentiment and that sentiment helps to arouse a determination among Chicago citizens to see that the returning soldiers are provided with jobs.

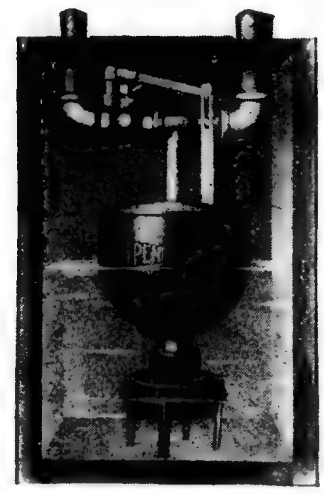
Do You Need These Helpers?

Coal Pile Watch Dog

WHEN a vacuum valve isn't "working just right," it is losing your money.

On the keeping of a constant vacuum depends the economy of the vacuum system.



It's costly business, guessing your valves are working all right. Test them up. Make sure.

When one is worn out, get new parts at once, or an out-and-out new valve.

What they cost is nothing in comparison to what they save.

We have tried any number of kinds; failed to find any that stands wear and tear like this one.

See page 140 new Handy Hand Book.

Automatic Cellar Drainer

WORKS whether your men are on the job or not.

Never oversleeps. Never forgets.

Never lets a lot of water get in before it starts starting it out.

Uses no steam. Costs nothing to operate.

Just connect it to your water supply pipes, and in a seemingly mysterious way, it uses the water to pump out the water, keeping your cellar dry as a chip.

Costs surprisingly little for the lot it does.

For full description see page 153 of new Handy Hand Book.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

FUEL MEN FEAR FAMINE

Facts inevitably point to a short supply and higher prices of coal next fall. Consideration of the factors that govern the market and prices of coal produces the general opinion among fuel authorities that the only safe course, in order to be sure of next winter's supply, is to buy coal now.

COAL in the bins left over from last winter's supply has induced greenhouse men, as well as other large consumers, to put off contracting for next season's supply, in the hope that, with the signing of peace and the restoration of business equilibrium, prices might undergo a reduction. Such wariness was in accord with the general anticipation that the change from war to peace basis would bring down somewhat the prices that have been soaring skyward in the last three and four years. But the seven months which have passed since the armistice was signed have shown, each one more clearly than its predecessor, that such hope was vain. Prices show no tendency to go downward, and the combination of increased industrial activity and the shortage of labor from greatly diminished immigration has produced a situation that indicates the aggravation rather than the amelioration of war-time conditions.

Production Behind.

Figures supplied by C. E. Lesher, chief of the United States Geological Survey, who is working with the fuel administration, show that during the first five months of this year only 178,000,000 tons of coal were min d. In the same period last year, production was 232,000,000 tons. The nation is already short, the coal experts say, 48,000,000 tons.

Dr. Harry A. Garfield, of the United States fuel administration, estimates that 530,000,000 tons are needed for 1919. Of this, 30,000,000 tons are supplied by the accumulated stocks of last year. There remain 500,000,000 tons to be produced this year. Of that amount, only 178,000,000 tons have been mined. There are yet 322,000,000 tons to be produced. "That means," says Dr. Garfield, "an average production of 10,700,000 tons weekly. But our present average is only 8,200,000. At this rate it is believed we will be down to a week-to-week consumption by August or September."

The labor outlook affords no reason for belief that production figures can be bettered. Miners are recruited, more than any other force of workers, from immigration. The tide which formerly swept to this country from southeastern Europe furnished material in abundance. The influx was continuous, and as fast as the miners progressed and went into other industries, other immigrants were ready to fill their places.

Not so now. The high tide of immigration of over 1,000,000 a year between 1910 and 1915 shrank to 100,000 in 1918, and the record for 1919 promises little more. Compared to previous years, the period 1915 to 1919 shows a loss of approximately 5,000,000 immigrants. Compilation of figures indicates that this year about 40,000 foreigners, who have saved much money in the recent period of high wages, will return to their home countries. Let it be remembered that Europe, too, has lost heavily in man power. Those who were killed or died of wounds in the war number nearly 8,000,000. As many again are disabled. In addition are heavy civilian losses. The freedom of Poland, Czecho-Slovakia and other similar nationalities opens opportunities at home for those who in former years were accustomed to seek them here. It is doubtful if immigration will reach the million mark again for many years.

The army and navy still holds about 1,000,000 men from the labor field. New industries, such as shipbuilding, have claimed 500,000 men. Colonel Wood, of the War Department Employment Bureau, estimates that "American labor is short its usual complement by nearly 7,000,000 men." In such a situation, increased mine production cannot be looked for.

Freight Rates May Go Up.

Increase in railroad freight rates, expected soon, will also push up the price of coal. Director-General Hines, of the railroad administration, says the rise of 51 to 52 per cent in the wages of railroad employees during the last year justifies an addition to the present rates. The government faces a constantly growing deficit in operating the railroads. Senator Cummins, who will be chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, has prepared a program that provides for an increase of freight rates by July 1. Samuel O. Dunn, editor of Railway Age, who is regarded as an authority in his field, declares that an

FIVE FUEL FACTORS

Rail rates to go up 15%.

Labor short 7,000,000 men.

High prices held up by labor.

Freight car shortage threatened.

Production 48,000,000 tons behind.

J. D. A. MORROW,

Director of Fuel Distribution,
Says:

"Within the next year we shall lose 40,000 immigrants, who will return to Europe. The mines gave up 100,000 men to the army and navy, and these men will never return to the mines. Meanwhile there has been no immigration, upon which the mining industry depends for men. We face one of the most serious shortages of labor in the whole history of mining. My advice to the public is to buy coal while there is still an opportunity."

DR. HARRY A. GARFIELD,

United States Fuel Administrator,
Says:

"I feel bound to say that we are likely to experience a coal famine in the early fall. I warn the apartment house owners, the home dwellers and factory proprietors to buy coal now. In August, or the autumn, it will be too late. A big shortage is coming. Thousands of miners are going back to Europe. Coal production has fallen off considerably, and a shortage of many million tons looks probable. My advice to the public is to buy coal right away."

increase of 15 per cent is necessary to maintain the railroads. Only so can the operating expenses be met. It seems sure that higher freight rates will increase the price of coal by autumn.

From another direction, railroad transportation threatens to cause trouble to coal buyers next fall. Last year, under war regulation, coal was given the right of way, as a matter of necessity. Next winter coal, without such preference, will have to take its chance with other commodities. Great industrial activity—the added output to make up for war's repression in manufactured lines—will create a heavy strain on transportation facilities. Exports are going to be large. But there are only so many freight cars in the country. Under such pressure, a scarcity is bound to result, and late coal buyers will feel it heavily.

Solution Is Early Buying.

There is, however, a way out of that difficulty. Coal can be shipped during the summer. The buyer who takes time by the forelock and stores his coal now, is going to dodge a lot of trouble on this score.

The demand for coal is, of course, bound to surpass any previous record. War restrictions and regulations are off. Industries that were skimped last year, will make up for it this year. Nobody—home-dweller, apartment house owner, manufacturer, office building proprietor—is going to be so sparing as he was last year. High rents, high wages, high prices—the general presence of money—induces free spending, particularly after the enforced economy of war time is over.

We can only agree with the authorities who warn us of the certainty of higher prices for coal next fall and the probability of a shortage, possibly severe, in the fuel supply. Low production, the shortage of labor, the contemplated increase of railroad freight rates, the possibility of a freight car famine, the unprecedented demand—the arguments advanced are all sound ones, backed up by convincing facts.

One way out of the difficulty is offered. In view of the present soft market, caused by the postponement of orders by those running on stocks left from last winter, prices can be obtained that are sure to represent a saving in contrast with what one will have to pay by autumn or winter. One saves, too, the increase in transportation cost that is sure to come when rates go up. And, no matter what happens next fall, coal can be delivered in the summer, before the grain crops move, and before the rush of business activity that cold weather brings. Yes, the best thing to do is to take Dr. Garfield's, Mr. Morrow's, Secretary Wilson's and the fuel men's advice, and buy coal now.

19-CENT ROSES

CHICAGO RETAILERS AROUSED.

Seek to Awaken the Growers.

By direct appeal to the growers as the chief sufferers, the Chicago Retail Florists' Association hopes to correct conditions which so far have proved impossible to remedy by other means so long as the present system of marketing cut flowers is continued.

"How do you like to have your product cheapened by being used as bargain bait to call the people into department stores?" That was the question put directly to the growers at a meeting to which they had been invited, at the Randolph hotel, Chicago, June 17. The answer was unanimous: They did not relish it at all.

What Started It.

The meeting was the result of an advertising stunt pulled off recently by one of the largest low-price department stores in Chicago. The managers are shrewd; they don't cheapen their regular lines of merchandise by selling at ridiculous prices, but when they get a chance to pick up some other fellows' line in such a way that it can be sold for a day or two without regard for values, they jump on it like a kitten on a June bug. That is what happened in Chicago. The store in question found someone who was worrying under a heavy load of flowers and bought a huge quantity, advertising them more extensively than ever before has been done, with a scare head clear across a page ad in a widely circulated evening paper, "Fine fresh Roses, 19 cents a dozen!" It doubtless was all the better in the eyes of the department store manager that the public has become accustomed to paying $2 to $4 per dozen for roses in the flower stores.

Not many regular flower buyers stood in the line at the bargain counter, perhaps, but it certainly did more than anything else that has happened this spring to depress the wholesale prices of flowers, for how could the retailers compete unless they, too, bought cheaply?

Getting Together.

Perhaps seventy-five growers and retailers attended the meeting called to consider the situation. Some of the commission men had pleaded the impossibility of destroying stock sent to them to sell, declaring that their business lives depended on getting for the owners of the flowers as much, or whatever, money the conditions from day to day make possible. So the retailers appealed to the growers to keep their stock off the bargain counters of the department stores, to take individual action if collective action is impossible. They were urged to follow the lead of Weiss & Meyer Co., Maywood, this rose growing concern having announced last week, in a full-page advertisement in The Review, that its commission house had been instructed not to sell the Weiss & Meyer roses to any others than recognized retail florists.

President L. R. Bohannon, of the Retail Florists' Association, occupied the chair. He emphasized the point that the traditional trade antagonisms are buried and that the purpose is to work out something which will benefit all branches of the trade, one the same as the others. President Bohannon called on George Asmus, George Wienhoeber and O. J. Friedman to describe the retailers' situation and right there one of the most remarkable facts developed. The retailers have become converts to high prices; they have discovered that they make more money selling roses at $3 a dozen than they do at $1.50. Each of the three speakers approached the subject from a different angle, but all agreed that good prices make flower selling a real business, while 19-cent bargains to attract people within sight of other merchandise make progress hopeless for any class of florists. They agreed, also, that the trade can advertise flowers and develop the business for florists if prices afford room for profit, but that it is a waste of money to urge the public to "Say It with Flowers" while the popular estimate of values is based on department store bargain advertising.

All Others Agree.

August F. Poehlmann, president of the Chicago Wholesale Cut Flower Association and himself a large grower, spoke in general agreement with the ideas of the retailers, but pointed out the difficulty of getting coöperative action where so many men of many minds are concerned. John Poehlmann emphasized his belief that the greatest harm is done all branches of the trade by letting department stores advertise themselves with our merchandise and advocated giving away whatever surplus develops rather than letting outside parties use it against us.

Joseph Kohout, president of the recently organized Commercial Flower Growers' Association, was called on to speak for that body and deplored the difficulty of obtaining coöperation between the large number of men in the business, each of whom now goes it alone. He said the growers' association at its meeting June 19 has for its subject the Milwaukee plan of raising advertising funds. Walter Amling, secretary of the growers' organization, said it now numbers sixty-eight members, with over eight million feet of glass and an investment exceeding $5,000,000.

Others called on for views, who talked briefly, were Arthur Blome, H. N. Bruns and J. W. Rodgers, the latter of Dayton, O., who said the florists of his city annually buy $100,000 of cut flowers in the Chicago market and who suggested that if the growers had a more exact knowledge of the cost of growing flowers it might help solve some of the hardest marketing problems.

Who Has Workable Plan?

H. B. Howard suggested that the system of selling each grower's stock on its merits is a bar to maintaining a minimum market price and the disposal of the surplus by other methods. He offered the thought that if the principal growers could agree to have their wholesaler pool the day's receipts on some equitable plan in time of glut it might then be possible for the wholesalers to cease cutting under each other whenever the market is overstocked. President Bohannon said he had thought of a plan on similar lines, whereby the various interests could pool the surplus under the direction of a manager whose duty it would be to sell it, cheaply if need be, where it would be used, but not resold.

As the continued discussion seemed likely to accomplish no more than to afford a vent for pent up feelings, a motion was made and carried referring the department store and all related questions to a join meeting of the executive boards of the three organizations, growers', wholesalers' and retailers', who will meet June 24.

PEONY GROWERS MEET

THE ANNUAL "CONVENTION."

Officers Elected.

At the annual business meeting of the American Peony Society, held at Detroit during the evening of June 17, the following officers were elected:

President—Lee R. Bonnewitz, amateur, of Van Wert, O.

Vice-president—Arthur H. Fewkes, professional, Newton Highlands, Mass., reëlected.

Secretary—Prof. A. P. Saunders, scientific breeder, Clinton, N. Y., reelected.

Treasurer—A. H. Scott, amateur, Oak Lane, Pa., reëlected.

On invitation of Ex-President B. H. Farr, it was voted to hold the 1920 meeting at Reading, Pa., at the height of the season at Mr. Farr's nursery at the neighboring town of Wyomissing, where, Mr. Farr said, he would be able to show thirty acres of 5-year-old plants. Many of those who heard him had not supposed such a stock exists anywhere in the world and they agreed it will be worth seeing.

An Informal Affair.

"Convention" is almost too formal a word to describe a meeting of the Peony Society. It was a gathering of a couple of dozen enthusiasts, amateur and professional, to talk their hobby. President Boyd was absent and Vice-president Fewkes occupied the chair. Treasurer Scott also was unable to come, but sent his report. Secretary Saunders showed a gain of forty members since the Cleveland meeting a year ago.

The federal quarantine, shutting out peonies, was denounced. The society already had sent its protest to Washington.

Visitors.

The following were the visitors from out of town:

Baumann, Jacob, Birmingham, Mich.
Bonnewitz, L. R., wife and daughter, Van Wert, Ohio.

THE PEONY EXHIBITION.

A Splendid Display.

When the Detroit florists put their shoulders to the wheel, as they always do for trade affairs and as they did at the late date that Lee R. Bonnewitz called their attention to the opportunity the Peony Society offered, there is a show which enthuses the people of that flower-loving city. President J. F. Sullivan, of the Detroit Florists' Club, took charge and the arrangements were ideal. The show was staged in the hall of the Board of Commerce building and attracted thousands of visitors.

As an exhibition of peonies it never has been excelled. There were about 5,000 blooms set up the first day and a considerable quantity of late arrivals were added the second day. The flowers had traveled unusually well and for quality the show was considered the best of the seventeen the society has held.

Peonies by the Carload.

No exhibitor ever made an effort to compare with the enterprise of T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co., of West Newbury, Mass. This concern paid $277 for the use of a refrigerated express car in which to bring 2,000 blooms to the show. In addition, they put into the car eight tons of ice at their own expense. But the result was the flowers traveled perfectly and the prize list shows the Thurlow name in many places. As the date was a little early for West Newbury, a second express shipment of 1,000 blooms came after the judging and was added to the general display for the second day.

The Thurlows were the largest commercial exhibitors, but B. H. Farr, of Wyomissing, Pa.; D. W. C. Ruff, of St. Paul, and Albert Pochelon, of the Bemb Floral Co., Detroit, each showed well.

The semi-professional growers, those who have large collections and large stocks, ran the commercial men a close race in the open classes. Lee R. Bonnewitz and Prof. A. P. Saunders were large exhibitors and for general interest their blooms were a feature of the show. Another amateur who was well to the front was Wm. McClellan, of Saginaw.

A complete list of the exhibitors is as follows:

Mrs. Herman Schmidt, Detroit.
O. A. Risk, Cleveland.
Harvey Eckenbarry, Van Wert, O.
Rowancroft Gardens, Meadowvale, Ont.
Will McClellan, Saginaw, Mich.
Joseph A. Schulte, Detroit.
Alice Bonnewitz, Van Wert, O.
D. W. C. Ruff, St. Paul, Minn.
Prof. A. P. Saunders, Clinton, N. Y.
L. Bemb Floral Co., Detroit.
Dr. Neeley, Paulding, O.
Jacob Baumann, Birmingham, Mich.
Lee R. Bonnewitz, Van Wert, O.
B. H. Farr, Wyomissing, Pa.
T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co., West Newbury, Mass.
Mrs. Leonora Kudner, Lapeer, Mich.

Seedlings and Novelties.

Your real enthusiast is less interested in quality flowers of the older varieties than he is in the newer things and the seedlings at Detroit were a center of attraction. The new ones were principally from Prof. Saunders. His Grace McLean, which took the prize for the best undisseminated variety of American origin and also was given an award of merit, is a pink of promise by comparison with standard sorts. His Grace Loomis is a white of large size comparable with No. 35, the Shaylor peony which achieved fame last year by winning the long-standing Harding prize for an American peony "of outstanding merit." His Immortelle also was noteworthy. Mr. Farr had a good one in No. 6, receiving honorable mention.

Conspicuous varieties of recent American origin included Longfellow (Brand), Walter Faxon (Hollis) and Milton Hill (Richardson). E. B. Browning and Martha Bulloch, both Brand varieties, made new friends.

Jubilee (Pleas) and Lady Alexandra Duff (Kelway), top-notchers last year, did not show up so well in this exhibition.

Kelway's Glorious, white, among the Saunders exhibits, will be watched. It is well named. Another little known variety of distinct character is Solange, waxy white, with an overtone center variously described as reddish gold, Havana brown, or coffee tinted.

D. E. Weage, of Coldwater, Mich., attracted attention with a vase of Mikado, Japanese red.

Of the older varieties, M. Martin Cahuzac still stands as a challenge to the reds and M. Jules Elie holds its own among pinks.

For sheer perfection of flower Therese stood out in every collection and added to its steadily widening reputation as a choice exhibition pink.

mercial growers and amateurs, one open to "advanced" amateurs, as the hobbyists are called, and a separate group for the small amateurs.

The awards in the open classes were:

Collection of not more than 100 named varieties, one bloom of each—T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co., West Newbury, Mass., first, American Peony Society's gold medal; Lee R. Bonnewitz, Van Wert, O., second; B. H. Farr, third.

Vase or basket of peonies, not less than 100 blooms, arranged for effect—T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co., first; Bemb Floral Co., Detroit, second.

Collection of twenty-five varieties, double, three blooms of each—T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co., first; B. H. Farr, second.

Collection of single varieties, one bloom of each—T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co., first.

Twenty-five blooms, white or cream, double, one variety—T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co., first; B. H. Farr, second.

Specimen bloom, new seedling of American origin, not yet in commerce—Prof. A. P. Saunders, first, on Grace McLean.

Seedling varieties—Prof. A. P. Saunders, first-class certificate for Grace Loomis; B. H. Farr, honorable mention for Seedling No. 6.

Most artistic arrangement of not more than twenty-five peonies in vase, bowl or basket—Bemb Floral Co., Detroit, Mich., second.

Special prizes for three blooms each of specified American varieties—Prof. A. P. Saunders, four firsts on Walter Faxon, Grandiflora, Longfellow and Milton Hill; D. W. C. Ruff, St. Paul, Minn., second for Martha Bulloch.

The premiums for advanced amateurs were quite evenly divided between L. R. Bonnewitz and Prof. Saunders, but Will McClellan, Jacob Baumann and Mrs. Herman Schmidt also got into the money.

The genuine amateurs who took prizes were: Harry Eckenbarry, Van Wert, O.; Joseph A. Schulte, Detroit; Alice Bonnewitz, Van Wert, O., and Mrs. Leonora Kudner, Lapeer, Mich.

William A. Peterson, who was chairman of the board of judges, called attention that the official list of awards as given out by the society does not contain the names of the winning varieties, which deprives it of most of the value it might possess for interested persons not able to be present. His point was considered well taken and it was stated that the society's practice in this particular will be changed.

RETURN THE FAVOR.

Retailers are quick to forget the straits they were in last winter and the wonderful efforts put forth in their behalf by growers and wholesalers to supply them with flowers. Their obligation now is to the grower who furnished them merchandise last winter, and not to the backdoor gardeners, who have a few peonies or some daisies to sell at any price. This is a matter of moral obligation, which, in justice to our trade, should be given consideration. For the market must be kept normal if we are to prosper.

Why leave coöperation and reciprocity out of the flower business?

THE TRADE'S LABOR PROBLEM.

"What the trade needs, today, more than anything else is a body of capable young assistants. The only reason we have not got them is that we have been afraid to pay attractive wages."

The above paragraph, which appeared in The Review last week, is about as true as any remark one could make about this business. I should like to add that the hours of our business stop the average bright fellow. We lost a young man recently, who was attracted by the hours of the modern, well conducted business. He likes the florists' trade well enough and is glad to help us out by working extra hours occasionally, but when it came to working long hours regularly, he states that there is nothing doing. His salary increased beyond our scale; so there is no longer any chance of our getting him back. This happens every day, and with all due respect to the present members of the trade, we do not employ the ambitious, alert youths of the business world. Until we realize that the business will exist on ten hours a day and six days a week, these young fellows will seek other channels.

PEONY PARADISE IN KANSAS.

I am a florist and have traveled much over the United States, visiting various places of interest. This spring I dropped off at H. H. Kern's peony and iris fields just in time to find them at their best. In all my travels I never saw such splendid fields of peonies and irises. They are located at Bonner Springs, Kan., fifteen miles southwest of Kansas City, and cover about thirty-five acres in all. The flowers were the largest and most perfect I have ever seen, some being as large as a plate. There were many varieties, and the stock was clean, thrifty and true to name.

Mr. Kern's crop was both bountiful and beautiful this year and just in time for Memorial day. He furnished 65,000 cut peonies for the Memorial day market.

COAL TAR AND PLANT ROOTS.

In a recent issue of The Review was a reply to an inquiry from J. D.—Ill., which stated, "We would not put gas tar anywhere around a greenhouse," etc.

Regarding this, I should like to say that for thirty years and more I have painted greenhouse benches with coal tar, and have found that it prevents decay and does not in the least affect the roots of the plants. The tar should be put on hot, but before using it, all the pipes in the greenhouse should be covered with newspapers, and the men who are to handle it should put vaseline or lard on their faces, hands and arms. After the tar has dried, the benches should be whitewashed until no tar shows through. Of course, no plants should be left in the house where the tar is to be used.

The benches will last twice as long with the use of coal tar, and I would not consider filling a bench without first painting it with tar.

THAT HARDY BEGONIA AGAIN.

I was quite interested in the item on page 14 of The Review for May 29 by H. W. Peterson, concerning a hardy begonia.

For a long time I have had these begonias in a corner of my yard which does not receive any sunshine at all. The plant grows luxuriantly and blooms freely quite late in the fall, the flowers being of a beautiful silvery pink.

I have looked in every grower's catalog, trying to find the name of this begonia, but so far without success.

One sees much these days about flowers for shady places. Here is one which evidently does its best in the place the sunshine does not touch, and it seems strange that it has not been more widely exploited. Perhaps it is due to the fact that it does not reproduce itself with great freedom, but from the original four small tubers I had last winter a bed containing over fifty bulbs, and this in the space of six or seven years.

Since I was away from home last fall when the bed should have been given some covering, a number of the bulbs were destroyed by the winter, although it was unusually mild. However, I just now notice about a dozen or so little plants making their appearance, so that by fall I shall have another good start.

P. H. Bridge.

Replying to Mr. Peterson's inquiry about a hardy begonia, the one that he refers to is classed by Good & Reese Co. as Evansiana. In December, 1917, I was compelled to close down my greenhouse. I had a few of these tubers and put them under a bench, in a cigar box. There they remained all winter with scarcely any soil covering them and with a temperature of 28 degrees below zero; and, still, two of the bulbs grew.

Jay J. Utter.

In reference to the query of H. W. Peterson as to the name of the hardy begonia, from the description I should say it is B. Evansiana, which produces the small tubers in the axils of the leaves and is quite hardy. The common name that I have grown this under is "Beefsteak begonia."

Harry Johnson.

In a descriptive list of a great variety of begonias, the following is taken from the Horticulturist, edited by A. J. Downing, in the year 1846:

"Begonia discolor, two colored elephant's ear. This is a common species, with large, dark green, hairy leaves, red beneath, which is found in many parlor windows. It is an annual-stemmed plant, bearing large pink flowers, on a drooping panicle, from May to September. It is a native of China, and is also known by the names of B. Evansiana and B. bulbifera. It is sometimes called the beefsteak plant."

THE TALK OF TEXAS

Will Break All Records.

Plans are set for one of the greatest conventions the Texas State Florists' Association has ever held. It will be held in Austin, July 9 and 10. The reports coming in from every section of the state indicate that there will be several hundred florists in attendance.

Several reasons for believing that this convention will be the greatest on record are: The present year has been one of the most prosperous for florists and they feel like getting away from home, not only for educational purposes, but also for recreation. Texas is rapidly coming to her own in growing cut flowers. The progress along these lines for the last few years has been marvelous. Great activity in the building of greenhouses and other lines of expansion is anticipated. Florists naturally want to get together and talk over these plans.

A particularly big reason for a monster convention is the fact that the florists will be the guests of the Austin Florists' Club, one of the livest clubs in the state. They have laid plans to give their fellow tradesmen a great entertainment.

Indications are that there will be a record-smashing trade exhibition. Reservations are coming in from all over the country.

Secretary Urges Exhibits.

The fifth annual convention of the Texas State Florists' Association gives promise of being about the biggest event in the florists' fraternity in the state for some time. Letters are coming to the office of the secretary daily, which bring the assurance of much interest in the meeting and indicate a large attendance.

The Austin Florists' Club is making every preparation for the meeting, and they are going to leave nothing undone that will add to the success of the convention. The headquarters will be at the Driskel hotel and the meetings will be held at Scholtz Garden. Ample room has been provided for all trade exhibits and we are expecting a large number of exhibits from supply houses and greenhouse manufacturing concerns. We are urging the florists of the state to come to the convention to place their orders for supplies for the next season, and those who expect to work the state any time soon would do well to bring their exhibit to the convention, where they can meet the whole trade together. The program is so arranged that everyone will have time to examine all exhibits and give their orders for whatever they may need for the next year.

Hotel reservations will be made for any who will advise the secretary to make reservations for them. We advise those who will attend the convention to make reservation at hotel in advance, as the legislature will be in session at that time, and of course the hotel facilities of the city will be to some extent taken up.

The secretary will be glad to answer any inquiry or give any information.

WILL EXPRESS RATES RISE?

Outcome Depends on Government.

During the last few months, while the express companies have been under government operation, a deficit of approximately $1,000,000 a month has been recorded. Since the government is pledged to pay any losses sustained while the express companies are under its supervision, this loss comes out of the taxpayers' pockets. But with the possibility of the express service being returned to private hands, now that the telegraph lines have been practically turned over to the owners and the administration has announced its intention of returning the railroads, comes the question of whether the change of hands will be accompanied by a rise in rates. Some persons have hope that the resumption of normal shipping conditions will somewhat reduce the large deficit incurred in recent months. But it seems probable that the Interstate Commerce Commission will be appealed to to grant an increase in rates.

One Company or Four?

When the government took over the operation of the express companies, one large organization, the American Railway Express Co., was formed. The "Big Four"—the American, Adams, Southern and Wells-Fargo Express Companies—combined and took stock in the amalgamated agency. The properties of the Northern, Great Northern and West Express Companies were leased by them to the new combine.

The question that is largest in the express outlook is whether the administration will restore the companies as one merged organization, as it operates at present, or whether it will insist that they resume operations as separate agencies. The disposition of the companies seems to be strongly against splitting up the present combine. Their contention is that overhead expenses will be reduced by operating as a merged organization, and more efficient operation will be secured by a central control.

Expenses on the Increase.

Even if the companies resume operation in the present combination and under the most favorable conditions, expenses are likely to continue mounting. The raises granted thousands of workmen add to the deficit that has been so heavy during recent months. And since the cost of labor in all industries seems certain to continue high, and possibly higher if immigration is restricted during the coming year or two, the raises are more likely to continue than otherwise.

Whether "normal" conditions, on which some persons place their hopes of a return to old rates, or at least a profitable continuation of the present ones, will ever return, is a debatable question. One thing is sure, that whatever "normal" conditions may prove to be when they do arrive, they will not be pre-war conditions. Business men know that what we have to face are post-war conditions, and will continue to be post-war, and never pre-war conditions. We may as well forget the ante-bellum days, and study the situation of the present and the future.

F. T. D. ON NEW DIRECTORY.

To bring up to date the old directory of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, Secretary Albert Pochelon is busy compiling lists of towns and institutions served by members of the organization. The rapid growth of the association and the increased telegraphic business of the trade make the need for such a directory greater than before, and likewise make the labor of compiling the requisite information exceedingly large and arduous. Mr. Pochelon hopes, however, to further increase the wire delivery service by promoting its facility and promptness, and to that end devotes much effort to the improved directory.

BUCKEYE BULL'S-EYES

OLD EXPRESS CLAIMS.

Lucky is the florist who has not a number of claims against the old express companies, dating back to the time of their chaotic condition prior to the assumption of government control. The Adams Express Co. appears to have been in the worst condition during the year previous to the formation of the present company, July 1, 1918, by far the majority of the claims being against it. In fact, more claims were filed against this particular company than all the other carriers combined, and it has been provokingly tardy in making settlements. The attitude of the Adams officials and their methods of handling correspondence were largely responsible for the institution of the express investigation, through which many changes were effected.

It has been reported that the Adams Express Co. is offering to adjust its old claims on the basis of 60 cents on the dollar. Doubtless many shippers would gladly accept these terms, and to get them perhaps it would be a good plan to insist upon an early settlement, even if necessary to bring suit. Shippers who take this step are quite likely to get their money, while those who wait are apt to come in contact with a depleted treasury. It is provided by a section of the express receipt that suits must be brought within two years and one day after the delivery of the property and not later. Claimants lose their right to bring suit if they do not sue within that time.

The money returns upon C. O. D. shipments made during the last six months of the existence of the old companies were so deplorably bad as to compel Cleveland wholesale florists to discontinue forwarding goods upon that basis. And there are still outstanding quite a number of unpaid C. O. D.'s, extending back into 1918, and reported active investigation appears to accomplish little except delay. A few months ago an occasional check arrived, but they have now entirely ceased to come.

At the June meeting of the Cleveland Florists' Club the matter of unpaid express claims was brought up for discussion by interested members, the consensus being that claimants should insist upon payment. Perhaps the worst injury visited upon the trade by the war was that wrought by the wretched condition of the express service, an echo of which are the still unsettled claims. Dealing in perishable goods, it is doubtful if any other industry suffered so seriously; and it is to be sincerely hoped that the degree of efficiency attained by the government in the present handling of the express service will be increased to the point merited by its vital importance in the business of the country. NEW YORK.

The Market.

The market is still suffering from oversupply, but the surplus is confined largely to lines outside of staples, and is of the kind usually experienced in early summer. Peony arrivals are considerably shortened. It is readily understandable that shippers would not care to contribute again to a clean-up drive. Some really good flowers in the late varieties are in evidence and bring fair prices. Other seasonable flowers are abundant, and shrub flowers, such as philadelphus and deutzias, are in good supply and figure largely in decorations at some functions. While more flowers are available than the rather poor demand can care for, some of the retailers are of the opinion that the condition will not last long, and no overplus worth mentioning as a disturbing medium need be looked for until the aster season is with us.

Roses are firmer in price, and a more favorable temperature has improved the quality of the hybrid teas. While American Beauty is not overabundant, the bulk of arrivals is of poor quality stock, and prices do not range high.

Carnations evidently have passed the glut point, but there are more than enough of them for the demand. Some of the growers have already abandoned their benchings and more might as well follow suit without delay, judging from the quality of the flowers they are cutting.

The market is practically bare of lilies, and lily of the valley is a luxury for those who can afford to buy it. But there is plenty of other material for high-class work, whether wedding or funeral.

The supply of cattleyas is not particularly large, but the demand for them is not strong, and the movement by the lower grades at times is anything but active.

There is a wealth of miscellaneous flowers from outdoors, covering a large range of varieties. Coreopsis, pyrethrum, gaillardia and wild spiræa are among the newcomers.

Various Notes.

The sudden death of Joseph G. Leikens, the retailer of Madison avenue, shocked his many friends in the wholesale market, who had met him only a few hours before the end came. An obituary notice appears in another column. Of good physique, glowing with health, robust in every way, it was hard to realize that he had passed away at such short notice.

Timothy E. Waters, manager of the supply department of the Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, was in town for a day or two last week, and was busy calling upon the trade houses in his line. Boston was the objective point of his trip.

New York has always been unfortunate whenever it has essayed to hold a peony exhibition. Either a selected date was just too early, or just too late. To insure the possibility of a show, the season was timed at close range, and the Cedar Hill Nurseries, of Brookville, L.

I., of which T. A. Havemeyer is proprietor, and the Cottage Gardens Co., of Queens, L. I., arranged for an exhibition in the foyer of the American Museum of Natural History, where, June 11 to June 14, there was a splendid display. They were materially assisted by an extensive exhibit made by John Lewis Childs, Flowerfield, L. I., and also by an exhibit staged by the Rosedale Nurseries, of Tarrytown, N. Y. There were neither classes nor premiums, the show being entirely for the public, who appeared to be quite willing to take advantage of it, judging from the manner in which the visitors took notes of varieties. Most of the best of the leading midseason and late varieties were on exhibition. There were many handsome new varieties staged under number.

The American Sweet Pea Society will hold its annual exhibition and meeting at the American Museum of Natural History June 21, the exhibition continuing throughout the following day, Sunday.

Visitors: Alex. Henderson, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago; L. W. Wheeler, of the Pieters-Wheeler Seed Co., Gilroy, Cal.

Philip F. Kessler, 55 West Twenty-sixth street, has been busy with his annual cut of Jacqueminot roses. The disposal of these roses every year is practically an "institution" with him, foreRunning cessation in some degree from active business for several months preceding the season.

The Astor Floral Co., a new concern, has opened a store at 196 Livingston street, Brooklyn. The proprietor is J. M. Palmer, who for many years was located at 290 Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn.

Harry Hoffmeier, the retail florist of Eighty-sixth street and Broadway, is around again after several months' confinement at home and in the hospital with rheumatism. J. H. P.

George Hoopis, eastern representative for the A. A. Arnold Paper Box Co., of Chicago, reports excellent spring business. The white glaze boxes, which it was impossible to manufacture during the war, on account of the scarcity and high price of glazed paper, again are available and the company is putting out a new line of parcel post containers which florists like for shipping purposes.

The business of the late Ralph M. Ward has been turned into a stock company as Ralph M. Ward & Co., Inc., and will be carried on by the employees whose capable handling of the departments permitted Mr. Ward to be a globe trotter. The capital stock is $125,000.

A FLORIST MISSING.

The disappearance of Ralph A. Anderson, of the Queen City Floral Co., Traverse City, Mich., Shriner, Knight Templar, Elk, Knight of Pythias and Odd Fellow, has given Chicago detectives and friends a mystery to solve.

Anderson left his wife, Orpha, his daughter, Gradele, 12 years old, and his son, Robert, 5, June 8, and went to Chicago by boat to buy supplies. He arrived Monday morning and stopped at the Hotel La Salle.

He bought the supplies. He visited the A. L. Randall Co., the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, the John C. Moninger Co., as well as other florists and undertakers, for he supplies everything for a funeral, from the casket to the flowers. Tuesday morning he wrote his wife that he would take the boat that night, and might be expected home June 12. There were some passages in the letter that seem to the detectives a little odd, such as, "have established plenty of credit;" "I have got off now and am able to do the things you know I can do, as you know what I am made of."

Anderson engaged stateroom No. 37 on the steamer Alabama. The stateroom is on the upper deck. Anderson had with him at the time between $400 and $500, a diamond ring, a gold watch, and his traveling bag. He was going first to Constantine, Mich., to arrange for the purchase of undertakers' supplies.

The boat stopped at Grand Haven at 3:30 a. m. June 11, and left at 5 a. m. At 7 a. m. it arrived at Muskegon. There a maid, intending to make up the berth, entered Anderson's room.

She found a man's suit, Anderson's bag, watch and ring, and $1.79. The key to the stateroom was found on a lower deck. There was no trace of Anderson. The captain said the boat had been crowded and if he had jumped or fallen overboard during the night some one would have seen him. There were many passengers who spent the night walking around, men who had been unable to get staterooms.

Mrs. Anderson received her husband's letter Wednesday morning, and shortly after came the news from the steamship company. The suit found, she said, was one of two he had taken with him. He was wearing the other. He was insured for $10,000, and recently had made application for $10,000 more life insurance.

L. C. Stocking and M. D. Bryant, of Traverse City, and Will H. Anderson, of Minneapolis, a brother, started a search for the missing man. They found no trace of him. The Pinkerton detective agency was employed. Anderson's friends are firmly convinced that he has been robbed or murdered, possibly beaten into insensibility. They say he was not the man to commit suicide.

A. MILLER.

WE ARE so accustomed to hearing of the stunts of the airplane mail that we are likely to overlook the fact that postal facilities are provided on the ocean as well as on land and in the air—which is just a prelude to the statement that the illustration above is the reproduction of a photograph made in mid-Pacific, on the S. S. Korea Maru, bound for Japan, and mailed in a sack picked up by a steamer headed the other way, the photograph reaching The Review the same day its subject landed at Yokohama. Incidentally, too, before Mr. Miller leaves Japan he will receive his copy of The Review containing the picture, as he plans remaining there until the shipment of lily bulbs grown for and purchased by his concern, the American Bulb Co., is assured. There is said to be only half a crop to supply the world this year and Mr. Miller left Chicago May 10 to see that the company of which he is president gets its share.

DISEASED OUTDOOR ROSES.

Will you please tell me what is the matter with my roses? As you will see from the enclosed specimen, brownish black spots appear on the branches and soon the leaves wither. The plants are in my garden and the ground is rich, made so by manure from a henhouse. I mulched them with stable manure last fall. This spring I applied acid phosphate and cottonseed meal, at the rate of about 500 pounds to the acre. They are well cared for and I cannot imagine why they should not do well.

J. E. J.—Ga.

The piece of rose branch submitted indicates that the trouble is due to the land being altogether too rich. The branch shows a soft, sappy growth, which would be extremely susceptible to disease, especially during a period of heavy rains and dark weather. Hen manure is particularly harsh on any kind of plants. This manure, together with the acid phosphate and other fertilizers applied within so short a time, has caused the plants to take up more nourishment than they can safely assimilate. If the land had any life in it in the first place, the mulching of stable manure would have been enough enrichment for the time stated.

The writer would advise the inquirer to apply crushed limestone liberally to the land and cultivate freely. M. P.

BLACK SPOT ON ROSES.

Besides growing my regular crop of miscellaneous pot plants, I am now trying to grow a few roses and I am anxious to know what is the cause of black spot on roses and what is the best remedy for it. Can you also recommend a book on the commercial culture of roses under glass and tell me where I can purchase it? J. M.—N. Y.

Black spot is a fungous disease and is most destructive during the summer. It is induced or favored by the condensation of moisture on the plants during the night. Hence the best preventives are ventilation and scrupulous cleanliness. As the fungus spends the winter on fallen leaves, these should be collected and burned late in the fall or early in the spring, so as to remove the source of infection. The unwholesome dampness should be avoided by careful ventilation at night, with the occasional use of a small amount of fire heat. A tendency toward the disease may sometimes be checked by running the house at a high temperature and applying some quick-acting fertilizer, so as to promote a rapid growth and the formation of new foliage.

But, in addition to all these precautions, sprayings with a copper solution, such as ammoniacal copper carbonate, are likely to be necessary. Several applications of this solution, at intervals of a week or ten days, may be needed. Bordeaux mixture is effective, but coats and disfigures the leaves. If the disease is in an advanced stage, the only cure may be to prune the plants back hard and start a growth of new, clean foliage.

A practical book on rose growing is "Commercial Rose Culture," by Eber Holmes. It may be secured through The Review and the price is $1.50.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

Things were extremely dry until a few days ago, when fine growing showers came and made everything take on new life.

No one could complain of business during the last few weeks. There has been a continuous demand for flowers and all the flower stores have been busy. The supply of outdoor stock is not so plentiful as it was a fortnight ago. However, gladioli will soon begin to appear and the situation will be some what relieved. Already florists have begun to cut some of the earlier varieties. On account of the extremely hot weather, greenhouse stock is not of extra good quality.

There is a fair cut of roses and the demand for them is good. Kaiserin and Columbia are the best, while Ophelia and Hoosier Beauty do fairly well. Carnations are small and it will only be a short time until the old stock will be thrown out and replaced with new. Already the planting of carnations is well under way. Sweet peas, though not of so good quality as they were, are still in evidence and come in handy for bouquet and design work. They are gradually giving way to swainsona, which is of extra good quality this season. There is a scarcity of orchids and, luckily, the demand has not been great.

There is little if any change in prices. Roses bring from $2 to $6 per dozen; carnations, $2 per dozen; sweet peas, $2 to $3 per hundred; snapdragons, $1.50 to $3 per dozen; orchids, $1.50 to $2 each.

The demand for bedding stock is about over, and it is well that it is, for the supply of plants is about exhausted. Seed trade has also quieted down considerably.

Various Notes.

C. L. Baum recently purchased a Beeman garden tractor to be used in the cultivation of bulbs at the farm. This is the first Beeman tractor to be used here, and it is proving most satisfactory. It was on display at the store for a few days and attracted considerable attention. May 31 being the close of the fiscal year of this firm, the office force has been busy closing up the year's business and making the income and corporation tax returns. The year just closed has been a most successful one, showing something like a fifty per cent increase in the amount of sales over that of any previous year. Miss Ava Quillen is spending her vacation with relatives in Virginia.

A. H. Dailey reports business good. While the plant season is about over, he still has a few good plants to offer. He has some excellent ferns on display in one of his show windows. He is beginning to cut some asters and gladioli. Prospects for a good crop are fine.

Mrs. W. R. Ryno is closing out a most successful season in the bedding plant business.

Addison J. McNutt is cutting some fine Kaiserin roses, also some choice Columbia and Russell. He reports that business is satisfactory, with no complaint to make except that occasionally the demand is so heavy that stock runs short.

Charles W. Crouch is keeping busy. He had the order for the bouquet for the wedding of Miss Williams and Sergeant Alvin C. York, of Pall Mall, Fentress county, Tenn., known as "the greatest hero of the war." The wedding took place at the mountain home of Sgt. York, June 7. The ceremony was performed by M. S. Roberts, governor of Tennessee. Practically every county and community of the state was represented at the wedding and the ceremony, though simple and in keeping with the mountain customs, was beautiful. The bride carried a handsome shower bouquet of bride's roses and swainsona.

I. Rosnoski, representing the Henry F. Michell Co., of Philadelphia, was in the city recently. R. E. M.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Until June 12 the market was decidedly weak, but on the closing days of last week flowers braced up nicely and, while no fancy prices were obtained, clearances were much better. Cooler weather helped business somewhat, also a number of graduations, weddings and tag days in Brockton, Lynn and other cities, which used up a large quantity of flowers. Roses are arriving much inferior in quality compared with a fortnight ago, but are selling better than almost any other flowers. Carnations have varied from 50 cents to $2 per hundred of late, some fancies reaching $3. They are getting much smaller, and crops are nearing the end. Sweet peas are in active demand, but are not at all plentiful. The intense heat ruined indoor flowers in great measure and few outdoor ones are yet available. Prices on these are high.

Callas and lilies are practically out of the market. Lily of the valley is realizing nigh prices, as much as $16 per hundred in at least one case. Peonies are nearing the end. A few Spanish irises, grown outdoors, are coming in, and hardy herbaceous perennials in variety. Cattleyas are shortening up, but are ample for calls made. Mountain laurel is being used a good deal for window decorations. It now makes a wonderful outdoor display everywhere. The continued dry weather has affected sales of bedding plants in some measure, but specialists in these are already pretty well cleaned out.

Peony Exhibition at Horticultural Hall.

Enough peonies were staged June 14 and 15 to fill the main exhibition hall. T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co. was the largest exhibitor and staged several thousand handsome blooms in large vases, which made a striking display. R. & J. Farquhar & Co. had a large, well arranged group in which Albert Crousse, Claire Dubois, Baroness Schroeder, C. W. Parker, General Joffre, dark red; M. Krelage; Prof. Sargent, pink, and Mme. Crousse were noteworthy. George N. Smith, of Wellesley, had a large display of handsome flowers. Specially fine were Therese, Sarah Bernhardt, James Kelway, Asa Gray, Duc de Wellington, M. Jules Elie, Marie Stuart, Mme. E. Lemoine, Auguste Villaume, E. G. Hill, Mme. Jules Dessert, Claire Dubois, Avalanche and Marguerite Gerard. John K. Alexander also had a large table of peonies.

In the competitive classes, T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co. was first for twenty named varieties with large, fresh blooms of Lamartine, Venus, La Tulipe, Lady Alexandra Duff, very handsome; Delicatissima, Therese, Alfred De Musset, Adolphe Rousseau, Modeste Guerin, Pride of Essex, Mlle. de Desbuissons, La Perle, La France, La Tendresse, Marie Jacquin, Mme. de Vatry and Augustin d'Hour; second, H. F. Chase.

For twelve named doubles T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co. led with Adolphe Rousseau, La Tulipe, Alfred de Musset, Festiva Maxima, Therese, Marguerite Gerard, Boule de Neige, Lady Alexandra Duff, Nymphæa, James Kelway and Felix Crousse; second, John K. Alexander. George N. Smith had the best specimen bloom, showing a beautiful flower of Therese; second, H. F. Chase, with Germaine Bigot.

For twelve single varieties T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co. again won with clean, fresh flowers of Hermes, Black Prince, Defiance, Madeline Gauthier, Whitleyi Major, Prince Bismarck, Stanley, Eglantine, Dorothy, Areos, Emily and Lady Margaret Ferguson. For six named double white varieties T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co. won with Boule de Neige, Lady Alexandra Duff, Nymphæa, Duchesse de Nemours, Festiva Maxima and Mme. de Verneville; second, Mrs. D. W. McKissock. For six named red or crimson T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co. was once more first with Souvenir de Bretonneau, Karl Rosenfield, Cherry Hill, Augustin d'Hour, Atrosanguinea and Adolph Rousseau; second, Mrs. D. W. McKissock.

For six double salmon pink, first, T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co., with Mme. de Vatry, Marguerite Gerard, Pride of Essex, Mlle. Rousseau, Virginie and James Kelway; second, Mrs. D. W. McKissock. For six double rose, first, T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co., with Pierre Reignoux, Therese, M. Jules Elie, Mme. de Barillet Deschamps, Lamartine and Mme. Geissler; second, Mrs. D. W. McKissock.

E. J. Shaylor showed a dozen vases containing some handsome seedlings, which received honorable mention. R. & J. Farquhar & Co. received a similar award for a table of seedlings. Among the best were: Agnes Keogh, warm salmon pink; King of the Belgians, rose, double; Peach, soft double pink; No. 18, fringed delicate pink.

Hillcrest Farm had a table of interesting garden flowers; Blue Hill Nurseries, peonies, and William Thatcher, gardener to George P. Gardner, Jr., a group of French hydrangeas.

As usual, there was a large attendance at the exhibition, particularly on Sunday afternoon, July 15.

The annual show of hardy roses, strawberries, vegetables, etc., will be held June 21 and 22, and promises to be a good one.

Various Notes.

Among recent visitors was A. E. Kunderd, Goshen, Ind., the gladiolus specialist. Mr. Kunderd is now becoming interested in the propagation and hybridization of lilacs and philadelphus and will pay considerable attention to these in the future. He spent some time studying them at the Arnold Arboretum.

The Boston Florists' Association is arranging to have an excursion and dinner at Nantasket Beach July 12.

S. J. Goddard is busy planting out his chrysanthemums and will follow with carnations, which look extremely well in the field.

Matthew Segal, for six years with the Mann Co., at the Boston Flower Exchange, who saw some seven months of service in France and was but recently discharged from the army, has gone into business with his brother in Providence, R. I., in wheat flour this time instead of flowers. He states that the largest yellow marguerites he ever saw were in France.

The New England Cemetery Superintendents' Association held an outing June 11 at the Arnold Arboretum, the rhododendrons and kalmias being the attraction. About fifty members attended.

The committee on prizes and exhibitions have arranged for five additional shows in 1920 to follow the big spring exhibitions; one for peonies in June, another for roses and strawberries in June, a sweet pea show in July, a show of dahlias, fruits and vegetables in September and a November show for chrysanthemums, fruits and vegetables. There will also be a children's show about the end of August.

The executive committee of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club is busy arranging the sports program for the annual picnic to be held at Cunningham park, East Milton, July 24.

The many friends of Carl P. Sweetser, local representative of the Davey Tree Expert Co., and vice-president of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club, will regret to learn that he will leave Boston in a few days for New York to engage in another line of business. Mr. Sweetser has made many friends since locating here and has done much excellent surgery work on trees on large estates.

The B. A. Snyder Co. reports an excellent June call for flowers. The roses received by this concern are of fine quality.

Henry R. Comley, on Park street, has a large number of wedding decorations for this month, and finds business much better than a year ago.

The Arnold-Fisher Co. is through with sweet peas for the season. Two of this company's large houses are planted with roses, and the others soon will be filled with carnations. The largest planting will be of Red Cross. W. N. C.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

H. G. Eyres, of Albany, N. Y., said that business for Memorial day was equaled only by supply. Commencement week brought a large number of orders.

• • • •

"Sold out clean as a whistle," observed J. G. Barrett, of Troy, N. Y. "The planting season was never better, and it looks like a general clean-up, outside and inside."

• • • •

The valuable collection of orchids owned by the late Charles G. Roebling, of Trenton, N. J., has been sold to Mrs. F. Eugene Dixon, of Elkins Park, Pa., for $28,000. It consists of several hundred specimens and varieties and thousands of home-raised seedlings.

• • • •

H. L. Menand, of Troy, N. Y., reports excellent business, funeral work being preponderant. He looks for the usual summer dullness following the closing of the schools. While the storeman who has no greenhouses is sometimes envied by those who have, and vice versa—'twill never be exactly as each would have it, Mr. Menand remarked.

Joel G. Hayden, of Floral Park, N. Y., has been drawn for a jury in the Wilkins murder case, and appreciates the fact that his duties follow the most strenuous season he has ever experienced.

The New York Times is publishing a series of practical and seasonable items, which must be most beneficial to the cause of horticulture. In its issue of June 9, an article on the dahlia by George T. Moore, director of the Missouri Botanical Garden, St. Louis, Mo., is possibly the best written and most instructive that has ever appeared relating to this popular plant. A whole column was devoted to the subject, giving its origin and method of culture. From the same source of information we learn that Sarcoxie, Mo., has the largest acreage of peonies in the world, and stands without a rival. This is interesting to the number of large growers in America and demonstrates the popularity of the peony both as an ornamental plant and for use as a cut flower. This season has seen it at its best.

HAVE you an apprentice on your place, or do you count on hiring the other fellow's young men as soon as he gets them trained?

THE difference between good stock and poor stock usually is found in the wages of the grower. A good man is worth what he costs.

THIS will be a busy summer for florists, because we have, all of us, to make preparations for a season bigger and better than any before.

THE trade can use more stock next season, it is true, but what is much worse needed is more stock of a quality to justify asking the best prices for it.

THERE are getting to be so many organizations in the trade that it would take about all of one man's time to keep in touch with all of their activities, or inactivities.

OUR fastidious Railroad Administration objects to the shipment of bone meal, sheep manure and other fragrant articles by express. Some of the supply houses have had trouble over it.

GROWERS inclined to complain of the continued high price of coal in the United States may be interested to know that in England all coals other than anthracite still are strictly rationed.

IF you can judge the tone of business by the number of bankruptcies, here's encouragement. Bradstreet's report for last week showed only 94 failures—the same number as the week previous—as against 193, 270, 285 and 323 for the corresponding week in the years 1918 to 1915.

THE office of The Review always is ready and willing to answer questions on any trade subject, but if readers would preserve their papers for even one year they would have at hand, for immediate reference, information on nearly every matter about which they write and spend days waiting for an answer.

GARDENERS and horticulturists at Newport, R. I., are worried over the situation brought about by the federal plant quarantine, which they say will make it difficult to replace palms and other tropical plants that died last winter during the time when it was impossible to obtain sufficient coal to heat the greenhouses.

DECLINE IN PRICES GRADUAL.

WILL SOUTHERNERS ORGANIZE?

The florists of Texas are working strenuously and untiringly to attract to the convention of the state association, at Austin July 9 and 10, members of the trade from all over the south. The presence of J. F. Ammann, president of the S. A. F., assured by telegraphic acceptance, and his words on publicity and other national trade phases, give the convention an aspect larger than that of merely a state meeting. Indications are that the efforts of the Texans are to be rewarded with success, and that a considerable number of florists from outside the state will attend. Whether a southern organization will result, it is too early to predict. Robert C. Kerr, working indefatigably as chairman of the welfare committee, thinks the meeting will be a "semi-southern convention." Several florists from other states will promote a discussion as to the prospects of a southern organization.

HINES WON'T RAISE RATES.

While the railroads remain in government hands, there is, at least for the present, no danger of higher freight rates, according to a statement of Director-General Walker D. Hines, of the railroad administration. He is quoted as saying that there would be no further increase until business had returned to normal. He declared that if rates were raised to bring $300,000,000 additional revenue to the roads, wholesalers and jobbers would force an additional $900,000,000 from the ultimate consumer, and he did not propose to add to the present high cost of living.

To supply the funds necessary to make up the deficit incurred in operating the roads, the House of Representatives has voted $775,000,000 to the railroads' revolving fund. In the course of debate on the subject, Republicans in the house insisted that the Democrats should increase rates so that the railroads would pay their own operating expenses, instead of paying them out of the taxpayers' money. And Senator Cummins, who is to be chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, is preparing a program whereby rates will advance after July 1. So the Republicans may force Director-General Hines and other members of the administration to submit to increasing the railroad tariffs despite their statements.

CO-OPERATION HELPS CREDIT.

Gratified with the success of the resolution they had adopted in previous years as Canons of Commercial Ethics, the National Association of Credit Men, in closing their convention at Detroit, added as the eleventh a principle whose practice will help creditor and debtor in any field of business:

"The foundation principle of our credit structure—coöperation—should dominate and control whenever the financial affairs of a debtor become insolvent or involved, that equality thereby may be assured to the creditors themselves and justice to the debtor.

"The control of any lesser principle produces waste, diffusion of effort and a sacrifice of interest, material and moral, with a separation of creditor and debtor that is offensive to the best laws of credit procedure.

"Coöperation and unity save, construct and prevent; therefore, individual action pursued regardless of other interests in such situations, whether secretly or openly, expressed by either creditor or debtor, is unwise and unethical."

RESERVE STOCK.

Because business is good this season, there is no reason for selling out so closely that next year's success will be made difficult. It is necessary to reserve the facilities for continuing the business, as the following humorous letter indicates:

Please discontinue our ads, as we have sold everything except the benches and must keep them for future use.—H. O. Hannah & Son, Sherman, Tex., June 7, 1919.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

BIG ENGLISH SHOWS RESUMED.

If anything were needed to show that British horticulturists, like British soldiers, are equal to all emergencies, the proof was to be found in the resumption of the famous Chelsea outdoor and tented flower show last month; the British trade papers say that, considering there were only three months' notice of the fixture, the result was nothing short of a marvel. "Of course, when compared with the gigantic shows held before the war, one might say the exhibits were less numerous, and the space covered by the tents smaller, but the impression of many visitors would be that the tents were nearly as extensive as on former occasions, for the council wisely decided to give more room for visitors, so the groups were farther apart and more space was given in the gangways. Notwithstanding this, it was practically impossible to get around some of the tents when the public had been admitted. Taken as a whole, the exhibits were first-class. Never do we remember to have seen less inferior stuff."

To judge from the descriptions in the trade papers and the list of medals and awards of merit, it may be said that flower shows in England have been resumed on a scale comparable with the series of national shows of the S. A. F., with few of the old stand-by exhibitors missing.

OBITUARY

Joseph G. Leikens.

Joseph G. Leikens, retail florist at Madison avenue and Fifty-fifth street, died suddenly at his home, 29 Claremont avenue, New York, on the night of June 12, at the age of 44 years. He was born in San Francisco, of Belgian and French parents, and graduated from St. Ignatius' College, in that city, coming to New York about 1897, where he engaged with the old firm of Wadley & Siebrecht. Ultimately he embarked in business for himself at 9 East Thirty-third street. A few years later he opened the store on Madison avenue, subsequently opening a store in Newport, R. I., which he was preparing to open for the season at the time of his death. He always took a great interest in military matters and was an active member of the old 7th Regiment, with which he went to the border during the period of trouble in 1916 as a sergeant. He was prominent in the Old Guard, an organization of veterans of the 7th Regiment, holding the rank of captain. A high mass was held at St. Patrick's cathedral at 11 a. m., Saturday, June 14, at which the Old Guard, in full regimentals, with its band, was present. The body was clothed in regimental uniform. The floral decorations were numerous, many of the larger pieces being of orchids. The deceased leaves a widow, Mrs. Sallie Tuttle Leikens.

William J. Quinlan.

William J. Quinlan, of Syracuse, N. Y., died June 6, at the Crouse-Irving hospital in that city. He was 63 years old. Taken suddenly ill the Sunday preceding, Mr. Quinlan was brought to the hospital and operated on for appendicitis. He failed to rally.

Mr. Quinlan was born in Ireland, and was brought to this country when but 1 year old. On the death of his brother, P. R. Quinlan, with whom he was a partner after the purchase of the Smith & Powell interests, he took over the entire management of the business. He had sold out some time ago, but was still connected with the business. Mr. Quinlan is survived by his wife and two daughters.

J. Edward Simpson.

J. Edward Simpson, well known among rose growers, died suddenly June 13, at Lansdowne, Pa., as the result of an abscess on a tooth penetrating his brain.

Mr. Simpson was about 40 years of age and all his life was associated with rose growing. He was a nephew of Robert Simpson, of Clifton, and learned the business among the New Jersey growers. He married a daughter of James Curran, another of the widely known old-school rose growers and writers on the rose, and with the Curran family made his way westward, spending some years in various establishments in the Mississippi valley and Lake regions. He was superintendent for George Reinberg, at Chicago, for several seasons. Returning to the eastern district, Mr. Simpson was, at the time of his death, foreman for C. & G. L. Pennock, at Lansdowne.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Although there has been no great rush for the florists during the last week, there has been a steady demand for flowers, which has worked off the supply generally. Many small weddings, with about the average number of funerals, have combined to make a good week. Wild mountain laurel has been one of the best sellers and has divided honors with the peonies, which are increasing in popularity every season.

Various Notes.

Ed Brooke, of T. J. Johnston & Co., was a business visitor in Boston last week.

Louis J. Reuter, of the L. J. Reuter Co., and E. Allan Peirce, Waltham, Mass., were in the city last week in the interests of the yearbook of the S. A. F.

Jencks Gardens, West Barrington, report a large number of heavy orders for dahlias.

Frederick C. Green, superintendent of parks, has been granted a five weeks' leave of absence by the park commissioners to take a trip to England, where he will visit his father. He will leave July 5 and return early in August. While in Europe he will also visit Holland.

Walter J. Sword has been appointed by the Cumberland town council as tree warden for that town. W. H. M.

Horticultural Society Show.

The annual June exhibition of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society was held in the ballroom of the Narragansett hotel June 13 and 14 and proved to be a decided success. Roses, peonies, hydrangeas, herbaceous perennials, kalmias, sweet peas, strawberries and some good trade displays made the exhibition varied and attractive. A long central table was filled with a superb display of roses, mostly hybrid teas, from Roger Williams park, of which F. C. Green is superintendent. This drew crowds f visitors. T. J. Johnston & Co. had a fine display of palms, kalmias, delphiniums, peonies, carnations, etc., as had the Westminster Greenhouses and Riverside cemetery. The latter had two handsome tables of zonale geraniums.

Cornelius Hartstra had a fine lot of peonies, larkspurs, penstemons and roses.

William Steel had excellent dahlias in pots.

Eugene Appleton had a landscape design showing the new state home grounds, which drew many complimentary remarks.

Maplehurst Greenhouses showed carnations, sweet peas, calendulas, antirrhinums and other flowers, all of fine quality.

The prize-winning centerpiece of Mrs. Sam Brown elicited much admiration.

In the various rose classes competition was good, especially among the hybrid teas. Other seasonable flowers also made a good display. W. N. Craig, Brookline, Mass., acted as judge. There was a large attendance of the public.

The Rose Garden.

At Roger Williams park the rose garden is now in full beauty and attracting thousands of visitors. All plants wintered well and are blooming with wonderful profusion. Long rows of various hybrid teas in the nursery make a remarkable display. Dozens of varieties are to be seen here. Especially fine are J. L. Mock, Ophelia, Willowmere, Chateau de Clos Vougeot, Duchess of Wellington, George C. Waud, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Radiance, Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, Königin Carola, Double White Killarney, Edward Mawley, Richmond and Duchess of Westminster. Large numbers of these roses were secured from a large rose growing establishment near by when forcing stock was being thrown out. These, cut back hard, make splendid stock and bloom with remarkable profusion. The stems are long and the flowers much finer than those produced under glass. Plants grown in this way have proved just as satisfactory and hardy as field-grafted plants. A large bed of Heuchera sanguinea made a great show. This is a fine plant for cutting. The arches of rambler roses here will be at their best from July 4 to 10 and always draw big crowds.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

For the first time in many months the price of cut flowers in the Chicago market has been, in the last week or ten days, lower than in the corresponding period of 1918. And yet nearly everyone in the trade is able to report a larger money value of sales than a year ago. Last June there was a comparatively small supply of stock, a fair business and rather good prices. This year there has been a tremendous glut, a really remarkable business, but low prices. Last week there was considerable waste of flowers and the present condition of stock indicates that there will be a loss in this direction as long as the heat wave lasts.

Absolutely the only thing of which the market can complain is the unseasonably warm, wet weather. Given ordinary June weather conditions and all the other trouble would be removed. It is the sudden hot spell following a cool May which has so overcrowded the market with stock, a considerable part of which is too poor to find favor with any class of buyers and only a small part of which is good enough to meet the critical needs of the shipping trade. The really first-class stock is bringing satisfactory prices, the trouble being that the waste and low prices at which the lower grades are sold pulls down the average to a point where growers, accustomed to taking big money, are beginning to complain.

It might be said that there are only two short items, cattleyas and valley. Easter lilies are again on the market in ample quantity for the present needs. The supply of roses is heavy and it is impossible to clean up except at extremely cheap prices for the open flowers. Growers are holding back as much as they can, but there is not the usual amount of replanting being done this season.

There are large quantities of carnations, most of them too soft to ship and many too poor to sell at any price. The peony season is on the wane. It was at its height last week, although some buds will be cut all through the present week. All the stock that was fit for storage has been going into the cooler and the accumulations will be enough to keep the market well supplied until early July, with the probability that one or two lots will be kept beyond the date that another month's storage charges accrue. The quantity in storage is not so large as in recent years and good prices are expected as soon as the cut is finished.

The sweet peas which have been blooming indoors are about at the end of their season, but a new indoor crop is coming in. Gladioli have become abundant. Many growers last winter filled vacant space with bulbs, which now are giving splendid flowers. At the same time, southern growers are shipping outdoor glads to this market. They are not needed and some of the wholesalers are refusing such shipments. Snapdragon is about at the end of its season. There are a few Spanish irises, candidum and other lilies. Outdoor shrub blooms are seen in some quantity and sell fairly well for decorating. Canterbury bells are good for quality but not for sale. Delphinium goes much better.

The green goods situation is easy.

New eastern ferns have arrived and plumosus is more plentiful.

At the Budlong Range.

"All set for the new season" is the word at the A. H. Budlong establishment, which is all in roses except for some propagating space filled with mums as a catch crop. Kenneth Budlong, 26, son of the proprietor, is in charge of the place and he has a theory that there is nothing more costly than to let work drag along past the time it should be done; so he paid the price for a crew that put the spring job through in short order. Also, young Mr. Budlong says "Come on, boys" instead of "Go do it," which helps a lot.

Of the something more than 200,000 feet of glass, about one-third is in Russell, some of the plants being 4 years old. They are to be run right through

All the roses now are in ground beds, the first having gone down off the benches about five years ago and a few every year since, with the result that this season the last of the benches disappeared, except those used for propagating. No set program is followed, the idea being to keep the plants going steadily as long as they do well; if a bed or a house goes back it is dried off and rested or replanted as the need may be.

There are forty-five cars of coal, left from last season, stacked between two of the ranges.

A. T. Pyfer, who is secretary for the Florists' Club and also for its bowling team, gives notice for everyone interested in the sport to be at Bensinger's alleys June 24 at 8 p. m. Out of the practice of the next eight weeks the five high men will get places on the team which will represent the club at the S. A. F. convention at Detroit in August.

The range being erected by the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., for Weiss & Spantikow Co., is nearing completion and the planting has begun in some of the houses.

Ed Palmen, retail florist at 3435 West Chicago avenue, is going out of business soon, as it is too hard to get help and he is getting too old to attend to the business alone.

Paul Weiss, of Weiss & Meyer Co., Maywood, is preparing to lay in next season's coal supply. He is figuring there will be an increase in freight rates, together with a scarcity of labor. This concern is not out of coal, as it still has ten carloads which have not been touched as yet. Mr. Weiss figures that it is better to be forehanded than sorry and, as he also is secretary of a coal company, the Fort Dearborn, he may be presumed to know conditions and many growers will follow his lead.

F. V. Young, who has been manager of the W. L. Schofield establishment, at 738 North State street, since he returned from the army shortly after Christmas, recently shipped for a customer an artificial wreath to a family in County Cork, Ireland.

E. F. Winterson Co. has been doing a rushing business in huckleberry for June weddings.

Henry Arnold's father died June 15 at the Alexian Brothers hospital and was buried June 18. He had been ill for some time. Mr. Arnold has the sympathy of the trade. He is with Tonner Wholesale Florists.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. gave from 6,000 to 8,000 flowers to the hospitals of the city last week.

J. P. Banasik, retail florist on West Chicago avenue, says the selling of flowers to department stores is certainly hurting the florists' business in his neighborhood.

Sergeant Lawrence Murphy returned from the army a short time ago. He is the brother of Miss Fannie C. Murphy, who has a neat flower store at 4248 West Madison street.

Joseph Sipka, 1237 West Chicago avenue, says business has been fine of late with him.

REFORM

What three years ago was thought to be "RADICAL THEORY" in the management of the Wholesale Cut Flower Commission Business is now what intelligent growers are looking for.

The Many Surprises, Many Changes in this Market in these three years have benefited the Growers.

The reform really began with the introduction of the Growers' Petition of 1916.

No "Sales Report" can be right with the grower until every detail is given of the Real Market Conditions in the Sales Value of every flower.

When all growers insist on a complete record of their "Sales Report," thus begins the "First Step" for Higher Prices and Greater Profits.

Our "NEW SERVICE" is most complete on this subject, with less clerical work and least cost to us.

It gives to the Grower what he ought to know about this market and to us the greatest amount of satisfaction.

ably warm weather has cut down the flower business everywhere, but that it still is ahead of other years. He looks for a much larger supply of stock next season and figures that every florist should get ready to push the selling.

ST. LOUIS, MO.

The Market.

The wholesale markets experienced a busy week with wedding work and school commencements, besides much funeral work. This practically ends the work for social affairs, as many are now off for summer resorts.

Roses are coming in large quantities, but they plainly show the effects of the hot weather. Some good stock of Russell, Ophelia, Ward and Killarney is seen, but in limited quantity only. Carnations, too, are showing the effects of the advanced season, there being a limited supply of first-class stock. Easter lilies and valley had a big call all the week. Extra fine gladioli are now to be had, and there is a prospect of large quantities soon from outdoors.

Sweet peas are plentiful, but those of really good quality are few. The short-stemmed stock is in oversupply and hard to dispose of at any price. Among other stock coming in daily are snapdragons, coreopsis, Shasta daisies, also field daisies, cornflowers and candytuft. There is also a big cut of a fine strain of delphiniums.

The demand for greens has been heavy all the week, the big call being for Asparagus plumosus and Sprengeri. Flat ferns, when good, sell fast. Good smilax, too, has a big call. Everything in the line of greens cleans up daily.

Florists' Club Meeting.

The thirty-third anniversary meeting of the St. Louis Florists' Club was held June 12 in Kirkwood, Mo., at the greenhouse range of W. J. Pilcher.

The meeting was not so well attended as an occasion like this would demand, owing to the many school commencements that day. Most of the members were unable to attend. When President Hummert opened the meeting there were thirty members present.

The regular opening proceedings were quickly disposed of and the chair called for reports from the various committees. The trustees reported that they had arranged with the management of Ramona park for the holding of the florists' picnic the latter part of July. Chairman Bourdet, of the publicity committee, gave a good report of the workings of his committee and the amount of money expended for advertising, which went a long way and gave the retailers a great amount of extra business during the months of May and June.

Prof. Irish, who is superintendent of floriculture of the Missouri state fair, spoke on the coming fair and asked the coöperation of the florists of Missouri in making displays of cut flowers, designs and plants.

President Ammann, of the Society of American Florists, gave an interesting talk on national publicity and the coming convention of the society at Detroit in August, which was interesting throughout.

State Vice-president W. J. Pilcher, of the S. A. F., who will have charge of transportation to the S. A. F. convention, was given assistance in this work,

W. F. Thomas filed application for membership.

After the meeting Mrs. Pilcher, assisted by Mrs. A. S. Cerny, Miss Virginia Cerny and Miss Bruno, served refreshments to the members.

After a tour through his well-kept rose-growing establishment, the members gave a rising vote of thanks to Mr. Pilcher and the ladies for their entertainment.

Various Notes.

The Retail Florists' Association held its monthly meeting June 9 at Mission Inn Garden and, owing to the small attendance, all business matters were laid aside until next meeting. There was only a general talk on business for Mothers' day and Memorial day. Why St. Louis retailers take so little interest in attending the meetings of an association that will benefit them in their business was also a subject for discussion. President Weber and Secretary Ruff were both at a loss to know why. Now that the busy season is at an end, another effort will be made to bring together all the members at the next meeting.

The florists' dance at the W. A. Rowe Co. greenhouses, at Kirkwood, June 14, was a big success. The county florists came out in good numbers, and many from the city also attended. The music of Art Beyer's jazz band featured the evening, and those who missed the event surely overlooked a good time.

J. M. Walther, the Iowa avenue florist, put into service a fine automobile delivery last week. It made a big hit its first time out in the wholesale district. Mr. Walther reports one of the best business seasons in many years.

Gust. W. Grossart, of Belleville, Ill., will celebrate his silver wedding anniversary June 26. He will leave June 27 to visit his son, Frederick, who has

1225 Race St. PHILADELPHIA

Paul Ude, son of Fred. W. Ude, of Kirkwood, in a letter to his father writes that he will be home from France next month. He has been in the service eighteen months.

Miss M. S. Newman had a splendid window decoration last week. Dorothy Perkins and other rambler roses were featured. Miss Armstrong is in charge, Miss Newman having been ill the last ten days.

Pierre Schneider has bought the greenhouses of J. E. Muldoon, at Kirkwood, Mo., and will move them to his new place at Clayton, Mo. Other improvements will also be made at the new place to supply the local market with that high quality stock for which Mr. Schneider is noted.

D. I. Bushnell, president of the Missouri Seed Dealers' Association, called a meeting of the association June 12 in the Chamber of Commerce. All local members were present. Work on the by-laws and constitution of the association progressed nicely. It was decided to have another meeting on the evening of their departure for Chicago to attend the American Seed Trade Association's convention, June 23.

The members of the St. Louis Wholesale Florists' Association have decided to close half a day on Saturdays, beginning June 21. This order will be in effect until September 15.

Kalisch Bros., of Clayton, have had a most successful season in outdoor stock. They are cutting a fine quality of Shasta daisies at present and will soon be cutting from several acres of gladioli.

The Ove Gnatt Co., Inc., of La Porte, Ind., has opened office and sample rooms in the Commercial building. J. J. Beneke, the local representative, is in charge. The display at the Jefferson hotel last week attracted large numbers of the local trade.

Visitors last week were H. H. Putnam and P. L. McKee, of the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., Pana, Ill.; G. W. Grossart, W. E. Ogle and H. Emunds, Belleville, Ill.; Charles Johann, Collinsville, Ill.; J. F. Ammann and F. Smith, Edwardsville, Ill., and Edwin Denker, St. Charles, Mo. J. J. B.

An inventory of the estate of John T. Milliken, who died January 31, showed his personal estate amounted to $7,155,139. Mr. Milliken was financial head of the St. Louis Wholesale Cut Flower Co., of which D. S. Geddis is manager. He also owned the Mosgiel Gardens.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The change expected by the wholesalers has come. There are so many less flowers that business seems better. The demand is probably a little lighter than it was a week ago. It does not appear so. The lighter supply makes business seem brisk. Buyers are on the alert to get good flowers to fill their orders instead of holding back to take advantage of any chance that comes their way.

What flowers are good today? Roses are the mainstay of the market. Russell, Ophelia, Maryland, Hadley, Double White Killarney and a few others are in excellent shape, fit to send anywhere. There are some orchids, a few good carnations and some gladioli. Of the outdoor flowers, delphinium is the best. There are still some peonies. Candytuft, alyssum, gaillardia and coreopsis are abundant. Sweet peas have suffered from heat and rain.

The school commencements are the strength of the market. They will probably continue to be so for some days to come. There is no special change in prices, but the average returns will be much better than those of the week before. The unusual features are the ending of the peony crop in just about one week and the disappearance of the early outdoor sweet peas. Both are due to the heat.

Orchids Coming Here.

The most interesting news of the week is the purchase of the entire collection of orchids in the greenhouses of the late C. G. Roebling, of Trenton, N. J., by Mrs. Fitz-Eugene Dixon, of this city. It was casually mentioned to Mrs. Dixon, who was formerly Miss Widemen, that the collection was for sale. Mrs. Dixon went to Trenton, saw the orchids and bought them for a price said to have been $30,000. Mrs. Dixon, it is said, will erect greenhouses on her new place, formerly part of the Jay Cooke place at Ogontz.

The Roebling collection of orchids is one of the finest orchid collections of the country. Choice growing specimens have frequently been exhibited at the shows of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society held in this city.

Various Notes.

Charles J. Connor, son of D. T. Connor, is the salesman for a clever new device for economically emptying the steam pipes of condensed moisture and filling the boiler with water. The strong points about the new feed pumps are the small quantity of steam needed to operate them and the fact that they will return condensation to the boiler at a much higher temperature than the ordinary pump can do it.

Robert Craig and Mrs. Craig have gone to Ocean Grove, N. J., where they are both recuperating from illness.

Frank Smith, head of the order department for the M. Rice Co., has returned from overseas. Mr. Smith expects to resume his old position June 23.

T. Neilson Geiger has been enjoying a holiday in Maine.

Arthur Zirkman, Jr., son of Arthur Zirkman, vice-president of the M. Rice Co., displayed extraordinary bravery in the discharge of duty on the battle front in France.

Edward Berger has been arranging some choice decorative effects for William Berger's Sons.

David Fuerstenberg is in Atlantic City.

Charles J. Connor is sure of a hearty welcome from his father's friends in the profession.

J. Simpson, nephew of Robert Simpson and foreman for Casper and George L. Pennock, of Lansdowne, died suddenly the evening of June 13 as the result of an abscess on his tooth attacking his brain. He was about 40 years of age.

J. M. Deutscher has had a late crop of peonies which have been good stock at the Philadelphia Wholesale Florists' Exchange.

practically all the old force back again, the M. Rice Co. is getting things done in ante-bellum style. Mr. Brunswick thinks the fall stock promises extremely well.

The plant market is quiet now. The stock of blooming plants has grown steadily stronger since the end of May. Today there is a good supply of nearly all soft-wooded blooming plants and vines, sufficient to meet the seashore demand of late June.

J. F. Neidinger is in town, looking well. Phil.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

The Market.

Receipts for last week were heavy in spite of the hot weather. The reason for this was the large number of weddings, which called for decorations at church and home, as well as for bouquet work, and the heavy amount of funeral work the first part of the week. Transient trade fell off, as a result of the uncomfortably hot weather. The quality of cut flowers, especially outdoor flowers, was affected to a great degree. Outdoor stock showed the effects of the recent severe rains. Carnations were probably the worst sufferers of the greenhouse flowers. They are considerably smaller and faded in color. There is also an oversupply on the market, as they were forced to maturity through the high temperatures. Greenhouse gladioli are arriving in large numbers and they are especially fine.

Excellent Russell roses are being sold as soon as they reach the market. They are the best in color of all varieties. White Killarney and Ophelia are also good summer roses. Shawyers are not holding up well under the hot spell, and Killarney is of decidedly poor quality and not a good keeper.

Outdoor sweet peas are suffering greatly from the heat and many are unsalable. Lily of the valley is in good demand, but the supply is limited. Lilies are scarce. Only a small number of Cattleya gigas are on the market. These are sold readily. Peonies are at the height of their season. They may be said to be in oversupply, as the hot temperature rushed their development, and their season will be decidedly short this year.

A large variety of garden flowers is offered, including coreopsis, delphiniums, stocks, forget-me-nots, gypsophilas, godetias, centaureas, cornflowers, daisies and candytuft. There are no blooming plants on the market, with the exception of a few hydrangeas and rhododendrons. Although there are still calls for bedding plants, the season is practically over. There is a scarcity of green goods. Some firms are planting carnations in the houses, anticipating an early cut of this standard flower.

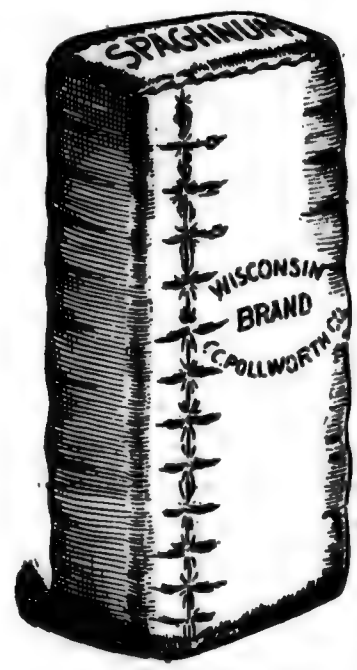
Various Notes.

The new rose, Premier, will be extensively cultivated for next season by W. J. & M. S. Vesey. This firm will also grow several houses of Ophelia, Hoosier Beauty, Shawyer and White Killarney. They will replant their entire rose stock this summer. They are also renovating and rebuilding their greenhouses and repairing on a large scale. Some fine Cattleya gigas, gladioli and peonies are being cut by them at present.

Outdoor flowers are being featured by the Doswell Floral Co., including peonies of excellent quality, centaureas, calendulas and delphiniums. Weddings have kept this force busy, and funeral work has used up large quantities of flowers.

The Flick Floral Co. is advertising on a large scale in the leading daily newspapers. This company is enjoying a fine business in wedding work and funerals, with a good booking of commencement orders for the next two weeks. It furnished the flowers for the annual flower festival of the Fort Wayne normal school.

A fine display of peonies and gladioli was noted at the store of Edgar Wenninghoff last week. He reports good summer flowers on the market and a lively demand, especially for weddings.



Mrs. R. W. Doswell is taking a two or three months' vacation during the summer months from work at the store. She will return to her post again in September. R. F. B.

A. Schilling has disposed of his greenhouses and property to an incorporated company. The price, it is understood, was $28,000. Mr. Schilling has been in the greenhouse business for many years and is widely known and admired. Ill health compelled him to give up the work.

The Market.

Prices of flowers are a little lower this week, though still above normal. While business is good, owing to June weddings, graduations and funerals, it is not rushing. Transient trade is small. Graduation work is mostly for private schools. Growers are transplanting their chrysanthemums for the fall. With the return of peace and more settled business conditions, it is probable that there will be much more glass in use next season than last. Many growers only ran part of their greenhouses last season, because of the difficulty of getting coal and the high cost of everything.

Various Notes.

The June meeting of the Essex County Florists' Club was held in Rover's hall, Elizabeth avenue, June 12. In addition to the business session, there were refreshments and games. Plans for an outing the latter part of the summer were informally discussed.

Charles Luthy, 363 Springfield avenue, reports that business is a little more quiet than it has been. There is some wedding work, but Mr. Luthy thinks that there would be more weddings if there were more houses available for new homes. Thus the housing problem hits florists.

McLaughlin & Murphy, 181 Clinton avenue, report that with weddings and private school graduations business is good now. They have had considerable funeral work.

A jury in the Circuit court has decided that the Lackawanna railroad was not responsible for damage done to evergreens, shrubbery and nursery stock burned April 1, 1917, on the nursery grounds of W. A. Manda, of South Orange, near here. Mr. Manda sued the railroad for $5,000 damages, asserting that sparks from a locomotive set fire to the nursery stock. The jurymen accepted the contention of the railroad that the fire must have been caused in some other way. R. B. M.

Dayton, O.—The Common Pleas court has set June 30 as the date to confirm the sale made by the Special Master Commissioner May 9, 1919, to Rolf Zetlitz of the real estate of the Miami Floral Co., as described in the application of the receiver, in the sum of $33,000, and to make distribution thereof.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

There has been a slight improvement, according to our leading retailers, this week, but it is impossible to get away from the fact that business is dull. Never before has the fact been so plainly brought out that choice stock of any kind is never too plentiful. Orchids, even of a rather poor grade, have been snapped up quickly. The best grades of sweet peas, greenhouse carnations, valley and other varieties are taken before being shown, and outside of gladioli there is really no good stock that is plentiful.

Wholesalers say that they could sell double the amount of roses if they could be had of good shipping quality, and the same applies to carnations. The advent of the dahlia helps to make the stores attractive, but the amount of flowers sold is not large. Indoor-grown Cecile Brunners sell more freely, now that the climbing variety is past its best. There is a good demand for large ferns and palms of medium size for decorations, but both are difficult to obtain.

Various Notes.

Roy F. Wilcox reports the shipment of a carload of kentias to Mexico City last week. Stock is coming nicely here. Mr. Wilcox is talking of enlarging both lath houses and greenhouses considerably.

J. Dieterich is building a lath house at his new place, near Wintersburg.

Among the gladioli at Wright's Flower Shop are some magnificent hybrids, some of the most beautiful ever seen in this section. At the range Mr. Wright is having all the beds thrown out and replanted. He figures it is better to get fewer flowers during summer and be well prepared for winter.

F. R. Hills is on a short trip to Catalina Island this week in company with Mrs. Hills' brother, who has been overseas, and who formerly lived in Catalina.

Walter Polder, who has been taking his brother's place since he went to the hospital some time ago, says that John will be back on the job soon.

H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

For the first time in many months, complaints are general in the local trade regarding the quality of stock offerings on the whole. The situation in this respect is worse than it was last week, when the effects of the extremely hot weather the latter part of May and early in June began to show. Then there was a fair amount of good flowers to help offset the deluge of poor stock, but now the supply has shortened up, and it is a question of taking inferior offerings or nothing in many cases. In spite of the poor quality, however, prices are a little firmer than they were a week ago, on account of the light supplies.

Roses show the effects of the recent hot spell in a marked degree, both in quantity and quality. They were forced out all at once, causing first a surplus of medium and poor blooms, and now a shortage. Even outdoor Brunners are not up to standard. Top price for Russell is $4 per bunch of two dozen, whereas Ophelia and other varieties in the same category range from $1.50 down. Good American Beauties are practically unobtainable, few of the offerings bringing more than $2 per dozen. As most of the rose growers are drying up their plants now, the situation does not promise to improve immediately.

Growers are changing their carnation plants also, which is reflected in the light arrivals. With stock generally scarce and poor, gladioli are particularly well received. The early offerings show fairly good quality. Halley still heads the list, but America, Panama and some of the other large varieties are becoming more plentiful. A few white chrysanthemums have made their appearance. This is unusually early for them, planting not yet being completed in most of the fields.

From all indications, there will be a large acreage of chrysanthemums in the San Francisco bay district this year. Several leading growers state that their acreages will be larger than last season. Planting will be completed in about ten days.

As nearly as can be ascertained, the acreage of asters is about the same this year as in 1918. Their season will start about July 15.

NEW PENTSTEMON SIERRA MADRE
(A Giant Gloxiniaeflora)

Produces from 40 to 50 flowers on a spike, the individual flowers from 2½ in. to 3 in. across; grows 3½ ft. to 4 ft. high, the flowers a beautiful deep red, with pure white throat.

It is a perpetual flowering variety and at Christmas we sold the cut flowers at $2.50 per dozen. The flowers are fine keepers, lasting from 7 to 10 days in water when cut, and it is a magnificent herbaceous plant for the border.

Certificate of Merit and highly recommended at Pasadena Flower Show, spring of 1918 and 1919. One of the finest Pentstemons ever grown.

Orchids are scarce and the price has been raised to 75 cents wholesale, 50 cents being the price here practically all the time for many years. Gardenias are on the short side of the market, also. Miscellaneous stock, such as gaillardias, gypsophilas, marigolds, marguerites, daisies, myosotis and mignonette, are utilized to good advantage. Greens are plentiful.

Various Notes.

Enomoto & Co. have taken over all interest in the Woodside Nurseries, at Redwood City, Cal., and are increasing their acreage of asters and chrysanthemums this year. Mr. Enomoto says that business holds up well for this season of the year, and he looks for a bigger shipping demand for asters and chrysanthemums than ever before, provided the crop comes up to expectations.

Domoto Bros. report a larger acreage of chrysanthemums than last year, the planting of which will be completed in a week or ten days.

The United Flower & Supply Co. expects to have about the same acreage of chrysanthemums to draw from this year as last, also about the same acreage of asters. They received a few white chrysanthemums this week, but they did not show extra good quality and failed to bring a high price. The advisability of bringing chrysanthemums on the market so early is questioned at this establishment. Last year, though not so early as this, the first offerings failed to attract much attention locally, and were not suitable for shipping.

The Heller wedding decoration executed by Norman Marcus, decorator for Albert O. Stein, received much favorable comment. A white altar, draped with a priest's rare old robe of gold, furnished the background for a large white marble urn, filled with larkspurs and gladioli, and two smaller ones, filled with Columbia roses. At either side was a box hedge of huckleberry and the first white chrysanthemums of the season. Quantities of Columbia roses, gladioli and larkspurs were used throughout the house. The bride's bouquet was of phalænopsis and gardenias. A supplementary docoration was also carried out in the Italian room of the St. Francis hotel, where a dinner dance was held after the wedding. The walls were banked with oak leaves, and there were flowers and baskets for sixteen tables, each seating a dozen or more people. Mr. Stein will leave for a three weeks' camping trip in Lake county about July 15. Patrick Orr, of his staff, plans a month's vacation in the Big Meadows, starting the first of July. Charles Clark is back on duty after being on the sick list.

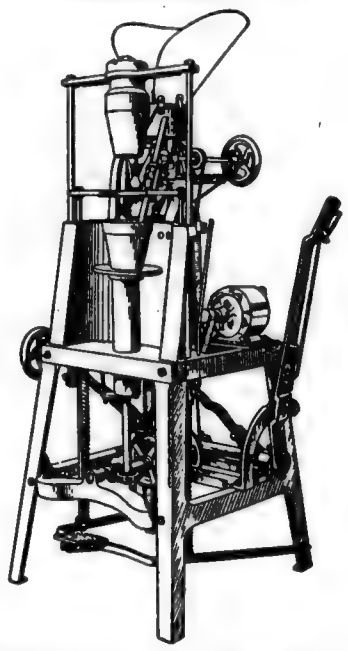
Mrs. Bartlett is no longer identified with Julius Eppstein in the St. Francis hotel. Miss Rene Crosswaite, who has charge of this stand, says they keep fairly busy.

The funeral of Jesse W. Lilienthal brought a rush of work to most of the downtown florists, as was attested by the multitude of flowers massed around the casket at the Temple Emanu-El, where services were held. The high altar was a mass of blooms, while on either side stood and hung wreaths, clusters and elaborate designs of the choicest flowers the market afforded. These also extended along the side from altar to entrance, and even then there were piles of flowers in the vestries which could not find a place in the main body of the synagogue. This unusual demand completely cleaned up the supply of orchids for several days. The Lilienthal pall was made by Podesta & Baldocchi. American Beauty roses were the only flowers used.

Several rush days of funeral work at her Geary street store, and a well sustained demand for cut flowers at her hotel stands, have kept Miss Recardie Lee Murray's business up to a satisfactory figure so far this month. She plans to spend next week at Santa Cruz.

C. Kooyman & Co. are concentrating on bulb business just now with good results, having a large supply of California-grown Freesia Purity, narcissi, amaryllis and callas to offer.

A. J. Rossi, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., has returned from a vacation in the Yosemite. The store force, however, is still depleted, P. Pagano, Nicholas Calavera and William de Brunn all being away on account of illness.



After residing in Oakland for several years, F. T. Schlotzhauer, of the Francis Floral Co., Sutter and Powell streets, has purchased a beautiful new home at 3665 Clay street, in order to be nearer his business. He has erected a fine garage on the premises and finds it a great convenience to have only a 15-minute drive between his house and store.

Mrs. Copeland, who operates the Misses Hannon Store on Sutter street, says that weddings and other decorations have kept business from slumping so far this month. She has increased her staff by securing the services of Mr. Baptiste.

George Ventura, with Albert O. Stein for six or seven years, has arranged to go into business for himself, having purchased the shop of the Anchor Floral Co. at 2001 Sutter street, near Fillmore. He took charge of the place a few days ago and is well pleased with the outlook.

Club Meeting.

The Florists' Club of Washington held its monthly meeting June 4. It had been intended to have an exhibition of peonies for the occasion, but, owing to the hot weather, all of the best local peonies were through blooming, and so this part of the program had to be dispensed with.

As soon as the routine business was finished, President Blackistone made a little address and explained to the club that he thought the future usefulness of the florists demanded that they make a greater study of their work than they had done in the past. The florists' business, to a large extent, is technical, and should be treated as such. He gave notice that in the future a short time during each meeting would be given over to a technical discussion on the subject of flowers. This discussion then took the form of the ordinary quiz about as follows:

Ques. What are the two principal classifications of the peonies?

Ans. The Moutan, tree or shrubby peony, and the herbaceous peony.

Ques. What are the principal classifications of the herbaceous peony?

Ans. The Brownii, a native of California; alba flora, or edulis, meaning edible; tenuifolia, which means fern-like foliage; anomala, a bright red single peony, indigenous to Europe and Asia, and officinalis, also native of Europe and Asia.

Ques. How would you classify festiva maxima and the other large commercial varieties?

Ans. These are hybrids obtained from crossing officinalis with alba flora.

A general discussion followed, taking in the origin, blooming season, culture, cutting and handling of peonies. It was surprising how interesting the subject became as different ones would see some phase of the subject which before was unfamiliar to them. For all future meetings, the plan is to have a quiz or a schoolroom discussion on different timely subjects.

indeed to receive an endorsement such as the following, from Samuel Murray, of Kansas City, Mo.: "President Ammann is right; we are all prosperous, and it is largely due to publicity. Any man engaged in the florists' business ought to contribute his share to the fund. Through proper publicity we certainly have a great future. Please accept my check for $100 additional, assuring you of my appreciation of your efficient efforts for horticulture."

The success of our campaign is believed to be phenomenal. It is not only within the observation of florists; it is talked of in many other lines of industry. Our slogan, "Say It with Flowers," is said to have a "punch" that is to be envied—just the right thing, not mandatory, but so strongly suggestive. Are we taking full advantage of it? There's the rub. We know that we are not, for the reason that too many florists are not sufficiently wide-awake to lend a helping hand in spreading it. Our committees, officers and many of our enthusiastic members have "worked like beavers" for a year and a half, incessantly, in an effort to make all florists see the wisdom and far-reaching effect of our publicity campaign, but there are some "logs" on which teeth as yet have failed to leave a mark. While it is felt that this labor has not been lost, it is fervently hoped that response will materialize very quickly now. How much nicer it would be if those whom we are obliged to designate "non-subscribers" would voluntarily send in the subscriptions we know they

More Funds Needed.

To be obliged to cease effort simply for the reason that the requisite funds were not forthcoming would mean nothing less than disaster. Our regular and persistent reminder to a forgetful public has worked wonders for the florists' trade. We must keep the work going and you, Mr. Non-subscriber, surely will not refuse to share in the expense. Think of Mr. Murray's generosity and farsightedness. Think of the many liberal-minded and level-headed business men whose names and generous contributions appear in our subscription list, which has been, and will again in a few days be sent broadcast among the trade, and decide whether you cannot follow

The market this week has been fairly steady. Quantities of flowers arrive daily, including heavy supplies of outdoor-grown stock. The weather during the greater part of the week has been ideal and the greenhouse men have been exceptionally busy with bedding stock, for which demand keeps up well. Prices are somewhat lower than on Memorial day and brisk trade continues.

Weddings are mostly small, and few church decorations are being done. Funeral work is the best stand-by. The daily demand is large and thereby cleans up much surplus stock. There is a heavy supply of roses on the market and many are being disposed of on the streets at 20 cents per dozen. This applies chiefly to the short-stemmed stock, for which the demand is not large in the stores. Excellent stock is seen in Maryland, Ophelia, Sunburst, Russell, Hoosier Beauty, Shawyer, Columbia, September Morn, Kaiserin, Killarney and White Killarney.

Carnations are in abundance, but of poor quality. The extreme heat of the last two weeks has softened them considerably. They are being sold in the stores at 40 to 50 cents per dozen, the lowest figures since the beginning of last fall. There are large quantities of excellent peonies on the market, especially in the large white varieties. These are found exceedingly useful for both wedding and funeral decorations. Excellent America and other varieties of gladioli arrive daily and sell well at good prices. Sweet peas are in abundance, but their lasting qualities are limited. Most of the stock arriving is of medium grade and sells at 50 cents per hundred. Outdoor roses are in season now, and are sold readily in the stores.

The supply of Spanish iris has let up for a few days. Callas and Easter lilies are not plentiful and are rarely seen now. Bachelor's buttons are in good demand. Delphinium is of poor quality. Snapdragons are fine and sell well for basket work. The demand for orchids during the last week has been fairly good. Among other outdoor stock arriving here are large quantities of lemon lilies, Canterbury bells, calendulas, marguerites, pansies, Spanish irises, antirrhinums, candytuft, poppies, syringas and deutzias.

New hardy ferns have made their appearance and are much welcomed. Asparagus plumosus and Sprengeri are plentiful, and the demand is good. Little is seen in blooming plants except some excellent hydrangeas and rhododendrons, the former selling more readily, owing to the fact that the prices are within reach of most people.

Various Notes.

Charles Gow, who spent nearly two years overseas with the Canadian Mounted Rifles, has accepted a position with the Rochester Floral Co.

Miss Helen Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Wilson, is taking a two weeks' course in æsthetic dancing in New York.

Charles Beck, of Sandlake, N. Y., visited the trade during the last week.

Corp. Lester Brown, of the 328th Infantry, who saw about fourteen months' service in France, returned home June 11. He looks remarkably well. He was badly gassed and was sent to Switzerland to recuperate. He is practically recovered now. Before joining the army he was employed at the store of H. E. Wilson on Hudson avenue.

Mrs. Arvilla Smith is assisting during the vacation weeks at the Wilson store on Main street. This firm reports excellent business.

Paul C. Schultz, with a number of friends, started for Salt Lake City, Utah, June 10, in his Cadillac 8 to attend the Rotary convention June 16 to 21. He reports a delightful trip, but the roads were muddy, due to heavy rains. He intends visiting several points of interest while out west, including Yellowstone park.

Ed Steffen, foreman at the greenhouses of Paul C. Schultz, reports an unusual sale on hanging baskets since Memorial day. The firm had an elaborate wedding decoration at Robinson, Ill., last week, and another for June 18 which called for much stock.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

Owing to the usual quota of early June weddings and school commencements, the wholesale and retail markets are holding their own nicely this week. Notwithstanding the extreme heat, the supply of blooms in all varieties continues plentiful and of fair quality. Prices are reasonable, even a little lower than last week. Roses, especially, are cheap. Lots of 500, and of good quality at that, sell for the proverbial song, or, to be exact, $7.50. Carnations rate at $1.50 to $3 per hundred. Peonies are $3 to $6, according to quality.

Horticultural Society Disbands.

Unfortunately, interest in the Horticultural Society of Western Pennsylvania has been gradually waning during the last year, so much so that the few members present at the last meeting unanimously decided to disband and to donate the proceeds of the treasury, amounting to about $100, to the Salvation Army. in existence about five years, having been founded in the autumn of 1911. The lack of interest is undoubtedly due to divided interests on the part of the members, the majority of whom belong to the Florists' and Gardeners' Club of Pittsburgh. Then, too, the florists and gardeners of the Sewickley valley originally were affiliated with the Horticultural Society of Western Pennsylvania, but finding the journey too long to the East Liberty Carnegie library auditorium, where the meetings were usually held, withdrew to form a local organization of their own.

Wilkinsburg Notes.

Miss Helen Louise Lehman has become saleswoman for J. Leo Giesey, of Rebecca street, succeeding Misses Catherine McGivern and Helen Schott.

William M. Turner, of Penn avenue, has installed the Skinner irrigating system on his 7-acre farm on Laketon road, Penn township. The farm is now under the care of Douglas James, who has succeeded his brother, Walter James, the latter having returned to his old job of superintending the greenhouses on the W. Henry R. Hilliard estate.

Corporal Wesley A. Mellon has returned to the employ of Miss Emma B. Maxwell, of Wood street, after about a year's service in France with the 103rd Motor Supply Train.

William R. Shackelford, who has been in the salesroom of William M. Turner for several years, expects to spend two or three weeks in July at his former home in Richmond, Va., combining business with pleasure.

Various Notes.

C. Leroy Kirkley anticipates spending a two or three weeks' vacation sometime this summer at his old home in Baltimore. Mr. Kirkley came to Pittsburgh about two years ago and now has a flourishing business in the busiest section of the south side.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Ludwig have gone to their farm at Ludwig Station, near Mars, Pa. Their sojourn there will last three months. The elder son, De Forest W. Ludwig, will remain at his town house and supervise the store, while his brother, Edward Earl Ludwig, will camp out with his parents and commute back and forth. He and his fiancee, Miss Jane McDaniels, of Wilkinsburg, just returned from a few days' visit in Martinsburg, W. Va., where they were members of the wedding party of B. G. Pratt, Jr., of Hackensack, N. J., an old chum of Mr. Ludwig at Cornell University.

Isaac M. Bayersdorfer was a recent visitor in the city, in the interests of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., of Philadelphia, Pa.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, F. W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.; thirty-seventh annual convention, Hotel Sherman, Chicago, June 24, 25, 26, 1919.

ALL the conditions seem to point to a seed trade convention at Chicago next week on lines grown familiar through many years.

WHOLESALE dealers in seeds will be at Chicago in unusual force next week, because the quest of orders is more energetic than for the last two or three years.

IN Chicago the board of assessors has valued the personal property of the Albert Dickinson Seed Co. at $1,750,000, against a valuation of $354,000 a year ago, according to figures published in Chicago daily papers.

STOKES QUITS RETAIL STORE.

In accordance with the plan of the Stokes Seed Farms Co. to develop the mail order end of the business to the exclusion of all other departments, the company will abandon the retail seed store at 219 Market street, Philadelphia, which has been occupied for that trade for nearly forty years, and will have its sole office at Moorestown, N. J., where headquarters of the company have been for the last five years.

On the morning of June 30 an auction sale will be held to dispose of certain store fixtures, farm, garden and poultry supplies no longer needed by the company.

TWO BIG CHANGES.

The reorganization of the M. G. Madson Seed Co., of Manitowoc, Wis., takes from Chicago one of the oldest employees in the seed trade in the city, Morris S. Smith, of the W. W. Barnard Co., who has connected himself with the new organization. Mr. Smith is not a stranger to the M. G. Madson Seed Co., having been with them for nine years prior to coming to Chicago He leaves the W. W. Barnard Co. with the best wishes of his employers and associates in the trade in Chicago.

Ralph B. Howe will take over the work which has been under Mr. Smith's direction in the W. W. Barnard Co. Mr. Howe is a graduate of the agricultural department of the University of Illinois, where he specialized in horticulture. Since coming to the W. W. Barnard Co. in 1910 he had been directly in charge of onion sets and florists' supplies, up to the outbreak of the war, when he was called into service as captain in the Quartermaster's Corps. He was honorably discharged in March, 1919, resuming his former position with the W. W. Barnard Co. Mr. Howe brings to his present position considerable practical experience in horticulture and modern business methods.

ENGLAND ADMITS STOCK WE BAR.

The British authorities have announced their policy with regard to the importation of bulbs and nursery stock grown in Holland and Belgium, most of which is excluded from America by the new plant quarantine. The controller announces:

"The importation of plants from Holland is prohibited.

"I may say that applications to import all bulbs and plants of Belgian origin, shipped from Belgium, shall have favorable consideration.

"It will be necessary for the importers to make application for a license for each consignment when they are in receipt of full shipping particulars for same."

As a result America will have to pay more for the few items we still admit, while English dealers will get cheaper the things we exclude.

The Holland salesmen started for England as soon as the announcement was made.

CAN FIX PACKET PRICES.

If Kelly Bill Passes.

Seedsmen would have the lawful right to prescribe the prices and terms for the sale of packets or stocks that are trade-marked or of special brands under a bill introduced in the House of Representatives. Such growers or dealers as desired to fix the prices at which their articles should be sold would have to file schedules of wholesale and retail prices, with a $10 registration fee, with the Federal Trade Commission. The bill, which was introduced by Representative Kelly, of Pennsylvania, and has been referred to the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, provides that "in any contract for the sale of articles of commerce to any dealer, wholesale or retail, by any grower, producer, manufacturer, owner thereof, under trademark or special brand, hereinafter referred to as the vendor," it shall be lawful for such vendor, whenever the contract constitutes a transaction of commerce among the several states, or with foreign nations, or in any territory of the United States, or in the District of Columbia, or between any such territory, etc., or a foreign nation or nations, to prescribe the uniform prices and manners of settlement at which the different qualities and quantities of each article covered by such contract may be

The KENILWORTH Giant Pansy

Seeds are all grown by myself and are offered in the following mixtures and separate colors:

All sorts and mixtures except where noted are: $5.00 per oz.; $1.30 per ¼ oz.; 4000 seeds, $1.00; trade packet of 1000 seeds, 30c; any 4 packets, $1.00. Please order by number.

10. KENILWORTH GIANT EXHIBITION is the very finest complete mixture ever sent out. Seed carefully saved only from marked plants of the best varieties, with the largest and best shaped flowers and richest coloring. It is impossible to convey an adequate idea of the delightful variations in color and markings of this unrivaled mixture. 500 seeds, 30c; 1000 seeds, 50c; ⅛ oz., $1.35; ¼ oz., $2.50; oz., $10.00.

12. KENILWORTH GIANT PRIZE is undoubtedly the largest flower and longest stemmed Pansy in the world. The enormous flowers are of perfect form and of great substance. Petals overlapped and undulating. The rich colorings and markings are widely varied, some flowers being almost self-colored. 500 seeds, 30c; 1000 seeds, 50c; ⅛ oz., $1.35; ¼ oz., $2.50; oz., $10.00.

New Early-Flowering or Winter-Blooming

An entirely new and distinct strain of Pansies. The main advantage of these new Pansies over all hitherto existing Pansies is the extreme earliness of flowering. Sown at the same time as other Pansies, they begin flowering the early part of March or as soon as the snow is off the ground, many times having four or five large flowers to a plant, when all other Pansies are only showing buds. The flowers are large, well formed and fragrant.

14. WINTER SUN. Golden yellow, with dark eye.
15. ICE KING. Silvery white, with dark eye.
16. CELESTIAL QUEEN. Light or sky blue.
17. CHARM OF MARCH. Dark velvety blue.
18. MIXED. The above four colors with other shades and variations. Each color separate or mixed.

500 seeds, 25c; 1000 seeds, 40c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; oz., $7.50.

20. PRINCESS. (The New Upright Pansy.) This strain is entirely distinct from all others. It is absolutely compact, upright growing. The flowers are mostly blotched and frilled like the Masterpiece, of good form and heavy velvety texture on heavy stem carried well above the foliage. Attractive by brilliancy of its colors.

22. GIANT KENILWORTH STRAIN. The flowers are of perfect form and substance; many of the immense flowers are from 3½- to 4-in. It is a striking collection of beautiful colors and markings, rich with shades of red, brown, bronze, mahogany and many others too numerous to mention. Light, Medium or Dark Mixtures.
24. GIANT KENILWORTH SHOW. An extra fine strain of large flowers; the immense flowers are of circular form and great substance. A beautiful collection of colors and markings.
26. GIANT KENILWORTH CUT FLOWER MIXTURE. Is a distinct class by itself, surpassing all other strains as a cut flower for inside or outside growing; the large flowers are carried erect above the foliage on heavy stems, 7 or 8 in. long, in the most graceful manner, and stand the hot, dry weather well.
28. GIANT MASTERPIECE. A remarkable type; the curled, wavy petals giving the flower a double appearance; large flowers of great substance, on long, strong stems.
30. GIANT THREE AND FIVE BLOTCHED PANSIES. A superb mixture. Flowers large and of circular form and of great substance. The display of coloring is unsurpassed. A combination of almost every shade of rich, velvety colors; reds are particularly conspicuous, the petals being distinctly marked with three or five large, dark blotches.
32. GIANT PARISIAN. The flowers are of enormous size and beautifully marked, mostly five dark blotches on white and yellow ground; an unusually showy mixture.
34. GIANT BRONZE. A fine mixture of all shades of velvety brown, bronze, Havana brown, mahogany and copper shades.
36. TRIUMPH OF GIANT. Remarkably beautiful. The imposing five-spotted flowers on long, vigorous stalks surmount the foliage in the most graceful manner, are of enormous size, perfectly round and of unusual substance. The individual petals are very broad and cover each other in such a manner as to make the flowers appear almost double, the border of every petal being conspicuously curled. The plants are of a robust growth and form compact bushes of a round shape.
40. GIANT BATH'S EMPRESS. The finest of fancy English Pansies. Flowers are very large, mostly frilled and blotched and of great substance and the colors are brilliant and varied.

70. ORCHID-FLOWERED, MIXED. A dwarf, free bloomer, with a range of delicate colors that do not exist in any other Pansies; a remarkable combination of light rose, shell pink, blush mauve, fawn, light brown, orange and chamois.

GIANT PANSY SEED

In Separate Colors.

38. Mme. Perret. Red and wine shades.
42. Adonis. Light blue, white center.
44. Black. Almost coal black.
48. Lord Beaconsfield. Purple, shaded white.
50. Goliath. Large, curled yellow, blotched.
56. Light Blue Shades.
58. Indigo Blue. Deep, velvety blue.
80. Purple. Large, rich deep color.
84. Mercury. New. A deep blackish purple; really self-colored.
86. Pres. McKinley. Yellow, dark blotched.
90. Vulcan. Dark red, with five blotches.
92. Victoria. Blood red, violet blotches.
94. Red. A collection of rich red shades.
98. Psyche. Curled white, with five blotches.
100. Yellow. With dark blotch.
102. Yellow. Large golden yellow.
104. White. With violet blotch.
106. White. Large satiny white.
110. 38 to 108 mixed.

GALESBURG, ILL.

The Pillsbury Flower Store has the record for the price on vases of roses as far as the writer knows. Recently, this well-known firm furnished flowers for the opening of a modern jewelry store in this city. Two vases of only a dozen each Milady roses were valued at $4,000. Each rose contained a diamond, skillfully placed in the center of the flower. It was arranged so as to gleam forth and sparkle under the array of lights. The diamonds ranged in price from $400 to $600 each.

This flower store is well arranged in its new quarters in the Hill arcade. It is under the management of Walter Pillsbury. J. A. L.

President, J. R. Mayhew, Waxahachie, Tex.; vice-president, J. Edward Moon, Morrisville, Pa.; secretary, Charles Sizemore, Louisiana, Mo.; counsel, Curtis Nye Smith, 19 Congress St., Boston, Mass.; treasurer, J. W. Hill, Des Moines, Ia.; forty-fourth annual convention, Hotel Sherman, Chicago, June 25 to 27, 1919.

ANY nurseryman who wants a room at the Sherman House during the Chicago convention will do well to wire for it when he sees this note.

FRUIT was not so badly hurt by the frost June 1, as was first believed. B. L. Collins, of Colorado Springs, Colo., who inspected various parts of the region, says that not more than twenty or thirty per cent has been killed.

ACCOUNT of a bill proposed in the House of Representatives, which will make it legal for growers to fix the prices of stock of special brands, is found in the Seed Trade Department this week under the title, "Can Fix Packet Prices."

NEXT week at Chicago there probably will be the largest gathering of nurserymen in the history of the trade, the only condition likely to cut down attendance at the A. A. N. convention being that so many middle-western nurserymen are behind with their work.

EUGENE WEADGE, of Coldwater, Mich., a well known grower of peonies, has purchased the island at the end of Coldwater lake and will develop it for a peony farm, with the thought of possibly becoming the largest grower of the flower in the world. The island contains 110 acres.

MANDA LOSES RAILROAD SUIT.

W. A. Manda, Inc., of South Orange, N. J., lost the suit against the Lackawanna railroad for damages resulting from fire which the firm declared was started by a spark from a locomotive. In May, 1917, a large quantity of shrubbery, evergreens and other stock was destroyed by fire. Suit was brought by W. A. Manda, Inc., for damages of $5,000. The railroad succeeded in maintaining its defense that the fire must have been caused by something other than a spark from a locomotive, and the court refused to allow the claim for damages.

THE COMING CONVENTION.

As time flits by things look more and more optimistic for the forty-fourth annual convention of the American Association of Nurserymen, which will be held at the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, June 25 to 27. The directors are anxious that this convention be a record-breaker both as to attendance and spirit. Alvin E. Nelson, chairman of the exhibit committee, is one of the most enthusiastic convention workers.

We Have Been Persuading Six Million People To Buy Your Stock

Been doing it day and night, every week for months.

Been doing it in a way that has made them open up their pocketbooks, and plant more than ever before.

That's where some of your new business came from this Spring—there is no denying that.

How did we do it for you?

By talking into the ears of over six million buyers.

Talking when they had time to listen, when sitting around the table, evenings.

Talking to them through their own home papers—750 of them and the list is still growing.

Papers that are read from front to back, just as you read YOUR home paper.

This is just one small part of what can be done to increase business for all you Nurserymen, when you organize to do the job as you know it should be done.

Do you want to know what some of the other really big things are? Then come to the Chicago Meeting

At 2:30, Tuesday, June 24th, in the Hotel Sherman, the subscribers to the Market Development Fund will meet. Non-Subscribers are cordially invited to meet with us.

At this Meeting, we will outline a detailed program for the coming year, including one of the biggest business-building campaigns ever put across by any industry, anywhere. This sounds like a big brag. It's not. Come and see for yourself.

Be at Chicago!

Follow the little blue tags, and "get in right."

Hoping to meet you there.

ment,'' says Mr. Nelson, ''are the keystones of this year's convention. We simply must get organized. If we don't, it means the same old drag along the same old way. The nurserymen are probably the least organized of the horticultural trades. The sooner we realize what organization means, and then act on it, the better off we shall be. Going ahead and buying and selling for oneself is suicide to the trade. All must work together. The future of the trade depends upon it.

''We must remedy the great fluctuation in prices. Unorganized we can do nothing. Organized we are powerful, and can make the nursery business not only good for a few, but for many; not only at times, but always.

''I am confident that the convention will be a huge success. It was a hard pull at first with so little coöperation, but nurserymen are convinced now that organization spells success.''

PEONIES AT PETERSON NURSERY.

The season of the peonies and irises always brings many visitors to Peterson Nursery, Chicago, and this year has been no exception. The nursery now is on the edge of the growing city, only a couple of miles from one of the best boulevards and with a fine automobile road to bring nature lovers to the entrance. Every day but Sunday visitors are welcome and guides (with order books in their pockets) are provided; on the Sabbath the entrances are roped.

The irises made a wonderful show early in June; there were acres of them so heavily in bloom that ''sea of color'' is a literal description. A number of years of selection has narrowed the list to some forty varieties that are grown in quantity, with numerous others under trial. The leaders are in big blocks; for instance, three rows of Monsignor, the clerical velvet purple, each row more than 100 feet long, a mass of color. With so great a stock in each of many varieties one wonders if the annual increase does not push the sales department, although no flowers could be finer for home grounds, parks and boulevard planting.

The peony records go back thirty years, the result being that out of over 400 varieties tested only a few now are grown in quantity. In each color, white, light and dark pink, and red, early, mid-season and late, three or four varieties have been selected, perhaps three dozen in all, to be grown in quantity. There may still be a few plants of discarded sorts for comparison and the average visitor unhesitatingly endorses Mr. Peterson's choice. There also are some of the so-called novelties for trial, Lady Alexandra Duff, Jubilee, the Brand seedlings, etc.; Mr. Peterson thinks well of the Brand varieties as a class and has put several of them into his select list, Richardson and Rosenfield being the only other American seedling raisers whose productions have earned a place on this roll of honor. Karl Rosenfield is a leader among the reds. But, speaking of reds, there is at Peterson's a big block of Felix Crousse that was a flaming contradiction of the rather frequent assertion that it is a shy bloomer. Mr. Peterson calls it absolutely the best red in existence. The selected varieties are grown by the acre and quantities of blooms are cut, as many as 20,000 in one day last week, to be sold on commission by the A. L. Randall Co., in Chicago, but the cutters leave the first ten feet of each row, so that there is a brilliant display for the visitors passing down the drive across the field. There also is a demonstration garden, consisting of three plants of each variety, in rows, the rows side by side, beginning with the earliest white and ending with the latest red. It affords sharper comparison than in the field.

Mr. Peterson was at Detroit June 17, at the meeting of the American Peony Society. He did not take any flowers because he had been asked to be a judge of the exhibits there.

Aberdeen, S. D.—Easter, Mothers' day and Memorial day business was better this year then ever before, and B. F. Siebrecht had a big supply of pot plants and cut flowers of all kinds to supply the demand. Memorial day business was a "hummer," and it took Mr. Siebrecht, his wife and six clerks to get out the orders. Mr. Siebrecht and his grower, Adolph Pitterle, are rolling up their sleeves, getting ready for the additional greenhouses which will be built this summer.

An Invitation

To Chicago Geranium Growers

and Others Visiting Chicago this Summer

Come to my Greenhouses and inspect the stock of a Geranium to displace Nutt

WALL'S WINNER

This Geranium appeared five years ago among a batch of my own propagation, and from the day of its discovery has stood out above every other sort on the place. We have worked up a large stock—never sold any in spite of many requests for it.

COLOR—Bright, glowing red, between S. A. Nutt and American Beauty; just a little lighter than the rich red of Hoosier Beauty rose.

GROWTH—Easy to root. Branches without pinching. Makes short, compact plant. Early, free bloomer; when shifted to 4-inch pots at Easter will be in full bloom two weeks before Decoration Day. Large trusses carried well above the clear green, heavily serrated foliage. Stands sun and drought.

I am discarding Nutt and believe other growers will do the same when they have WALL'S WINNER.

All interested parties are invited to call and examine the stock plants, cuttings and 2½-inch plants.

If you can't come, send a mail order. All orders filled in rotation. First shipments in August. We pack well.

The Market.

A week of extremely hot weather has taken the life out of the flower market as far as prices are concerned. Business is good. Many flowers are being moved rapidly, but the demand in no way equals the supply, which is tremendous.

We have 2-cent roses again. But they help no one. Even the ultimate consumer does not get much for his money when he buys them. The better grades of roses bring fair prices. Sweet peas of quality hold up well.

Carnations have no fixed price. One can fill his needs by paying from 50 cents to $2 per hundred. These prices have allowed street venders to venture back into business.

Home-grown peonies are in. They are of good quality and plentiful, but sell too cheaply; $1 to $5 per hundred will buy the best.

The few graduation exercises which took place last week did not consume many flowers. Funeral work was heavy and some good-sized orders were filled.

Various Notes.

Gust. Rusch and William Zimmermann were in Appleton last week attending the Eagles' convention. Mr. Rusch motored there, making the ninety miles each way in about three and one-half hours.

The Wisconsin State Florists' Association will meet in Fond du Lac June 28. A big delegation of local members is expected to be there. Any florist not a member can get particulars from Secretary H. J. Seel, 402 Milwaukee street.

Greenhouse Heating

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

CAPACITY OF BOILERS.

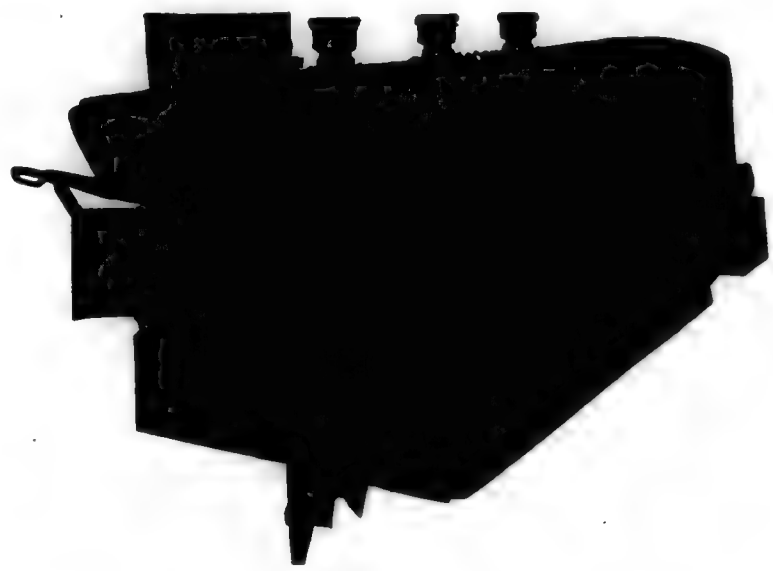
Will you kindly state how much glass can be heated to a temperature of 55 degrees, in zero weather, by two connected cast-iron boilers, each with a grate 30x35 inches? The greenhouses are on a hillside and are all connected. The boilers are at the foot of the incline, on lower ground than any of the houses. S. T. F.—Conn.

In determining the amount of glass that can be heated by a boiler with a grate of a certain size, allowance must be made for the amount and nature of the heating surface in the boiler, the size and height of the chimney, the construction and exposure of the house and the arrangement of the radiating surface. The kind of coal used and the skill and attention of the fireman will also have much to do with the efficiency of a boiler.

Under the best of conditions and using anthracite, we would expect to be able to heat 4,000 square feet of radiation and this should supply 14,000 square feet of glass in zero weather and maintain a temperature of 55 degrees. This, however, is considerably more than should be expected of the boilers, as it is seldom that the conditions are ideal. With everything well balanced and with a house fairly easy to heat, we would not hesitate to figure on 3,000 square feet of radiation, or 10,500 square feet of glass. If a fairly good grade of soft coal is used, the boilers should handle at least 8,000 square feet of glass and might, under the best of conditions, take care of 10,500 square feet.

IN THE GOOD OLD SUMMER.

It is human to incline to the Arkansas doctrine, "When it rains you can't fix the roof; when it shines you don't need it."



In the summer we don't need coal; so we rarely worry about the winter to come. Government by habit is so strong with most of us that the sins of the winter are almost always forgotten in summer. Pretty gardens, the green grass and the genial sun arouse forgiveness; we skip and gambol on the green, glad of the escape from frigid blasts; next winter is something else; we should worry!

But we always do worry. Rare have been the winters in which boreal blasts have not found us shivering in the jaws of coal famine. Every winter we hear the same reports of inadequate production, of insufficient transportation, of storms that halt traffic, of two days' supply of fuel left in the bunkers between us and extinction from business,

THE KROESCHELL HOT WATER BOILER

Here is the boiler that is making the most wonderful greenhouse heating record in the world. Florists and gardeners who have used other makes are constantly giving the KROESCHELL Greenhouse Boiler the highest praise.

3,974,605 square feet of glass was equipped with KROESCHELL Boilers during 1916 1917. You will find the KROESCHELL in every State in the Union and Canada. The supremacy of KROESCHELL Boilers is proved by their country-wide adoption.

Every boiler made at our works is of the highest standard. Material—governed by Kroeschell specifications—the best that money and brains can produce. Workmanship—the kind that is an inspiration to all boiler makers. Boiler efficiency—determined by actual tests under working conditions. Boiler ratings—honest and true blue—guaranteed actual working capacities.

The superiority of our boilers has resulted in the removal and abolishment of hundreds of sectional cast-iron boilers. In every instance KROESCHELL BOILERS give more heat with the same piping and with less fuel.

ARE "FARNSWORTH EQUIPPED" PLANTS SAVING COAL AND MONEY?

Hundreds of installations prove the value of the Farnsworth Closed System. F. E. Cramer, of Hanover, Pa., installed the Farnsworth System. He wrote, "The winter of 1917 and 1918 gave your machines a thorough test—they worked to perfection and did all you claimed for them."

REMEMBER, the Farnsworth Closed System is ideal for conditions in greenhouses and that the Farnsworth Duplex Boiler Feeder is the only machine of its kind on the market.

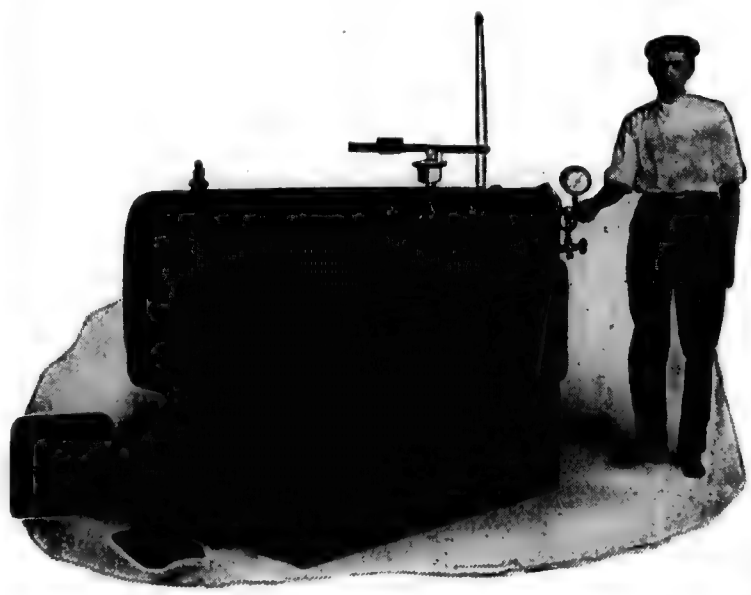
and of the imperative need for doing something.

Every winter's coal famine finds us beseeching someone to do something about it. The railroads should be rebuked, mines should be corrected, coal dealers should be investigated; we run around in circles investigating, examining, full of chills and ague and flu and measles and pneumonia.

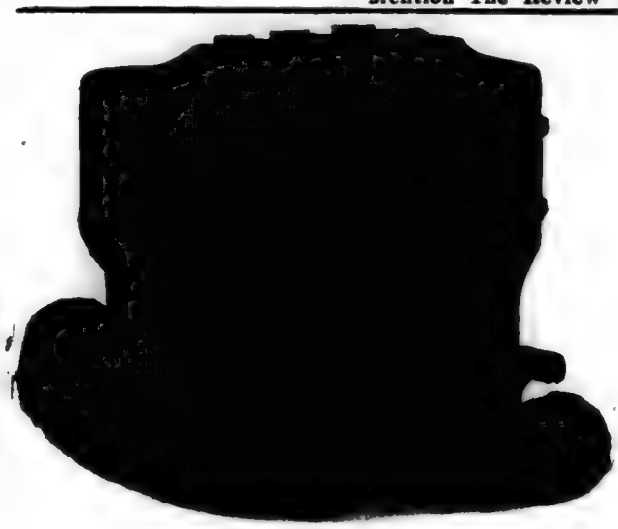
Spring comes, the pleasant dells are lush and bosky, the boulevards are bedecked with flowers and diaphanous lingerie taunts departing Boreas. Do something about it? Of course not, it's summer now and we snap our fingers at the trail of pneumonia and tuberculosis and ills of the heckled soul. We forget our inquisitions and demands for correction.



But there is another winter coming. And it will be as full of plague as any other winter. It will be as cold and as miserable and as fraught with ills if we are without the means of balking them. The wise virgins filled their lamps. The wise florist will fill his coal bin.

There is always present the fear that one may find coal cheaper next winter. The times when it has happened can be easily numbered. By the simplest laws of supply and demand coal will not be cheapest when it is most desired. We do not have positive information, but experience teaches us that coal famines argue higher prices; wherefore winter seems hardly the time to expect cheapness.

The coal mines should be kept at full production. The product must be kept moving. The people should store fuel. After the lesson of the last two years we should for once take time by the forelock.



PIPING SIX CONNECTED HOUSES.

We are building six connected greenhouses, each 20x100, except the first one, which is 26x100. Thus the entire area covered will be 100x126 feet. I wish to heat the range to 50 degrees in zero weather. The outside walls will be six feet high, with four feet of glass. The roofs will have a 35-degree pitch. The boiler is a good-sized one, with a capacity of ninety horsepower. It has two outlets, 4-inch and 5-inch. Will these supply enough radiation? The pipe to be used for the coils is 1½-inch. How many feet of such piping will be needed? How should the coils be arranged? The houses will run east and west. We have thought of placing the boiler at the center of the north side of the range, running mains through the center, taking off coils at the center of each house and running these to the walls. J. P.—Ill.

While the boiler may be located at the middle of the north side of the range, as proposed, we would prefer to locate it near a corner at the north side of the range. Unless the location is about level, it would be desirable to have the boiler house at the lower end of the greenhouse, in order to get a better fall for the return water.

It is not stated whether steam or hot water is to be used for heating. While the mains will be larger than will be necessary for use with steam, we would prefer to have two 5-inch flows for hot water. If hot water is to be used, we would advise that the smaller flow pipe be enlarged to 5-inch at some point near the boiler. The returns should be of the same size as the flow pipes. Each of the hot water flows should be used to supply three of the houses. In the 20-foot houses we would run a 2½-inch flow on each plate, with four 1½-inch returns on each wall underneath, except in the outside house, which has four feet of glass in the wall; in this house two additional returns should be run on the outer wall. In the 26-foot house, which also, as we understand it, has four feet of exposed glass in the outer wall, we would run three 2½-inch flows, placing the third flow three feet under the plate, and connect each flow with a coil of four 1½-inch return pipes, except the outer one, which should have five returns.

To heat with steam, we would use a 5-inch main and a 3-inch return. In each of the houses run a 2-inch flow pipe three feet below the ridge, and use six 1½-inch returns. Two of these may be under each bench. In the 26-foot house run two additional returns. If preferred, one 1½-inch pipe may be placed upon each plate to serve as flows, instead of using the 2-inch overhead flow pipe.

If the boiler is to be located north of the center of the houses, the arrangement of the mains and the returns will be the same as described, except that the flows will run each way to the ends of the houses and the returns will carry the water back to the middle point in the houses.

CINCINNATI.

The Market.

Business is still slow. However, commencements last week helped out somewhat. The market is still overloaded with stock. Shipping business holds up fairly well.

Roses are in good supply and generally are excellent. Premier, Columbia and Ophelia are holding up nicely during the hot weather that we are now having. Carnations are in large supply. Easter lilies have become more plentiful than they have been for some time. Rubrum lilies may be had. Outdoor stock of all kinds is plentiful. The list includes cornflowers, coreopsis, larkspur, hardy hydrangea, feverfew, candytuft and daisies. Gladioli sell fairly well. A few sweet peas are coming into the market. Snapdragon meets with an ordinary market.

New eastern ferns are in the market and are selling well.

Various Notes.

H. W. Sheppard is seriously ill with pneumonia. He was taken down the day following the last meeting of the Cincinnati Florists' Society.

C. E. Critchell goes to Chicago this week to attend the meeting of the directors of the S. A. F.

E. G. Gillett received his first shipment of Wisconsin ferns the early part of last week. They were excellent and sold readily.

The William Murphy Co. furnished the local retailers with many red roses for the commencement business last week.

Among recent visitors were Joseph Hill, Richmond, Ind., and Julius Dilloff, representing Wertheimer Bros.

WESTERLY, R. I.

Reuter Tax Decision.

Judge Edward W. Blodgett, of the Rhode Island Superior court, has handed down a rescript in the case of Charles H. Nichols et al. against S. J. Reuter & Sons, Inc., formerly operators of the extensive range of greenhouses in this town, where the question was raised as to whether or not the receiver should pay taxes assessed against the real estate, or whether or not the taxes should be a lien upon the real estate. The court sustained the position taken by the receiver, that the land should be held for the taxes.

NEWPORT, R. I.

Members of the Newport Garden Association gathered for their monthly meeting at Mercury hall last week, when Secretary Ebell, of the National Association of Gardeners, spoke about gardening work in various parts of the country. William MacKay, who was a delegate from the Newport Association to a recent meeting of New England gardeners held at Boston, gave a report of the conference.

An exhibition of plants and shrubs from China was staged for the Newport Horticultural Society in Memorial hall Wednesday evening, June 11, by Andrew Dorward and William S. Smith.

News has been received of the death in New York, June 12, of Joseph G. Leikens, who had conducted a florists' store on Bellevue avenue for many years. He was for two or three years manager for Siebrecht & Son, of New York, who had a branch in the small building on the Paran-Stevens estate, opposite King block, and in 1904 went into business for himself, opening a store in Downing's block. He had taken another year's lease of the Downing block store, and was expected to come here in a short time for the season. Fuller notice appears in the obituary column. W. H. M.

Belleville, Mich.—Claude Wood, formerly an employee of H. Roth, of La Fayette, Ind., and more recently with J. D. Schiller, of Toledo, O., has started a wholesale flower business in this city. He expects to grow summer flowers during the first two years and will specialize on asters this season. Belleville is about twenty-five miles southwest of Detroit, on the main line of the Wabash railroad.

The Market.

Business was good the first part of the week, but dragged the latter part. Flowers, therefore, since not in great demand, are in large supply. Roses in quantities are available. Carnations are plentiful, the best bringing $4, but other grades can be purchased at one's own price. The great majority are of poor quality.

Daisies range from 75 cents to $1.50 per hundred, and are plentiful. Delphinium is good, but moves slowly. Feverfew, candytuft, snapdragons, a few Easter lilies and baby's breath complete the market.

Green goods are none too abundant. The bedding season is nearing its close, and almost all local tradesmen have enjoyed a successful season.

Various Notes.

John Rieman has a new automobile.

Robert Fohl has been working on a strain of daisies for some time, and now has succeeded in working up a fine one that has enormous white blooms, borne on long, stiff stems. In many cases there are as many as 200 blooms on one plant. He has many other daisies of his own strain and from these different varieties can cut daisies from Memorial day until September.

The various florists had big business last week while the Shriners' conclave was at its height. The Circle Flower Shop decorated the lobby at the Claypool hotel for the New Orleans delegation. Bertermann Bros. Co. had several decorations, floats for the parade, etc. This firm exhibited a large Shriner design, all made of flowers, in front of the store. A. Wiegand's Sons Co. had numerous decorations for banquets, and calls for corsages and baskets. Business everywhere was good.

Bertermann Bros. Co. auctioned off three of the greenhouses June 14. The remainder will be auctioned off this week.

Visitors last week included several Shriners, who came for the festivities. Among these were Mr. Gralaboro and Mr. Kirkhoff, of Philadelphia; J. W. Stokes, of Springfield, Mo.; Mr. Baur, of Eaton, Ind. I. Rosnosky called on the trade. E. E. T.

ALBANY, N. Y.

The Market.

The extreme heat during the week following Memorial day brought flowers of all kinds into bloom in such a rush that it seemed as though it would be hard to use all the stock, but happily the B. P. O. E. had their state convention in Albany, June 2 to 4, and that helped matters greatly.

Now the New York state bankers are here in convention, and business has been good. There have been many weddings during the first two weeks of June, all of which called for big quantities of flowers.

Various Notes.

Frederick Goldring, of Slingerlands, has had a fine lot of snapdragons all spring and is still cutting them. They sell readily. Mr. Goldring says that there is good money in snapdragons.

Among recent callers on the trade were Wm. Cahill, representing R. J. Irwin, of New York; Stephen Greene, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia; Sigmund Geller, of Geller Florists' Supply Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.; James J. Karins, of Henry A. Dreer, Philadelphia.

H. M.

TROY, N. Y.

The Emma Willard School for Girls had its commencement June 11. There were flowers in profusion for the graduates. Mulholland Bros. had a large share of the bouquets for the graduating class. This, along with funeral work, kept them busy all the week.

At the attractive store of H. Louis Menand, things were rushing and have been ever since early last fall. Mr. Menand had some of the finest white peonies that were seen in this vicinity on Memorial day.

Samuel Hansen, of North Troy, has been busy with cemetery work and planting, and has had a clean sweep of everything in the plant line. Even geraniums without flowers sold well.

The greenhouses in Oakwood cemetery were closed last winter, thereby making an exceptional demand for plants for use in the cemetery this spring. All of the Troy florists benefited.

A. D. Carpenter, of Cohoes, has been busy planting. He is still at it. Dale Carpenter is a hard worker, like his father, and the place shows the results of their labors.

The Market.

The glut of last week continues. Shipments are larger. Practically any kind of stock can be had at extremely low prices. Considering the hot weather, carnations and roses are arriving in fair shape. Peonies are as plentiful as ever. During the week some of them could be had at the buyer's price. Some carnations have again found their way to the market, where they retailed at 35 cents per bunch of twenty-five.

The stores, with few exceptions, are holding prices steady in anticipation of a shortage of stock as soon as the first crop of outdoor flowers is over. Many of the stores featured carnations and peonies Saturday, June 14, at 50 cents per dozen. The days have been so hot that the public has not been interested in anything much, with the exception of weddings, for which the decorations are liberal. Many fine wedding orders have been filled during the last month and many more are booked. Wedding trade has been far better this season than ever before. F. P. A.

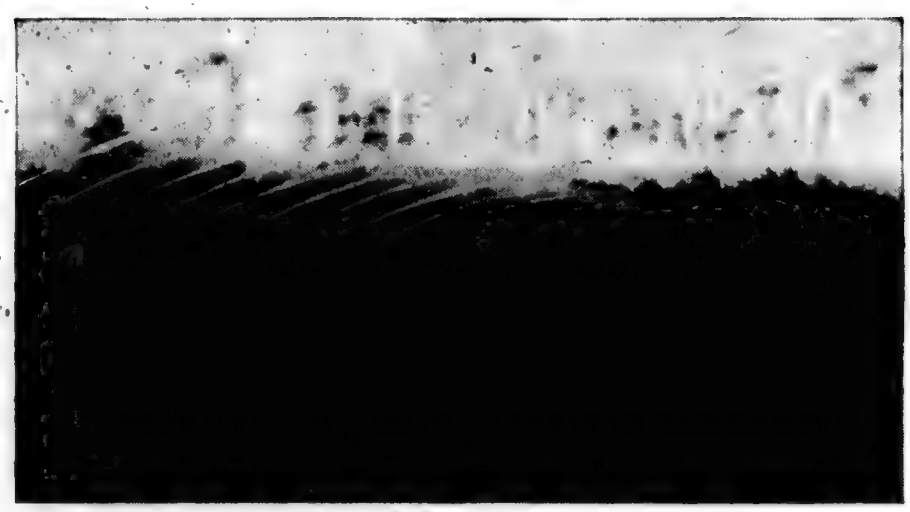
CLEVELAND.

The Market.

The market continues slow with the exception of Saturdays, which, as a rule, are now busy days since the wholesalers have kept closed on Sundays. Flowers have been plentiful during the last week, especially carnations and peonies, which have arrived in exceptionally large quantities, due to the extremely warm weather. Florists predict that, if this weather keeps up, flowers will all come in a pile and then stock will get scarce within a few weeks. The weather has been so warm that if it does not rain soon, things will be literally burned up where there are no facilities for watering.

About the same varieties of flowers have been coming in as last week, with a few exceptions. Coreopsis has made its summer debut, as also have outdoor daisies. It will only take a few days for the ramblers to open. There have already been numerous calls for them.

The superabundance of flowers has kept the street boys busy all the week.



Various Notes.

Albert Barber, of the chain of Park Flower Shops, has opened a new store at 2120 East Fourth street. The store was opened for business June 14 and, although not quite ready, did a fairly good business. W. H. Everett, who had much experience in the flower business at the Park Flower Shop on the Square, has been placed in charge.

Fred Burger has purchased a new Holmes air-cooled touring car.

Frank Williams, of the Cleveland Cut Flower Co., left June 14 on a fishing trip through Canada.

Edward Burkhart has just been released from the army. He saw service in France and Italy. W. F. B.

Loses no seedlings
Makes 100 per cent transplant

A couple of days before transplanting the seedlings, this man turns on the Skinner System and waters the field just right, so the soil will be in the pink of condition for transplanting.

As fast as a row across the field is in, the water is turned on that row.

And so row after row is set out and at once watered.

Now you see why this nurseryman makes a 100% transplant.

He claims that his seedlings make a four years' growth in three, because of being watered the right way.

Are you losing a year the Skinner System could save you?

Send for facts and figures.

ROOTED CUTTINGS.

Wietor Bros., Chicago, are famous as suppliers of Chrysanthemum cuttings. For many years the largest growers of cut mums for the Chicago market, their stock includes only varieties of proved commercial value. For many years hundreds of other florists have each season obtained their young stock from Wietor's and never been disappointed. We have an immense stock, but it is wise to order early.

A Glazing Putty of Real Value

In all our experience and investigation we had never found a preparation for bulbing over the outside of a greenhouse that was quite satisfactory, until we ran across PERMANITE. This was about four years ago. At that time we set about investigating the merits of PERMANITE and proceeded to watch the results of its application to greenhouse roofs.

Last year we were entirely convinced of its high quality and durability, and accepted the western agency for the sale of these goods.

We applied PERMANITE to hundreds of greenhouse roofs, over almost every part of the United States.

The results obtained were highly satisfactory indeed. Glass roofs of all kinds, both old and new, were made water-tight and air-tight, saving thousands of plants from being spoiled by water dripping on them and saving many hundreds of tons of coal by making the roofs proof against the wind and storms of winter.

We give PERMANITE our unqualified endorsement and recommend it highly for all kinds of glazing.

We have a very large stock on hand in our warehouse and can ship immediately.

We Thought So--

When in January, SIX MONTHS AGO, we first presented our Automatic glazing machine to the greenhouse trade, we thought it would take about six months for something to appear as a substitute for our AUTOMATIC glazing machine. It has taken exactly that long—we were right!

Today

We still lead—for we have the only AUTOMATIC glazing machine on the market.

Vita Automatic Glazing Machine

The Vita Automatic Glazing Machine has no triggers to pull. There is a steady, even flow of material, as it is the only machine that operates under a continuous pressure and is the only machine that will produce this smooth flow of material.

Hundreds of greenhouses all over the U. S. are already using this machine.
Thousands have used Vitaplastic Glazing Compound. They have stood the test.

A wise business man figures costs by the year, right down the line, and especially so if his business has to do with greenhouses. He knows, either by experience or from a close study of the subject, that the only businesslike method of determining material costs in greenhouse building is by the year—first cost and up-keep cost.

CYPRESS, "the wood eternal" for greenhouse construction, is positively the cheapest wood to use, figured by its years on the job, without repairs or replacements.

All good constructors in these days are insisting on genuine "Tide-Water" Cypress, "The Wood Eternal"—every board and bundle bearing the famous Cypress Trade-mark.

Vol. 3, CYPRESS Pocket Library, is a little book filled with a big bunch of facts and figures about greenhouse construction—profitable reading. There are 43 books in the "Library," all of which give useful facts and plans about HOW, WHEN and WHERE to use CYPRESS, "The Wood Eternal," AND WHY. Which one shall we send you?

INDEX TO ADVERTISEMENTS AND TABLE OF CONTENTS—PAGES TWO AND THREE

Green Mount Cemetery Greenhouse, at Baltimore, Md. It is 25 feet wide and 75 feet long.

New Greenhouse for Green Mount Cemetery And Something About Park and Cemetery Houses in General

THIS Green Mount house is purely a practical purpose one.

No fuss and feathers about it.

Not a dollar spent for looks, that would take a cent away from its practicalness.

Still it is attractive.

The fact that the roof and eave is straight instead of partly curved, and an angle iron used in place of a gutter, does not prevent its being attractive.

It is simply one of many kinds of attractive houses.

Just naturally, if the proposed location of the house, and the inclination of those who have the say-so, prompts a somewhat ornamental treatment, we will gladly plan and design one especially to meet requirements.

If, however, you have a certain appropriation, we will certainly do our part to help you keep well within it.

We recall one job where all the money was put into an unusually ornamental house; but there was nothing left for benches.

You should have seen the make-shift things that had to pass as benches that first year.

Everybody was disgusted. And why not?

It was just one of those cases where we failed to go into the particulars quite as thoroughly as we might have.

But that was long since. We get the full facts now.

If you are thinking of building, let's talk it over together. Say when and where and we'll be there.

What Credit Means

The word CREDIT means—I BELIEVE—and every transaction in business today involves belief on the part of one man in the integrity and ability of another man to do as he promises.

Upon this belief rests the very foundation of the commercial world today. Take CREDIT or credit confidence from the transaction of business and it will disrupt it instanter.

It is this confidence back of the belief that the florist will pay, and pay PROMPTLY, that puts the business on a firm and substantial basis.

You buy flowers and supplies on CREDIT. You get those flowers and supplies without delay and at a time when you want this stock and need it most. It is only fair to assume that you will meet your obligations when they become due and with PROMPTNESS.

In all fairness to the florists' business in general, you must pay your bills promptly.

From your standpoint you cannot afford to allow your CREDIT to lapse into a state of careless delinquency by putting off the payment of your bills.

PAY YOUR BILLS PROMPTLY

SWEET PEA SOCIETY MEETS AT NEW YORK

Weather conditions proved unfortunate for the exhibition of the American Sweet Pea Society, the date falling too early for the growers expected to make the largest displays. The exhibits, though few, were of excellent quality. The meeting, likewise, was strong in enthusiasm but short in numbers.

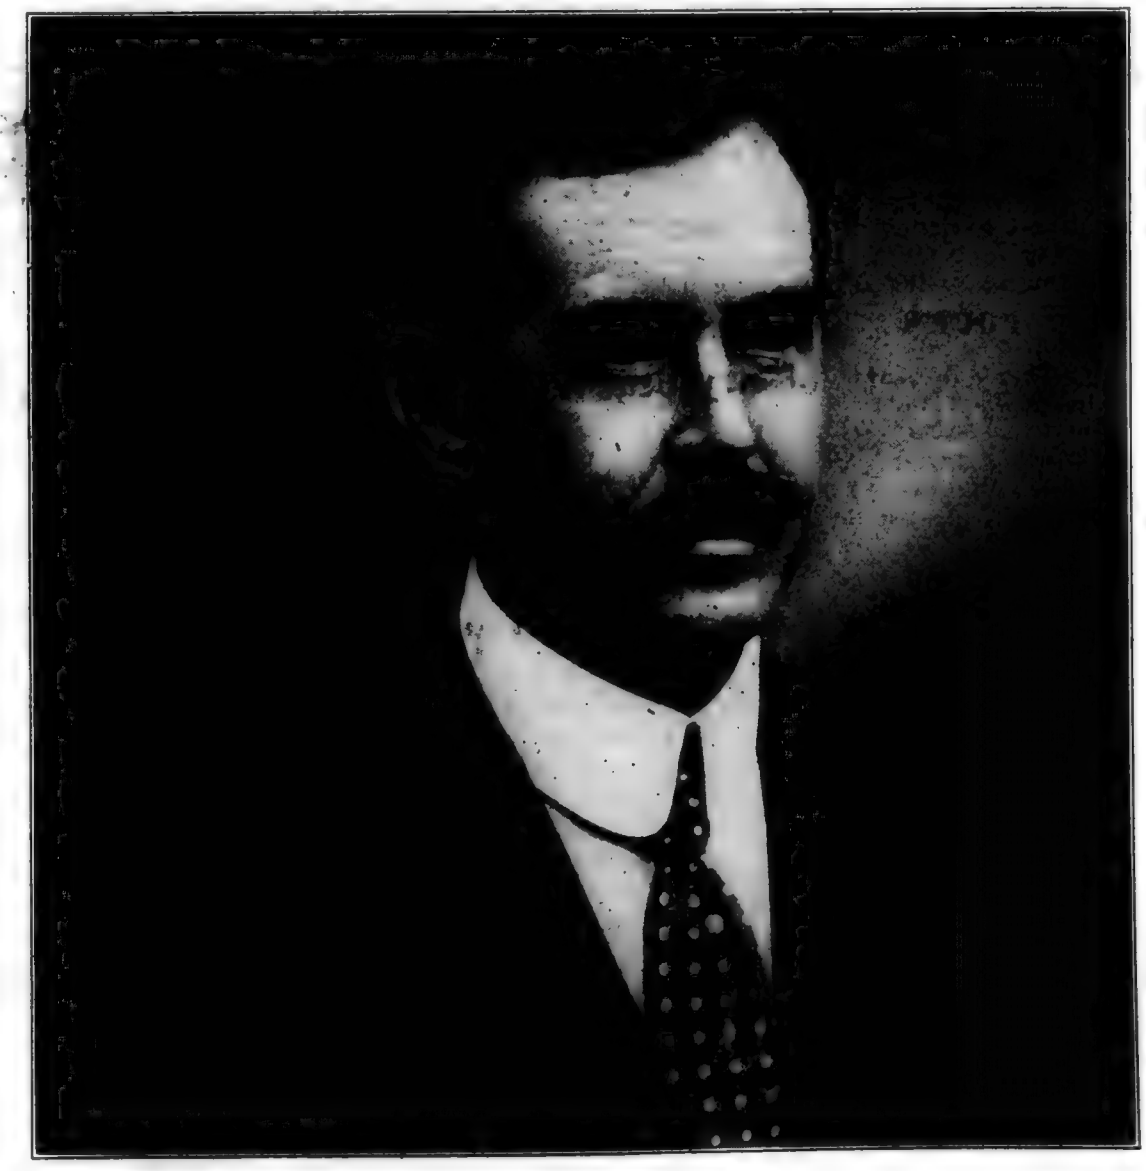
AGAIN the American Sweet Pea Society was unfortunate in the selection of a date for its annual exhibition, which was staged June 21, at the American Museum of Natural History, in New York city. This was much too early for northern growers, and, indeed, also for local growers, if one might judge from the almost entire absence of local exhibitors. The display was small and the exhibitors were few, but the flowers were excellent. Only two exhibits were staged by commercial firms, but they were exceedingly fine; without them the exhibition would hardly have been worthy of the name. W. Atlee Burpee & Co., of Philadelphia, staged a comprehensive exhibit, in their usual fine style, in the class for the finest and most meritorious display of sweet peas, quality and arrangement to count, open to the seed trade only, and easily won first. The second prize on this class was taken by Weeber & Don, New York.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

President.
George W. Kerr, Doylestown, Pa.

Vice-President.
Edwin Jenkins, Lenox, Mass.

Secretary.
William Gray, Newport, R. I.



Treasurer.
William Sim, Cliftondale, Mass.

New Varieties.

In the class for sweet peas not yet in commerce, W. Atlee Burpee & Co. staged Edith Cavell, a bright pink; Giant White, a promising variety, and a rich pink seedling not yet named. The latter two were awarded certificates. This firm also was awarded second prize for the best twenty sprays of any 1919 novelty; and first for the best collection of sweet peas of novelty varieties.

The three leading exhibitors in the non-commercial classes were Wm. G. Taylor, Newport, R. I.; C. F. Cartledge, Locust Valley, N. Y., and W. S. Ellis, Bryn Mawr, Pa. Mr. Taylor is an amateur grower, and won first in every class he entered. Mr. Cartledge won the Hutchins Memorial challenge cup.

John Scheepers & Co., New York, staged a splendid group, even though small, of Lilium Martagon and its variety album, Lilium Krameri, eremurus, Japanese iris, and Lilium odorum japonicum improved. Wm. C. Rickards, Jr., was manager of the show.

George W. Kerr, Perennial President of the American Sweet Pea Society.

The Meeting.

The meeting was held during the afternoon of June 21 in the office of the Museum, with about fifteen members present.

President Kerr in his address favored a fixed residence in New York for the society, and a fixed date for its convention, to insure better exhibitions. "For the fourth time in the comparatively short life of our society," he said, "the exhibition is again staged in New York. Since it is as centrally situated as any city we could fix upon, at least for the eastern growers, I have become convinced that the annual convention should always be held here. With such a fixed residence, so to speak, and also as nearly as possible a fixed date, growers, both in the north and the south, would be in a position to make their arrangements accordingly.

"Weather plays an important part, assisting in some seasons, and in others entirely upsetting our best laid schemes. Such chances, of course, the grower has always to run. For instance, three weeks ago my flowers were at their best. Receiving field culture only, and no water except what nature provided, which has been little since they came into bloom, they are naturally on the down-grade. On the other hand, where plants are grown on the cordon system, exhibition flowers may be reasonably expected over an extended season. However, the help question in the majority of gardens has been a rather perplexing one for some time past, and to grow sweet peas on the cordon system where any quantity is cultivated takes considerable time, so that it has in some gardens been entirely dropped during the last two seasons. Let us hope that as the world's affairs become stabilized, and we return to normal conditions, this form of culture may be more largely followed, for we want to see our beautiful annual grown at its best, and this is certainly the way to do it."

How to Increase Interest?

A lengthy discussion took place as to means of increasing the interest in the society's work. On this subject Secretary Gray said in his report, "I have heard our society referred to as of little consequence, owing to the mistaken idea that organizations like ours should have large reserve funds. I look upon horticultural bodies in general as more or less philanthropic in nature, and believe the funds should be expended to further the objects and aims for which they are organized, retaining from year to year a balance sufficient for them to continue to function.

"Too often it is the case that hearty applause is heard when a large sum is turned into the treasury at the end of the year, and scant notice given to the report of what has been accomplished in the way of promoting horticulture, no matter how wisely the money may have been spent.

"For a society of national scope a modest sum is involved. This suggests that an effort should be made to increase the interest, and make our society assume the importance it should. Members should grasp every opportunity to induce sweet pea lovers to join our ranks, for it is only through interesting others that we shall be able to build up a strong organization. In these days of increased expenses on every hand it may seem dubious to suggest the lowering of the dues to $1 a year, but at this more popular figure it might be possible to so greatly increase our membership as to warrant the change."

The treasurer's report showed an increase in the society's balance on hand during the last six months, with a present total of $287.90.

Officers Elected.

All the officers were reëlected, as follows: President, Geo. W. Kerr, Doylestown, Pa.; vice-president, Edwin Jenkins, Lenox, Mass.; secretary, William Gray, Newport, R. I.; treasurer, Wm. Sim, Cliftondale, Mass. Two new directors were elected, James Stuart, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and E. C. Vick, New York.

A memorial resolution on the death of Wm. J. Stewart, of Boston, was passed, and a copy ordered sent to the family of the deceased.

An invitation to hold the next exhibition and meeting in Boston was read and considered, and was finally referred to the executive committee for action.

St. Paul, Minn.—The Minnesota State Horticultural Society held its summer meeting June 20. Peonies and perennials were the exhibits.

CAN TRADE LIFT BAN?

WHY CAN'T TOURISTS TRAVEL?

Steamer Trade Suffers.

As the months have passed since the armistice, the retailers, particularly those of the Atlantic ports, have awaited the removal of the government's restrictions on the tourist travel to Europe. For a time it seemed as though the state department was somewhat freer in issuing passports, but later followed a tightening up that put all hope of crossing the Atlantic far from the minds of all but persons who had real business reasons for making the voyage. The signing of peace, it was hoped, would cause the government to let down the bars, but there are no signs of its so doing. Not before 1920, it is reported, will passports be issued for any save business trips to Europe. And reasons for such a trip are scrutinized rather closely by government officials before they issue the travel papers, as some members of the trade who have wished to get across the ocean have sorrowfully learned.

Although the government has removed the censorship, and customs officials have ceased the examination of all bundles and parcels delivered to outgoing steamers, and the European lines increase their schedules of passenger vessels week by week, these are small items in comparison with the big, 6-barred gate of government restriction of tourist traffic. Nobody sends flowers to the business man bound for Europe; so the retail florists are still deprived of their steamer trade by the refusal of the government to grant passports to tourists.

Europe Wants Them.

The reason for such refusal after the signing of peace is hard to see. Europe would welcome the millions of dollars which the tourists from America would bring to their coffers. They do not need their destroyed factories, they do not need their devastated farm lands, they do not need their ruined mines and forests to reap the profits of this business. The facilities are there. The natives at the travel centers, at the famous seaside resorts, at the points of sightseeing interest, are awaiting the return of the thousands of Americans who made them their livelihood before the war. The prime minister of Belgium put into figures not long ago the amount of money the inhabitants of his country's seacoast resorts expected to receive when tourist travel resumed; the sum was startling in its amount, but pre-war figures show he did not exaggerate.

Upon the return of the soldiers, France will lose, in addition, the vast sums that they have been spending in furloughs in the army rest areas and in the cities of the country. An average of 1,000,000 soldiers have spent half their pay in France during the last year and a half. This income, at its lowest half a million dollars a day, will shortly be stopped altogether. Why should not the tourists be allowed to help impoverished Europe now when the countries need aid most?

Benefit to Florists.

The people of this country are trying to get permission to tour abroad. Money is plentiful in this country, more plentiful than ever before. The war has increased many a family exchequer. The reasons why persons wish to travel abroad are obvious. The desire is strong, but the state department will not let them go.

To the florists, slackening in business for the first time in months, the benefits of the resumption of tourist travel now would be wonderfully welcome. It would not only be a present source of income, but a high tide that would carry them into another season with bigger prospects than ever before. In it would come the opportunity of doing business when people are most anxious to spend their money, in the first free vacation months after an arduous, but extremely prosperous, war period. The smaller restrictions have gradually been removed. The trade would greatly gain if means could be found to lift the restrictions on tourist travel to Europe.

FRENCH BULBS.

The larger dealers in French bulbs have been greatly disturbed during the last few days by cable advices from Marseilles. Varying in some respects, these have indicated that because of crop failure the exporters will not be able to fill orders in full, but that they will make partial deliveries at sharply advanced prices. It develops that the majority of the orders were placed by American dealers at open prices, but that a percentage of the business was booked at fixed prices, some of them much lower than those now made. In some cases that have been reported, orders were placed at 38 francs for Paper Whites, but the buyers now are notified that the price is advanced to $10, which is equivalent, at the present rate of exchange, to about 66 francs. Even higher prices have been named to some who have placed orders at open prices. The principal trouble arises from the fact that American dealers who had been given prices around 38 francs have sold a considerable part of the purchase in small lots to a large number of consumers at prices based on the purchase price.

It seems likely that a majority of the buyers will accept the advance in prices as the only way to secure delivery of the bulbs, while others will cancel the orders, leaving only an occasional buyer who will have to be settled with, one way or another, by the exporters. But it looks as though the florist who wants to plant Paper Whites this season will have to pay about $20 per case for them.

HONEY DEW UNDER GLASS.

Can you give me any information in regard to growing Honey Dew melons in the greenhouse? Should the side shoots be taken off? E. L.—Mass.

The Review does not know of these melons being grown under glass. If some readers have tried it successfully this paper will be glad to print a description of the method. Please write.

CUTTINGS FROM FIELD ROSES.

Please tell me how to root cuttings from field-grown roses. I have not had much success in that line, being able to root only a small proportion of the cuttings. C. F. P.—Kan.

These roses can be propagated either by taking half-ripened cuttings early in the summer and rooting them under glass, or by taking cuttings of dormant wood in the autumn and planting them in the spring.

A good way of rooting the summer cuttings is to place them in a frame which has been so prepared as to have the nature of a mild hotbed, with about eighteen inches of trodden stable manure at the bottom, three inches of soil above the manure and two inches of sand on top. Two-eye cuttings will serve, with one of the eyes under the sand. Keep the sand moist and shaded. Ventilate only slightly at first, increasing the amount of air carefully and gradually. When the cuttings are well rooted, transfer them to 2½-inch or 3-inch pots and place them in a cold-frame.

The dormant fall cuttings—about six inches in length, with two or three eyes—may be tied in bundles and stored during the winter in sand. In the spring these may be planted, with one eye above the surface, in V-shaped trenches outdoors, in well manured ground, where they will develop into fairly strong plants by the following autumn. However, a greater percentage of rooted plants may be obtained by subjecting the fall cuttings to a different sort of treatment. In this case, after tying the cuttings in bundles, wrap moist sphagnum around the ends and store the bundles in flats under a bench in a cool house. In two months the cuttings will be well calloused and may be placed in sand over a little bottom heat, in a house which has a temperature of about 50 degrees. If duly potted, they should be ready for planting out in April or May.

ROSES FOR POT CULTURE.

I wish to grow some roses in pots for the coming fall holidays. What varieties would you recommend, in dark red, pink and yellow? I think I would prefer the Cochet type. I have been in the habit of buying all my regular stock of potted plants from wholesalers. Where and how could I get a list of the correct dates for sowing seeds of all the most popular plants, so as to bring them into bloom at the proper time? In fumigating with tobacco stems a house that contains cinerarias, cyclamens and primulas, should there be any ventilation? How long should the fumigation continue? A. J. Z.—N. Y.

The inquirer does not clearly indicate the nature or purpose of the roses he has in mind, except that he wants them in three colors—red, pink and yellow—and prefers the Cochet type. Probably he will not have much difficulty in finding the desired shades of color in the Cochet class, though it will be wise to consult a reliable wholesale grower and be guided somewhat by his advice. Etoile de France is sometimes known as the Crimson Maman Cochet and is described as a clear red-crimson. Helen Gould, Mrs. B. R. Cant and other sorts are each designated as the Red Maman Cochet. Maman Cochet itself is sometimes distinguished as the Pink Maman Cochet. Various roses—Alexander Hill Gray and others—are listed by different growers under the name of Yellow Maman Cochet. One of Cook's roses is named the White Maman Cochet.

If roses of the Dorothy Perkins class would be more suitable for the purpose in view, various sorts are available, such as: Excelsa, or Red Dorothy Perkins; Dorothy Perkins, pink; Shower of Gold, yellow, and White Dorothy Perkins.

During the process of fumigation, the house should be closed as tightly as possible. As to the duration of exposure, a definite answer in small space is impossible, since much depends on the density of the smoke and on other circumstances. A good motto in fumigating is, "Lightly and often." Tobacco dust is far superior to the stems for such uses. On this subject, and also with reference to the question on dates of sowing, the inquirer must be governed largely by his experience, as well as by the Seasonable Suggestions and other cultural notes that appear weekly in The Review.

CUTTINGS OF VINCA AND IVY.

Will you kindly let me know how best to treat (from this date) rooted cuttings of Vinca variegata and German ivy, with a view to making good stock plants for next spring? How hardy is either of the above? Is German ivy more practical for hanging baskets and boxes than English ivy? D. R.—Neb.

Plant the vincas outside in the garden, where they can be watered and cultivated until they become established. Plant in rows eighteen inches apart, with twelve inches between the plants in the row. These cuttings will need to be encouraged to root quickly and take hold of the soil, then they will grow freely. Vincas make their best growth late in the summer, and can be left in the open ground until early in October, when they should be lifted, put into 4-inch pots and plunged at the edge of the bench along the walks of a carnation house, where they can remain until needed for use in the spring.

German ivy is a much speedier-growing vine than the vinca. It can be propagated during the winter months, and makes strong plants for basket or box work in the spring. It is not, therefore, necessary to plant out as many as of the vincas. Twenty-five plants placed outside now and lifted in September will provide a good number of plants for next spring. This ivy serves a good purpose as a vine for baskets or small vases, or as a filler with other vines for larger vases, but it is not so durable as English ivy, which cannot be beat as a vine for window boxes, hanging baskets or vases. CATERPILLARS ON FERNS.

I am enclosing some fronds of Boston ferns and also some specimens of worms which are devouring the ferns to such an extent as to make many of them practically worthless. In my opinion the pest is Cheimatobia brumata, which may have been brought into the house with the soil from outside, but it is possible that I am wrong. I have used such insecticides as Paris green, arsenate of lead, nicotine and soap, but these have all proved to be failures, so I am applying to you for advice.

J. W.—Ill.

The fern fronds were duly received, but no caterpillars or worms were found in the package, possibly owing to the fact that the box in which the specimens were mailed was badly broken in transit. The fern fronds—tips of leaves from Boston ferns—showed indications of the work of the Florida fern caterpillar, Callopistria floridensis, and the best remedy for this pest is pyrethrum powder, applied with a bellows in sufficient quantity to make the plants appear dusty. This treatment should be given in the late afternoon, when the ventilators are closed, and should be repeated once or twice a week for several weeks. W. H. T.

BIRD'S-NEST FERN CULTURE.

Will you please inform me what kind of soil is necessary and what is the proper temperature for bird's-nest ferns? All our attempts to grow them have failed. The plants appear healthy and grow well up to a certain point. Then they become misshapen and a short time later die. Please advise us also what is the proper temperature and if strong light will harm them.

A. J. W.—O.

Bird's-nest ferns enjoy a rather open soil with good drainage. A compost consisting of two parts of good loam to one part of well rotted leaf-mold will answer well. The addition of some broken pots, ground up to about the size of coarse coffee, also will benefit the soil. Use this in the proportion of a 6-inch or 7-inch potful to a barrow load of soil. A night temperature of 60 degrees and full exposure to the sun during the winter months is best for these plants, while during the summer a light shading is required. It also is advisable not to water them over the foliage late in the day, else the leaves may suffer from excessive moisture throughout the night. W. H. T.

ON FERNS OUTDOORS.

We have experienced some trouble in keeping liquid insecticide on ferns, owing to the frequent showers that wash it off and the great amount of labor required to replace it. Can you advise us whether there is a dry powder that would not burn foliage if put on with a powder gun when the dew is heavy? We have been told that Paris green, arsenate of lead, etc., will burn foliage if applied dry when dew is on. Kindly let us know if this is true.

B. F. C.—Fla.

OR WHAT HAVE YOU?

The Review is the market place; it brings the buyers and sellers together; yes, the traders, too. It seems to make no difference what one offers, there is someone watching for just that thing. Like this:

Please stop my offer of the refrigerator; it was sold the first day after The Review was out. —C. M. Hamilton, Kewanee, Ill., June 16, 1919.

When you hear a florist complain of the cost of advertising you may be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

Russellville, Ind.—Bilbs & Grimes have had such a big increase in business that a new house will be put up this summer.

BUD AND ROOT TROUBLES.

Can you tell me why some of my geraniums have come blind? They have been growing thriftily, but have no buds. This trouble has been especially noticeable in the variety Poitevine. Also, please tell me why, after geraniums have been potted a while, the roots sometimes turn brown and seem to be dead, while there is no sign of trouble in the upper part of the plants. After the plants get into this condition, they are extremely slow to start new growth. M. W. W.—O.

Blindness is a disease to which the variety Beaute Poitevine and the double white varieties are most susceptible, especially when a large number of cuttings are taken from the stock plants. The best method of overcoming the trouble is to select the stock plants carefully, throwing out any that show signs of the disease.

The root trouble referred to is caused by an excess of moisture or dryness before the plants have become thoroughly established. As a consequence of these conditions, the roots either rot or dry up before they get a thorough control of the soil; hence the new growth is slow of action. As in the case of all other plants, geraniums need extremely careful watering after repotting.

M. P.

DUE TO DARK, WET WEATHER.

I am sending you a sample of our geraniums. They were apparently healthy until a few days ago, when they began to be affected by a disease which is indicated by spots on the leaves. We used a light soil, mixed with bone meal. Can you tell us what the trouble is, what is the cause of it and whether there is any remedy for it?

C. W. S.—Ill.

There was not much the matter with the sample geraniums. The bone meal may have caused a soft growth, which would be easily affected by the dark, wet weather which has been prevalent during the last three weeks. This, I think, is the cause of the spotted foliage. The roots were in good condition; so was the young growth of the plant, the older leaves seeming to be the ones affected. M. P.

POINTS ON THE PEONY SHOW

EXHIBITS AT DETROIT.

The Long Distance Shipment.

Every member of the American Peony Society is proud of the achievement of the T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co. in capturing the gold medal in the longest distance contest on record. Their peony gardens are at West Newbury, Mass., within sound of the hammers of the shipbuilding yards at Newburyport, on the Atlantic ocean, and yet the peonies in their exhibit looked as if they had just been brought in from a garden not a hundred yards away. Some of the rest of us, who did not have to bring our flowers a great distance, wanted the gold medal also, and we put up a good, strong fight for it, but we were fairly beaten, and are now making our plans to get it next year. The medal was given for the best display of not more than 100 blooms, each bloom to be of a different variety and to be correctly labeled.

Chance for Opinions.

I am glad there were so many members of the American Peony Society present, even from such distant states as Iowa and Massachusetts, for the educational value of such a display can not be overestimated. Everybody wanted to see the new varieties, which are held at such seemingly high prices. Each man wanted a chance to make up his own mind whether Glorious is really worth $35 or not, whether Philippe Rivoire is the best dark red peony in the world, whether Lady Alexandra Duff deserves all the good things which have been said about it, and whether or not it is true that Le Cygne is the acme of perfection in a pure white peony.

Splendid Single Specimens.

Next to securing the gold medal, the greatest honor that can come to an exhibitor is to get the prize for the best single bloom in the show, and after that the prize for the best six specimens of any one variety. There was great competition in these two classes, and magnificent blooms were shown. It would have delighted the heart of every member of the American Peony Society to see on the same table Solange, Lady Alexandra Duff, Glorious, Therese, Raoul Dessert, Mont Blanc, Le Cygne, Givette, Richardson's Grandiflora and Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

Sensational Seedlings.

The judges spent a great deal of time over these aristocrats, and when they finished their work, blue ribbons were found on Glorious and on Le Cygne, and Prof. A. P. Saunders, of Clinton, N. Y., wore a smile that would not come off, for both of the winning varieties came from his garden. Therese came in second in both classes, and her friends say she can always be found among the winners.

The sensation of the show was a new seedling, also from Prof. Saunders' garden, which is very full, pure white, of splendid size and form, and which he has named Grace Loomis.

The T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co. also had a seedling of special merit, named Nymphæa, which is of exactly the opposite type from Prof. Saunders' seedling. It also is white, but its charm is in the looseness and quality of its petals, and it pleases the peony enthusiast for exactly the same reason that makes Phyllis Kelway such a favorite among the deep pinks.

Will McClelland, of Saginaw, Mich., staged the first vase of fifteen Solange ever seen in any peony show, and Miss Blacklock, of Meadowvale, Ont., won the only first prize of the society which has ever gone out of the United States. Her vase of twenty-five M. Jules Elie was a center of attraction. D. W. C. Ruff, of St. Paul, Minn., showed his loyalty to the society by sending splendid blooms.

The show was so large that I did not get to see every display, but I know that B. H. Farr, of Wyomissing, Pa., showed some wonderful blooms of Milton Hill, and I saw that two amateurs from Van Wert, Ohio, Harry Eikenbarry and Miss Alice Bonnewitz, each had some blue ribbons.

Detroit Hospitality.

The members of the Detroit Florists' Club were the hosts of the members of the American Peony Society, and the team work in the club was the wonder of every visitor. Under the leadership of Philip Breitmeyer and J. F. Sullivan, the florists placed this peony show in the front rank, and performed services for the exhibitors that we could not have asked for. They met us at the station with automobiles, took us to our hotels, placed our blooms in cold storage, came for us in the morning with their machines, took our flowers to the show room and assisted us in staging our exhibits. They also gave a banquet to the members of the society, and made us feel that their service to us was a pleasure to them. Every exhibitor will remember the Detroit show with pleasure, and every visitor can not help having a more exalted idea of the beauty of the peony as the queen of flowers.

Observations on the exhibition of the American Peony Society at Detroit last week, by the new president of the society, Lee R. Bonnewitz, of Van Wert, O.

AMARYLLIS BELLADONNA.

Last March I received a shipment of a few hundred bulbs of Amaryllis Belladonna from California. When they arrived they had fine white roots and remnants of green foliage, though the bulk of the leaves had been cut off. I have not planted them yet, but have allowed them to rest, as I understood that they would bloom in winter. Please state when they should be planted and when they will bloom. A. H.—Neb.

Amaryllis Belladonna naturally blooms in late summer or in fall, but in the greenhouse its season of flowering varies somewhat, of course, according to treatment. The leaves and flowers are not produced together; the foliage follows the flowers. After the flowers fade, the plants should not be stored away and neglected, but should have plenty of light and moisture, as they are then just entering their period of most vigorous growth and are beginning to accumulate strength for future blooming. This time of active growth is succeeded by a period of partial rest, but even then water should not be entirely withheld.

As may be inferred from what has already been said, the bulbs in question should be potted without further delay, but should not be encouraged into rapid growth until the near approach of the time when the blooms are wanted. After the flower scapes show, provide a position where there is more heat and light. A weak solution of cow manure will aid in the development of the flowers. When the plants are actually in bloom, a moderate temperature, with light shade, will lengthen the flowering season.

OPEN LETTERS from READERS

PORTLAND A STEP AHEAD.

After witnessing Portland's annual rose festival, which was held June 11 to 13, I must say that in point of artistic arrangement and lavish use of blooms, nothing has ever surpassed it. Now that all America has learned to "Say It with Flowers," Portland goes one step better, and does it with flowers.

Robert Newcomb.

PRICES WILL HOLD UP.

There is a great deal of complaint because of prices asked this year for future delivery, but florists must consider that everything is higher, packing material, labor, mailing, printing, gasoline, etc. Consequently, dealers and growers must have more for their stock or close down.

There are many buyers who are going to hold off, thinking that they will pick up bargain stock later. These, I am afraid, are going to get left. My future orders are coming in faster than I ever expected, and, inside of three or four weeks, I shall be booked to the limit.

Thanks to The Review, I know how much stock I was short last spring, and I believe it will be worse next year. Some growers have been in the rain belt, and work in their fields has been impossible. They will therefore be unable to produce as much stock as expected. If stock that is good can be secured for future delivery now, I think the wise buyer will have it and be safe.

H. W. Peterson.

DETERMINING RENTALS.

I should like to have this problem solved for me in The Review. I am sure others, too, would profit by the solution. It is a question of rentals and how they are determined. What rent should be asked for greenhouses in a small town, which have increased in twenty years from a 6x12 hotbed to 19,000 feet of glass, stocked to utmost capacity with roses, carnations, callas, chrysanthemums, geraniums, bedding and vegetable stock? This establishment does a wholesale and retail business that has increased yearly until, during ten months of the present season, cash sales alone have been $1,800 more than in any previous entire year. How does one determine such rentals?

I should like an answer from readers as soon as possible, as there are other elderly growers with whom I have talked, who would like to rent to younger florists, but who do not know how to go about it. I have a young man who has been with me for seven years and who would take my place if either of us knew how to go about it with no loss to either party. I have built up a splendid trade and would not like to see it go down, which it might if the name were changed and if it were run by different hands, as I have done the business and have the business name.

I have several woman friends who have been running their businesses since the death of their husbands and who wish to retire from the trade and, at the same time, rent their establishments profitably. (Mrs.) M. E. G. V.

SORENSON SHOWS PEONIES.

A. Sorenson, gardener at the private estate of Mr. Cooper, known as "Dunmovin," at Kenosha, Wis., held open house Saturday and Sunday, June 13 and 14, showing to the public the large fields of peonies, containing 25,000 plants.

The throngs of visitors who took advantage of the opportunity were amply repaid for their visit, for the large blocks of each variety were in perfect condition and presented a veritable feast of color All of the leading varieties are grown, and are exceptionally clean and healthy, the soil being in a high state of fertility.

Dahlias also are grown in large quantities, the cream of the European and American introductions, tog ther with the old and tried varieties. Lilacs of the best imported French varieties are numerous and evidence of what must have been a magnificent display was still to be seen in the remaining seed pods. Irises and delphiniums are grown in large quantities also.

The landscape features of the place are admirably planned, presenting possibilities of much future development without alteration of that which now exists. Such an estate is well worth a visit from any horticulturist, and Mr. Sorenson is to be commended on his excellent work. F. W. Sparks.

COMING CONVENTIONS

THE CANADIAN CONVENTION.

Preliminary Preparations.

The annual convention of the Canadian Horticultural Association will be held at Toronto, Ont., August 12 to 15. The program has been outlined and plans are under way to make the first meeting after the war a record one. In addition to business meetings and papers of interest, recreation is planned in ample quantity. On the afternoon and evening of the second day of the convention, a picnic and dance is scheduled. This event attracted over 300 florists and their friends last year, and therefore 500 are prepared for this year. The trip to Long Branch will be made in special electric cars. Next day, August 14, the florists will motor to the greenhouses of Sir John Eaton and Sir Henry Pellatt, and in the evening will be held the banquet, at the Prince George hotel. The last day of the convention will be spent in a boat trip across the lake.

The local committee consists of the executives of the Gardeners' and Florists' Association and of the Retail Florists' Club. H. G. Dillemuth is chairman of the convention committee; A. Simpson, secretary; Herman Simmers, treasurer, and J. J. Higgins, superintendent of exhibits.

THE TEXAS CONVENTION.

Committee at Work.

The committees whose reports are expected to add much of interest to the discussion at the convention of the Texas State Florists' Convention at Austin, July 9 and 10, are composed as follows:

Welfare and publicity committee: R. C. Kerr, Bird Forest, Henry Greve.

Commercial glass committee: Hans Schroeder, P. D. Houser, J. M. Nussbaumer.

Program committee: L. J. Tackett, R. C. Kerr, Edgar Hall.

Committee on flower show: R. C. Kerr, Mrs. W. N. Judge, F. C. Suchy, C. E. Papworth.

Committee on arboretum: John S. Kerr, Chas. H. Alf, Sr.

FLORISTS OF TEXAS!

We need you badly, and you need us, in Austin at our state convention July 9 and 10. It is a leisure time, and your business for the last year has been a record-breaker; so put up no excuse. We expect you there surely.

Many things of national importance need our attention and endorsement, 100 per cent strong. Our publicity campaign, the annual meeting of the S. A. F. in Detroit in August, the embargo on imported stock, the florists' telegrapn service, all need our consideration. Besides, prepare yourselves for future events, plainly visible. Many do not consider the valuable work done for us by the S. A. F. and our trade papers. Let us line up solidly and show our due appreciation of their efforts.

The war interfered with last year's meeting; so it is all the more necessary that much state work be done. Express, freight and train service need our attention. Bring along your book, and tell us your joys and woes. We shall do likewise. Come if you have only 500 feet of glass. Florists have made great progress in this state the last two years. We shall expect every florist in the state at Austin.

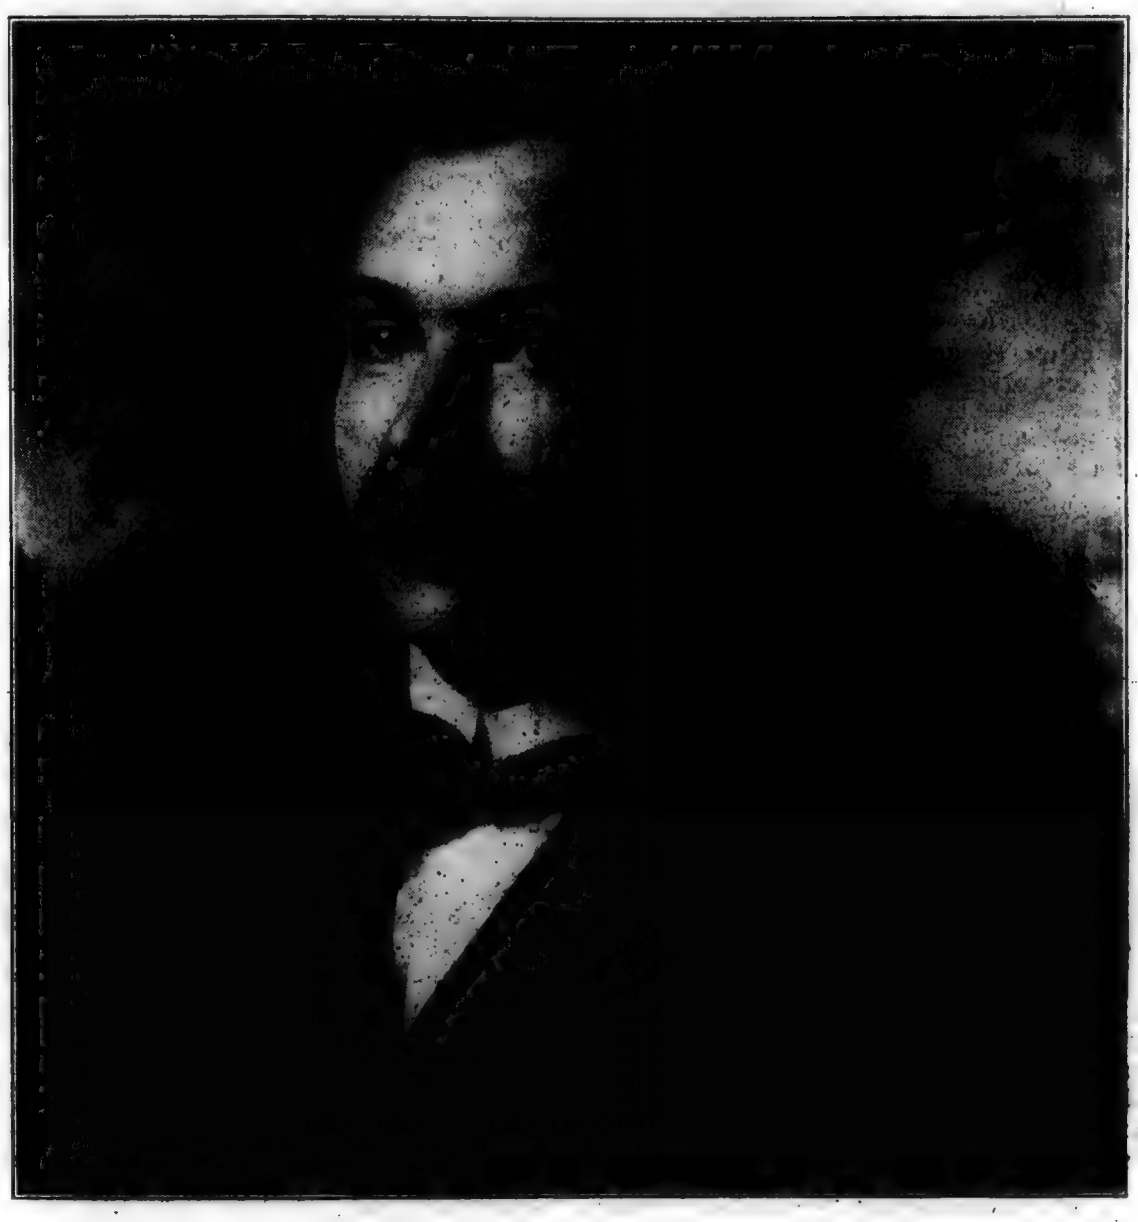
H. O. Hannah,
Vice-president Texas State Florists' Assn.

TO BOWL AT DETROIT.

There promises to be a revival of interest in the S. A. F. bowling tournament as a feature of the Detroit convention. Teams from several cities are practicing, including New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Buffalo, Cleveland and St. Louis.

The entire top floor of the Recreation building, a famous structure, has been engaged for the exclusive use of the visiting and local florists, and here all the games will be rolled, including the ladies' contest. There are twenty-eight alleys on the floor and they are considered the finest in the west. Being on the top floor of a nine-story building, the maximum of comfort for the bowlers and spectators will be enjoyed.

According to the present plans, Wednesday evening, August 20, will be assigned to the contest. Captains of organized teams should make entries and report to the local chairman, Joseph Streit, at 1366 McClellan avenue, Detroit.



The program thus far arranged is as follows:

Grand contest open to all organized teams competing for the grand trophy. Two other prizes will also be given in this contest and a prize to the player on either team scoring the highest average. The individual games will be open to all except those players in the three games of the grand contest and at least ten and perhaps more prizes will be awarded, graduated from the highest down to the number to be later designated.

The championship contest of three games will be open to the ten or more players scoring the highest points in the individual games and the highest man from each team entering the grand contest. The ex-presidents' contest will be open to all ex-presidents of the S. A. F. and suitable prizes will be provided.

Three games will be rolled by the ladies and at least ten prizes awarded.

WHO'S WHO IN THE TRADE—AND WHY

OTTO LANG.

THIS year the Lang Floral & Nursery Co., at Dallas, Tex., comes to its majority, having been born in 1898 as the City Greenhouses, with a golden spoon—otherwise cash capital—of $250 in its mouth. But from $1,000 business in its infant year it attained $175,000 in the last year, showing how sturdy a grown-up it has become. And the golden spoon is become a capitalization of $70,000, to which has been added a handsome surplus. The four small greenhouses which were its swaddling clothes have grown to 100,000 feet of glass. Mr. Lang is the person responsible for this growth. The spirit by which he accomplished it is shown by his optimistic statement that the business will double its size in the next three or four years. Therefore, Texas florists are interested in anticipation of Mr. Lang's opinion on "The Outlook for Next Year's Business," to be delivered at their convention in July.

SECTIONAL GREENHOUSES.

Future Possibilities.

Greenhouses made in sections of standard size, which would allow the rapid expansion of a house simply by adding sections, are a possibility of the future. This idea is being used in the erection of factories, having become popular during the war, when it was necessary to increase manufacturing space many times at short notice. The construction division of the army also adopted the idea in its work.

John M. Taylor, manager of the construction information department of the H. K. Ferguson Co., Cleveland, O., engineers and builders, believes that the standardized sectional building will be adopted by all lines of trade in the course of time. He deals with factory buildings, as the company with which he is connected confines its operation to that field, but he sees no reason why greenhouse construction men should not find the plan popular with florists.

Not Temporary Structures.

"A standard building is by no means a portable or temporary building," says Mr. Taylor. "It is standard because it has been designed to be erected in standard units. The material used is of standard dimensions and made in large quantities. It is kept in stock by the construction companies, ready for immediate shipment and use. Any size of building may be put up. The number of units used determines this. As an additional advantage, when the business of the man with a standard building expands, he need only remove a side or end wall and add a few additional units in order to have all the space he needs under one roof.

"Economy is a marked feature of a standard building construction. Buying their materials in large quantities, the construction companies are able to obtain and give better figures than is possible under the old system. Furthermore, the men in charge of their construction crews are thoroughly familiar with every detail of the work, which enables them to avoid costly delays and errors. Labor-saving machinery and equipment is used wherever practicable, which results in further saving, for labor is an important item in building costs at present.

"When desired, speed can be made a strong feature in standard building construction, though this is avoided by the builders whenever possible, because excessive speed almost always increases the cost and lowers the quality of workmanship."

ABOUT RESURRECTION PLANTS.

Will you tell us, through your columns, where the resurrection plant grows? Do the plants that are peddled through the country really have any life in them? Would they grow here? They look as if they might be on the order of the polypodium. S. S. & S.—La.

There are several varieties of so-called resurrection plants and it is impossible to determine which of them is referred to in this inquiry. They are mostly members of the selaginella, or club moss, family and the mustard family. Some of them, when placed in water, assume a semblance of life though really dead; others actually renew their life under such treatment. Two of the most typical of them are the rose of Jericho, or Anastatica hierochuntica, and the bird's-nest moss, or Selaginella lepidophylla. The latter is more likely to be the one that the inquirer had in mind. Neither of them can be regarded as having real commercial value.

The rose of Jericho, as its name indicates, is a native of the sandy deserts of Syria and neighboring regions. It is an annual and reaches a height of six inches. After flowering and shedding its leaves, it rolls up into a ball of lattice-like formation, enclosing the fruits or seeds. In this shape it is uprooted by the winds and tossed about until the winter rain or other moisture causes it to expand and drop its seeds, which quickly germinate. It is not at all ornamental, but is sometimes grown as a curiosity, especially for students of botany. The seed may be sown in pots in February, in a temperature of 60 degrees.

Selaginella lepidophylla is a perennial. It is a native of Mexico and southwest Texas. When dry, it curls up into a tight mass. On absorbing moisture, it spreads into a saucer-like shape, exposing the lively green of the upper part of the fronds. If not too old or dry, it may grow, when placed in a bowl of water with a small quantity of sand and pebbles, or the process of drying and reviving, it is said, may sometimes be repeated several times. Since this selaginella is not one of the most beautiful of the genus, it is seldom grown in greenhouses as an ornamental, but is frequently seen in botanic gardens.

As the inquirer speaks of a resemblance to the polypodium, it is possible that he refers to Polypodium polypodioides, which is sometimes called the resurrection fern, on account of its ability to revive after being badly parched, but it does not possess the other characteristics of the typical resurrection plant.

TAMPA WILD CAT BACK.

Wm. H. Knull, junior member of the Knull Floral Co., Tampa, Fla., enlisted two years ago in the Medical Corps. He was in France with the Wild Cat or 81st Division. He has just returned home, and will resume his old position as secretary and treasurer of the company and manager of the store. He is of the third generation in the florists' business.

William H. Knull.

Mr. Knull was fortunate enough to get a furlough to London for ten days, viewing all the most interesting places. Most absorbing of all were the Kew Gardens, or Royal Botanical Gardens, the largest in the world, covering 228 acres, with many large houses and rare collections, many plants of which are said to be over 300 years old.

F. A. Knull, his father and president of the concern, who has completely broken down under the entire strain of both the store and greenhouses, will immediately leave for a few months' recreation, visiting New York and Boston, and then spend two months in the mountains of Maine among the pines, returning in the fall via Niagara Falls, Cleveland, Detroit, thence by automobile back by way of Fort Wayne, Cincinnati, Atlanta and Jacksonville, Fla., by which time he hopes to fully regain health and vigor.

ALBANY LANDMARK BURNS.

Among the crowd that witnessed the recent destruction by fire of that famous hostelry known as Keeler's Broadway hotel, Albany, N. Y., were several members of the trade. They noted with regret the passing of a resort largely patronized by the leading lights in politics and floriculture. It was immortalized by that unrivaled after-dinner orator, Chauncey M. Depew, whose bust adorned the center of the open fireplace upon the mantel, where many a wearied traveler has read while enjoying the warm glow from the big fire:

"Whoe'er has traveled life's dull round,
Where'er its stages may have been,
Has paused to think he oft has found
The warmest welcome at an inn."

Here the Albany Florists' Club held its social gatherings, the quality of which has done much toward keeping the members together and promoting the spirit of good will. The pervading spirit of "get together now and then" is the secret of the cordial feeling existing, and is worthy of emulation by our fellow florists in larger cities.

It is gratifying to learn that a splendid modern hotel will speedily be erected upon the former site and our Albany friends will be given the opportunity to renew acquaintances and exchange ideas, which will be in keeping with the new and improved surroundings.

Quoting Fred A. Danker, whose store is located near by and was threatened during the fire, "We were sorry to see the old home burn and deeply regret the loss of one of our noble fire laddies, but glad to know there were no other casualties to call for our aid with floral expressions of sympathy." W. M.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.

John W. H. Grupe, of the floral department of the Carl Co., Schenectady, N. Y., observed that while he is one of the oldest in the trade in the Electric City, he received the first shock after he had put in one year in this new connection. In other words, he learned in the first year how little he knew of business methods; the second year, by catching and imbibing some of the real business atmosphere, he made some money, and is assured that if any of the trade do not make real money now, it is their own fault.

W. H. Showers, of Schenectady, N. Y., commented that the annual rose Sunday observed by the Lutheran church was to be commended. One church used 500 pink roses.

Julius Eger, of Schenectady, N. Y., was awarded the first prize for a decorated automobile owned and driven by himself in the parade of the B. P. O. E. in Albany, during the annual state convention held recently.

Toledo, O.—Louis F. Miller, of Miller Bros., who is president of the Florists' and Gardeners' Insurance Co., believes that the trade's need for wind storm insurance will best be met by local associations of mutual character, each operating within the limits of its home state.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Summer arrived June 21 and it found the cut flower business in a more or less comatose condition. Hot weather does not encourage flower buying and there are now hundreds of gardens ablaze with roses, herbaceous perennials, flowering shrubs and early annuals, the owners of which have no occasion to purchase flowers while they have such a wealth at home. A few weddings help to relieve the dullness now creeping over business and, this week, more school graduations, with the war-time ban on flowers removed, will use considerable material. Most of the growers are busy throwing out, refilling or replanting chrysanthemums or carnations and are well satisfied with the season now ending. It has surely been a most satisfactory one and, unless all signs fail, even better days are ahead of us.

Roses are small and of inferior quality in the main. At present there is a good call for short-stemmed stock, which has improved prices. Some nice American Beauties are coming in and the best sell at $20 per hundred. At one time outdoor roses were a big market feature; now few are seen here, but they are fine everywhere, thanks to the mild weather, and entirely discount greenhouse roses.

Carnations are small and poor. Some varieties like Pink Delight are of little value, but Good Cheer, Matchless, Laddie and Roper continue of good quality for late June. Few good sweet peas are seen. The best sell readily. Lily of the valley is scarce and sells at fancy prices. The few lilies coming in sell at $15 to $20 per hundred. Gladioli are less abundant and such flowers as marguerites and snapdragons are practically done.

In outdoor flowers there is an ample supply of fine material, such as gaillardia, coreopsis, digitalis, delphinium, campanula, etc., and these are used effectively in the store windows. Cattleyas are in shorter supply and gardenias are mostly short-stemmed.

Rose and Strawberry Exhibition.

While smaller in extent than in former years, the exhibition June 21 and 22 proved interesting, more especially when the small money premiums are considered. That the summer shows have a strong hold on the public was attested by the crowds that attended, and those who contemplate cutting out the summer shows in favor of one or two large exhibitions a year might have a change of heart if they could attend and see the enthusiasm manifested for all flowers which can be grown outdoors. The date was a trifle early for hybrid perpetuals, but suited hybrid tea roses well. It was refreshing to note that all the rose prize-winners this year were amateurs.

For twenty-four hybrid teas, distinct, John B. Wills won with nice, fresh blooms of Lady Ashtown, Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, Mme. Jules Grolez, William Shean, Florence Pemberton, George Dickson, Mme. Maurice de Luze, Mme. Melanie Soupert, Lyon rose, J. L. Mock, Chateau de Clos Vougeot, Laurent Carle, Mme. Caroline Testout, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Gustave Grunerwald, Edward Bohane, Mrs. Wemyss Quinn, Mme. Segond Weber, White Killarney, Mrs. J. H. Welch, Betty, May Kenyon Slaney, Mme. Abel Chatenay and Edward Mawley.

Fine flowers were shown by Robert Seaver, A. L. Stephen, Hillcrest Farm and David Tyndall. For twelve sprays of rambler roses A. H. Fish, of New Bedford, won with splendid samples of Silver Moon, Dr. Van Fleet, Mary Lovett, Zepherin Dronhin, Francois Guillot, Sanders' White, Gardenia, Goldfinch, Climbing American Beauty, Baroness Ittersum, Bess Lovett and Christine Wright. The same exhibitor received a silver medal for a large and comprehensive collection of rambler roses, showing excellent culture. Others, in addition to those already named, which were pleasing, were LeMexique, Electra, Petite Jeanne, Oriole, Prof. C. S. Sargent, golden yellow in color; Climbing Lady Ashtown and Mrs. Wm. E. Egan.

T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co., Inc., had a grand display of peonies in over 100 varieties. Specially fine were some of the Richardson seedlings, including Walter Faxon, Milton Hill and grandiflora, also Solange, Therese, La Perle, Mrs. Carew, Marie, Mons. Dupont, Eugene Verdier, Mme. Boulanger, Avalanche and Alfred de Musset. W. N. Craig received first prize for twenty-five varieties of hardy herbaceous perennials. Henry Eaton, gardener to R. M. Saltonstall, had handsome vases of digitalis and Campanula persicifolia.

There was a nice display of vegetables and strawberries. Among the latter Marshall easily stood supreme over all competitors, Golden Gate, Barrymore and Judith coming next in point of merit.

Horticultural Club Has Outing.

The members of the Horticultural Club, on the invitation of R. & J. Farquhar & Co., visited that firm's Cape Cod nurseries, located at West Barnstable, Mass., June 18, making the 75-mile journey in five large automobiles over splendid roads. R. & J. Farquhar & Co. own about ninety acres of land there and nearly all of it is now planted with thrifty nursery stock. Great blocks of seedling rhododendrons, azaleas and kalmias were noted, also large quantities of conifers, including many of the new Chinese spruces and firs. A good number of plants which winter indifferently near Boston come through unscathed on Cape Cod. Lilies are grown in quantity, including regale, Henryi, speciosum, auratum and Sargentiæ, and make splendid bulbs in the sandy soil here. After an inspection of the nursery a splendid shore dinner was enjoyed and Boston was reached on the return journey at 10 p. m.

Among those in the party were J. K. M. L. Farquhar, E. H. Wilson, C. W. Hoitt, Will Castle, James B. Shea, M. A. Patten, Peter Fisher, William P. Rich, Frank R. Pierson, F. A. Wilson, Patrick Welch and J. S. Scorgie.

Club Meeting.

The meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club June 18, kept as ladies' night, attracted an attendance of over 150 and proved to be one of the most enjoyable ever held. Three new members were elected. It was reported that arrangements were progressing for the annual picnic at Cunningham park, East Milton, July 24, and Mr. Bartsch promised that it would prove to be the best ever. The subject of daylight saving came up. After a short discussion, the club voted unanimously in favor of its continuance. A letter of thanks was read from the Societe Nationale d' Horticulture de France, thanking the club for its generous donation toward the rehabilitation of horticultural sufferers in the French war zone.

George N. Smith, of Wellesley, displayed on the stage a grand collection of choice peonies. Other members displayed roses and other seasonable flowers. After a short business session, a fine entertainment was furnished by Miss McPherson, Miss Sadie Campbell and Mr. Clarke, all selections being vigorously encored. Following the collation, Holmes' orchestra furnished music for dancing until midnight, in which nearly all participated.

Various Notes.

Frank J. Wheeler, son of James Wheeler, of Natick, is recovering from a delicate eye operation performed at the New England Eye and Ear Infirmary, Boston.

Robert Montgomery, of Natick, has been quite sick for several weeks, but is now improving and hopes soon to be able to go to his summer home at Bustins Island, Me.

June temperatures are in excess of those enjoyed a year ago and we now have a total excess of temperature for 1919 of 700 degrees, with rainfall practically normal.

Entries are already coming in for the annual sweet pea show to be held in Boston July 5 and 6. Sweet peas in this locality are most promising and many have been flowering for some time.

Invitations are being extended to the American Peony Society and the American Sweet Pea Society to hold their annual exhibitions and conventions in Boston in 1920.

The W. W. Edgar Co. has a grand batch of 10,000 cyclamens. Mr. Bartsch says the demand for young stock beats all records. Begonias also are in great request. Sales of bedding plants have been heavy.

Among some twenty-five varieties of philadelphus now flowering in the Arnold Arboretum, the best of the Lemoinei type are Rosace, Conquete, Norma, Virginal, Banniere, Mer de Glace, Manteau d' Hermine and Albare.

A KICK may be received as a stimulus or as a blow.

IN selling flowers, as in anything else, a smile is worth a million dollars, and doesn't cost a cent.

SOMEBODY has started the question, "Who buys the most flowers, bachelors or benedicts?" We pass. Ask the girls.

SOMETIMES the acknowledgment of an order saves a customer much anxiety. He is likely to remember the fact favorably at a later time.

ABOUT the only consolation for the florist who gets caught in a coal shortage next winter will be the knowledge that there are many others in the same boat.

UNFAVORABLE weather and scarcity of labor have been the causes of so much complaint by the extensive bulb growers of southern France that the autumn crop of Roman hyacinths is likely to be high-priced, at least in the better grades.

A GLASGOW florist received, through the American consul, orders for 700 laurel wreaths to be placed on the graves of 700 American soldiers who died in hospitals or were drowned off the Scottish coast. He is a staunch supporter of the American F. T. D. service.

AUGUST POEHLMANN suggests that every greenhouse owner in the country erect a signboard at his range bearing the slogan, "Say It with Flowers." That would reach an enormous number of railroad and automobile tourists this summer. Most ranges are near railroad lines and automobile highways.

HIGH rises in the quotations of Holland firms on hyacinth and tulip bulbs in comparison with the moderate increases on Guernsey daffodils and narcissi have caused some British buyers to advocate continuing the embargo on Dutch bulbs until the bulb-growing industry is well re-established in their own country.

AFTER the interruption of its work by the war, the French Chrysanthemum Growers' Society is planning to reorganize and resume activities. There are some regretted vacancies in its ranks, but most of the old members are expected to assemble at a meeting in connection with the chrysanthemum exhibition in Paris next November.

THE enthusiasm of the Texas florists in behalf of their convention promises well for the trade in the south.

WHAT the Detroit Florists' Club did for the American Peony Society last week makes one look forward to the S. A. F. meeting there with more than usual anticipation.

FEAST OR FAMINE.

In the flower business it usually is feast or famine: There are too many orders or not enough; there is too much stock or not enough. For eight consecutive months the trade enjoyed an unprecedented demand, the chief difficulty being to supply the stock. But it has been a different story in June: There has been a good business, but too much stock, with the result that the trade, in the larger cities at least, has suffered a quick relapse to the ill conditions of a year ago.

There always has been a glut in the spring; there probably always will be. This year it came later than usual and seemed worse than ever, perhaps by contrast with the excellent prices of the preceding months. The glut has been general all over the country, from the Rockies to the Atlantic, probably due to an unusually hot June following an exceptionally cool May.

But the more severe a glut, the sharper the contraction when it ends, usually.

The rebound is due. Look out for it and be ready to profit by it when it comes, instead of getting stung.

INCREASE EMPLOYEE'S OUTPUT.

Congressmen and other orators, when they soar aloft in flights of rhetoric, refer to the florist as the man who "has made two blades of grass grow where one grew before." With this record behind him, it looks as though the florist faces another such job in training one pair of hands to do what two did before.

Only by securing more and better work from his employees can the florist keep up profitably with present prices. That does not mean he must work his help harder or longer. No, the tendency in this trade is toward shorter hours, just as in other occupations. But by combining hands and head—in other words, by the use of careful thought and planning—the actual results of one man's labor may be increased considerably.

If one must pay nearly twice as much for help as he paid a few years ago, the obvious course is to train help to be worth twice as much as it was before. The most successful man today is the man who can get the most out of his employees, not by the methods of the old-time slave-driver, but by the development of hand, mind and judgment, by increasing all the faculties that aid their output.

COURSES AT CORNELL.

Now that conditions are again becoming normal, there is a large call for experienced men in commercial floriculture, and for gardeners on private estates. To meet this demand, the department of floriculture at the state college of agriculture, at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., is making plans for unusually complete and attractive short courses next winter. The course will begin November 5 and close with Farmers' week, which comes about the middle of February.

It is thought that young men who have had some practical experience, especially the sons of florists, will be likely to take advantage of this opportunity to obtain scientific training at a small cost. Among the subjects to be taught will be greenhouse construction and heating, general principles of greenhouse practice, and the best cultural practices in growing florists' crops.

Persons interested in outdoor gardening will be able to take courses in garden flowers and other subjects needed for proficiency in work in parks or on private estates.

Any who may contemplate taking these courses will do well to get in touch with the secretary of the college of agriculture at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., or with the department of floriculture at the same address.

"DOING GREAT WORK."

Everybody knows that the Classified advertisements in The Review always have met a real need in the trade, but nevertheless it is pleasant to note that they are increasing in value to buyers and sellers. Like this:

Stock sold up. Classified ads have been doing great work for us this spring.—C. L. Humphrey, Zanesville, O., June 22, 1919.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

THROWS AWAY EARNINGS.

"I'm too old to take care of the business myself, and I can't get anyone to run the place for me. So I am going to sell out."

Not just one man has said that, but year after year a number of florists explain their situation in such words. And after trying for months, or perhaps several years, to make a profitable sale of the business as a going concern, they sell their equipment and take down the sign when the lease runs out, or sacrifice the entire business to get rid of it at the only price offered.

These florists could, they say, make a comfortable living if they had the youth and strength to conduct the business. They could, too, derive an adequate income if they could hire someone to conduct it for them. The point is, the trade is there. The capital, represented by the good-will and activity of the concern, is able to pay dividends. But all this the florist throws away—all this that he has earned in his years of business in that locality. His acquired capital and his possible dividends thereon he throws away for lack of able help. He cannot find an experienced man to run the business for him.

The fatal error was made years before old age compelled such sacrifice. When the florist was able to handle the business himself, without hiring more than occasional help, he failed to look ahead. Instead of training an assistant, who could in time have stepped into his shoes, he went along content with the satisfaction he found in the way things were. A little foresightedness would have given this florist in his old age an income on the capital he was forced to sacrifice when he closed out his business. It seems too bad that he had to throw those years' earnings away.

OBITUARY

John R. McIntyre.

John Read McIntyre, of Morristown, N. J., died at his home there June 5. He was 71 years old, and the oldest member of the trade in Morristown. He had been in the business forty years. He is survived by his wife and eight children.

Elmer P. Morse.

Elmer P. Morse, of Dedham, Mass., died at his home May 31, aged 68. He was one of the best known citizens of Dedham. In his early youth he was employed in a greenhouse in Natick, and later at the Harvard Botanic Gardens, in Cambridge. In 1873 he established himself in Dedham as a florist and conducted a prosperous business until 1916, when ill health compelled him to retire.

Mr. Morse was a stockholder in the Boston Flower Exchange. He also belonged to the Boston Florists' Club. He is survived by his wife and one daughter.

MILWAUKEE.

The Market.

The long period of hot weather, which so demoralized the market, has passed, but not without doing much damage. Flowers have been too plentiful, but stock of good quality has been hard to find. Even garden flowers are not so good as usual at this time of the year, and owing to their soft growth more care must be taken in bunching and marketing to give them value. The peony season, which generally extends into July, is nearly over. Few peony growers' receipts paid them for their trouble of picking and marketing. Carnations are getting small and have no substance. They sell at $1 to $2 per hundred. Roses are the most dependable stock and have the best sale. A few good sweet peas are coming in and sell rapidly. This week sees fewer flowers, but they are of better quality and prices are firmer.

The bedding plant season is nearing the end. Prices were good this season and sales were large.

Various Notes.

A great deal of comment is heard regarding the action proposed at the meeting of the Chicago retail florists June 17. The opinion that prevails here is that the grower will not suffer nearly so much by pooling his stock at a set minimum price as he does now by allowing an overcrowded market to run his returns down.

There will be about fifteen local florists at the state convention June 28 in Fond du Lac.

The E. Welke Co. will remodel its store front with a large single window and a red tile roof. Henry Welke, who has charge of the business, is a hustler, and has made more modern quarters necessary.

June weddings are numerous enough, but the flower orders do not run into money. Even the decorations are simple and no show of extravagance is noticed.

The summer social season at the country clubs is most promising for the florist this year. After two years of practical inactivity, the clubs are planning dinners and dances, which will necessitate many table decorations and corsage bouquets. A. H. M.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

With a shortening up of the supply, the market is firmer in character than for many days. While, perhaps, the supply was in some measure greater than the demand, clearances were not particularly difficult because prices were at low ebb. The current week opens with a firmer market, on account of fewer arrivals, and there is a prospect that before the end of the week values will rise. Around New York this is graduation week and the ordinary demand will be much stimulated in consequence. Crimson Rambler roses are coming in quantity, but Dorothy Perkins, especially desirable for this week, is scarce, its cropping season, at least locally, not being in sight.

There is a fair supply of roses and, with no surplus to speak of, values have advanced slightly. American Beauty is not conspicuous as regards quality, but moves well. Hybrid teas have been benefited by favorable temperatures and in quality are all that might be expected at this season. The weather the last three or four days has been most favorable to roses.

Carnations are in only fair supply and the quality of arrivals is generally poor, due to the approaching end of their season. While the range of prices quoted covers flowers of the better quality, much stock goes at prices dictated by the purchaser.

There are few lilies available, but such as come in are taken at about 20 cents per flower if of good quality. Lily of the valley is still scarce, but fairly good stock can be obtained for 12 cents per spray.

Orchids are in fair supply and prices continue at 25 cents to 75 cents for cattleyas. The wedding season, of course, has been a factor in the maintenance of a profitable range of prices.

There is an abundance of miscellaneous flowers, all of which move fairly well, the public seeming to have widened its choice largely in the selection of flowers.

Various Notes.

H. J. Elwes, noted English horticulturist, recently spent a few days in New York, returning June 16 to England. Mr. Elwes, who has seen practically every evergreen in its own habitat, except the white pine, was given an opportunity to see the white pine at its best on Long Island. He was particularly interested in the eremurus, which he saw on the estate of T. A. Havemeyer, Brookville, N. Y., and which he said seemed to thrive much better there than it does in England, in spite of the more severe winters it experiences here. Mr. Elwes is responsible for many introductions of new varieties in plants, and in the cyclopedias the varietal name of Elwesiana is prominent in the description of many subjects.

Antonio Martin, of the firm of Carballo & Martin, Havana, Cuba, is spending a few weeks in New York, visiting growers in the different lines in which he is interested. His firm is the leading florists' organization of Cuba, both in the retail and growing line. He makes frequent visits to New York, which he thinks necessary in order to keep in touch with the business of the American florist. This time he is accompanied by Mrs. Martin and his little daughter. He says that business in Havana has been good all along, war times making little difference in the volume of trade. The firm has many acres of rose plantings, necessarily not covered by glass, from which supplies are drawn. Mr. Martin is wide-awake and loses sight of nothing which could be utilized to advantage in his business.

Max Schling has about completed the album of decorative pieces on which he has been engaged for many months. It is to be published in de luxe form, with many of the subjects in colors. A supplementary volume will describe the method of construction of the different pieces and reproduce detail drawings.

There seems to be a movement on foot to make the closing of wholesale stores during the summer uniform. There is little doubt that any definite arrangement in this respect will be cordially welcomed by the employees, who have their share of the "grind" during the busy months.

George Hildebrand, of John Young & Co., 53 West Twenty-eighth street, is negotiating for a residential site in Nassau county. As with many others, apartment house life with him is losing its charm and he is seeking to escape the thrall of the profiteering landlord.

Henry Weston, of Hempstead, is now gathering a fine crop of tomatoes from his big sweet pea house. In the last year or two he has followed his sweet peas with tomatoes, and—well, he keeps it up.

Frank Strolitsky, for the last eight years with Roehrs Co., has taken over the Dean greenhouses at Baldwin, L. I., and will operate them. J. H. P.

The Market.

The expected improvement in market conditions began to be apparent in the later days last week and with the opening of the present week the market regained its equilibrium and the trade settled down to summer business on a basis that is expected at least to be steady if it does not improve. The huge oversupply has melted away. There still are abundant quantities of nearly all seasonable flowers, but satisfactory prices are obtainable for all good stock. A large part of the stock coming in is of extremely poor quality and not usable for shipping trade or for the orders of the first-class city stores. Chief of these flowers are the carnations, but there are many poor roses. This stock must be sold at extremely low prices if at all, the probability being that a few days more will convince the growers that it does not pay to ship these flowers. The result will be their practical disappearance from the market.

Along with the decrease in supplies in this market has come a rejuvenation of the shipping trade. It is apparent that there has been heavy production everywhere through the territory served by the Chicago market and that the flood has subsided. While it lasted many buyers had home supplies at least equal to their needs and they did not order from Chicago. Now that their home cuts have gone down, these buyers are ordering again. The principal demand is for roses, because the carnation is not the most satisfactory flower for long distance shipping in hot weather. The result is that we again have a fair market for roses of shipping quality. Prices are not high, but the average return to the grower is improving each day. Russell has taken its place at the head of the list, this being the best summer rose this market has seen. Columbia holds second place. Some houses say Milady is in good demand, but others find little call for red in hot weather and place Ophelia third on the list. Because of the smaller percentage of white roses now grown for this market, white has a slight advantage in price.

There still are considerable quantities of carnations, although much less than last week. The heat and humidity have affected them greatly, and it is probable the growers will throw them out by beginning to refill the benches within the next few days. Then the supply will go down rapidly.

Gladioli are more abundant and selling well. The peony still is an important item, but less conspicuous than a week ago. The season's cut has been made and either sold or stored. One house is reported to have a larger quantity of peonies in storage than last year, but the others have less and the peony season will end, so far as the majority are concerned, early next week. With perhaps two exceptions, those who have peonies in cold storage will take them out June 30. There won't be many and they will be cleaned up within two or three days, leaving the market to the two houses that are going to pay July storage charges.

dums are here this week and selling at $1 per dozen stalks. Their season is brief. Only a few sweet peas are seen, but there are quantities of outdoor flowers, of which delphiniums are the most popular.

The short items are orchids and valley. It has not been possible to supply all demands for either item. In exceptional cases cattleyas have sold for $15 to $18 per dozen within the last week. Valley brings 10 cents, but these prices are paid only when the buyer feels he cannot disappoint his customer.

by the decreased supply of usable stock, but it is apparent that the trade has been stirred as never before. The season's experience seems to have demonstrated to many who could not see it before that the prosperity of the trade depends on the production of first-class stock and its sale at first-class prices. While seeking to buy as cheaply as their competitors, the retailers are a unit in saying they made more money on the high prices of the winter than they have made on the low prices of the spring.

Weiss & Meyer Co., Maywood, which took the lead in announcing that its stock would not be sold to anyone except recognized retail florists, has received a large number of communications on the subject. One typical of those from the retail branch of the trade is from J. F. Sullivan, retail florist and president of the Detroit Florists' Club. He wrote as follows:

to make such a strong stand. I congratulate you and hope every grower, wherever located, will follow your splendid example. It is right, fair and conducive to the best interests of both grower and retailer to take that position and the initial move has been delayed far too long. It is no wonder we are called farmers and unbusinesslike when we allow the shrewd drygoods and department store managers to use us as tools to advance their interests. Again I commend your action and sincerely hope all other growers will follow your example. You cannot lose by such a policy that will strengthen us all.

The agitation has resulted in other announcements that department stores will not be sold to and there is a general disposition to avoid being known as dealing with this class of trade.

an advertising stunt in the nature of the erection of billboards displaying the "Say It with Flowers" slogan. One of these is to be placed on the main traveled highways at or near a grower's establishment. With the heavy traffic on the streets and these signs greeting people everywhere, we think it will carry tremendous advertising value and yet, unlike regular billboard advertising, will be inexpensive. We believe the idea should be universally adopted."

Various Notes.

Klehm's Nursery is said to have an unusually successful crop of peonies this season and has a considerably larger quantity in storage than a year ago. Charles Klehm makes his headquarters with Joseph Foerster Co., during the peony season, and will, as usual, carry his crop along in cold storage through July and perhaps into August. He is one of the few who find it pays to hold peonies after July 4.

Paul Klingsporn went to Philadelphia, his old home, last week, for a fortnight's vacation.

C. Hausermann, Jr., of Melrose Park, will sell his range of 30,000 feet of glass to secure freedom to look after western land interests which are of greater importance.

Joseph Marks, of the Henderson traveling staff, has gone to Fond du Lac to attend the meeting of the Wisconsin State Florists' Association June 27.

The American Bulb Co. reports the arrival last week of the first of the 1918 crop of bulbs—California freesias.

There was a celebration at the E. F. Winterson homestead at Highland Park last Saturday, E. F. Winterson having been 50 years of age June 21.

A. Lange opened his new store at 77 and 79 East Madison street in the later days last week. He has a double frontage and much better quarters than in the former location. Another advantage will be proximity to the Michigan boulevard promenade. For the opening days Mr. Lange advertised bedding plant souvenirs for those of his customers who wished them.

W. J. Smyth and family opened their summer home at Antioch June 21, but Mr. Smyth will not take up his residence there for the summer until about July 1.

Stanley Ila, of Berwyn, has bought the establishment of Felch Bros., Maywood, through the Maywood State Bank, and is starting it up with ferns.

Some shapely plants of Livistona rotundifolia have graced the window and store of Harry Rowe and have sold well. Heaton Nichols says that florists have asked the name of the plant and commented on it, so infrequently is this once common variety seen nowadays.

HOW KENNICOTT'S handle their business

No one grower is in a position to dominate or influence the business policies of this company.

We are all for one and one for all.

Each individual consignor's rights are respected, and the success in PRICE RETURNS depends entirely upon the consignor to produce stock that can command a higher price than inferior grades.

Our "New Service" is not the same as the SALES REPORTS that are mostly in operation at the present time.

Growers with us soon appreciate what their stock sells for in every sale—know the market value—know what to grow that is most profitable from the standpoint of marketing—all this is only a part of our "NEW SERVICE" which no other house has to offer.

The co-operation and counsel of our consignors always bear in mind all that is best for the retailer—reform began with the growers' petition of 1916.

This week begins the annual 1-cent sale of Arthur Mundwiller, 207 North Cicero avenue. Pot plants will be featured. Mr. Mundwiller prices, for instance, a geranium at 25 cents; he will sell two of the same geraniums for 26 cents. The second article costs but 1 cent when bought with the other.

He has been in the service for almost two years and has tried almost every branch the navy has to offer. Before leaving he worked for Bassett & Washburn and Poehlmann Bros. Co.

While in Boston recently, T. E. Waters observed a peculiar instance. A lady bought some roses in a department store at 25 cents per dozen, but they had no box to put them in, so what did she do but walk across the street to a high-class florist and ask for a box! She also wanted him to give her some ferns to go with the roses she had bought at the department store. "What did the florist do?" repeated Mr. Waters; "just use your own judgment as to whether she got them or not."

A new store will be opened soon in Pratt, Kan., by Miss Daisy Fretz. Her father, N. K. Fretz, has greenhouses there. Miss Fretz will open her store in the heart of the town and is planning on having a first-class place. She stopped off here on her way home from Calumet, Mich., where she has been teaching school, to see the A. L. Randall Co. about the refrigerators and supplies.

D. A. Leitch, Ridgetown, Ont., was here last week with two objects in view: First, to get estimates to compare with Canadian prices on the replacement of a house 30x120 destroyed by storm last spring; second, to look over growers' places, as he is changing from vegetables to general florists' stock as his principal line.

J. S. Wilson, of Des Moines, Ia., was in the market last week, buying stock and greeting old friends, for he is a former Chicagoan.

Thomas H. Joy, of Nashville, Tenn., was here last week. With Eric Johnson and Edward Galavan, of the Ran-

J. Pehrson, who sold his interest in the firm of Pehrson & Marine, at 1134 Bryn Mawr avenue, to his partner about a year and a half ago, paid a visit here this week. He is now growing asparagus ferns at Jupiter, Fla., shipping them to this market.

J. E. Jones, of the Advance Co., Richmond, Ind., was in town last week.

CLEVELAND.

The Market.

The market continues to be flooded with some varieties of flowers, but for the most part the supply has dropped considerably. Sweet peas are coming in by the thousands and there is not enough demand for them to use up the large supply.

Carnations have dropped off considerably, as also have roses. The latter have been arriving mostly in the shorter grades and florists experience much trouble securing long ones for wedding and graduation decorations.

Candidum lilies have made their appearance, and so far have been cleaning up nicely. Crimson Ramblers are also in. Outdoor flowers seem to hold sway at present. Peonies from storage have held nicely and are moving well. American Beauties have been arriving in big numbers and have come in handy for graduations and weddings, although they have not been in the best of condition, due to the warm weather.

There are no more of either Easter or calla lilies in the market, and lily of the valley is hard to obtain.

Various Notes.

E. A. Wilhelmy reports the sale of his lease and states that he does not intend to reënter business until it picks up in the fall.

T. W. Lisy has moved to his greenhouses on East One Hundred and Sixteenth street, where he intends to build a residence.

Christine will move her store several doors east on Hough avenue, near East Seventy-ninth street. She thinks this will be a better location.

Mr. Lamprecht, of Lamprecht Bros., Ashland, O., was a visitor. He was just leaving Lakeside hospital, where he had been for two weeks after an operation.

Louis Hecock, of the Hecock Floral Co., of Elyria, O., was a visitor. He has a new Ford touring car. W. F. B.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

Roses are the mainstay of the cut flower market. They afford quality and variety not to be obtained in any other flower. Orchids and larkspur are valuable aids for filling orders for choice flowers. Gladioli, greenhouse-grown, are excellent and more plentiful. Yellow is the color most sought, probably because there is little of it. America sells well. There are some candidum lilies and a good assortment of outdoor flowers. This list of flowers that can be obtained is incomplete without carnations, of which there are a few really fine blooms.

Peonies are over. Those that went into cold storage open came out in bad shape. It was hot when the flowers were cut and stored. The outdoor sweet pea crop has proved a failure; the extreme heat early in the season was bad for them. There are almost no Easter lilies. Callas and valley are over. There are a good many poor flowers that find little favor.

Business has kept up well. A number of weddings and school commencements, where flowers were freely used, have helped to keep up the demand. The regular run of business is steadily diminishing. "It is getting like summer," is the way the retailers put it, but they all say that summer is not nearly so dull as in the past. There is generally something doing and occasionally there is a really busy day.

The plantsmen are still doing a fair amount of business.

The Portland Show.

Jesse A. Currey, of Portland, Ore., writing to a friend in this city, describes the outdoor rose show there. There were 266 entries. Mr. Currey captured six first prizes. The two that gave Mr. Currey the greatest pleasure were the victory of Ulrich Brunner in the class for hybrid reds and the award of the blue ribbon to Grande Colomb as the best rose among the hybrid teas over a big field of competitors of recognized merit. Grande Colomb was sent to Mr. Currey two years ago by Captain George C. Thomas, of this city. It is described as resembling Ophelia in color, but of different form, broader and much fuller.

The P. H. S. Garden.

Plans are well under way looking to the establishment of a garden in Fairmont park, to be laid out, planted and cared for by the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society. After consultation with the park commission, the ground lying between Horticultural hall and Belmont avenue, on both sides of the sunken garden or canal, has been selected as a suitable place. All the architects of Philadelphia have been invited to submit plans for the garden in competition for prizes of $1,000 for first, $400 for second and $200 for third prize. These plans will be judged by the society's committee shortly. The plan adjudged winner will be submitted to the park commission for approval.

Ross.

That was the sign on the window. It was early on the morning of the longest day in the year and everything about the Fifty-second street store of Frank M. Ross was ready for business. It was an interesting sight. The entire front had been utilized for display, so that the front window looked like the parquet circle in a crowded house, the parquet being represented by stands filled with plants on the pavement in front.

There was every appearance of a big day ahead. The interesting part of the display was the even excellence of the stock. Every geranium was shapely, with good, clean foliage surmounted by a large, shapely flower. Each variety of plants was well grown, not a poor plant anywhere. The whole effect was pleasing, the more so as it was the end of the season, when less care is sometimes given to appearances.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

Business during the last week was excellent. Many weddings and school commencements kept the retailers on the jump daily. These conditions also kept the wholesale market cleaned up pretty well of all first-grade stock at fairly good prices.

The extremely hot days during the week cut down fancy stock greatly. Roses, especially, were affected, as the demand was large in this grade of stock. While the rose supply was large, the bulk of the stock was in the second and third grades. The same may be said of carnations, the bulk of which is becoming small in flower. A few shipments of good quality came to this market from northern points.

Gladioli from the fields are in good supply and the fancy varieties have large demand. All the florists' window displays are made up of these. Local growers have grown gladioli heavily this year and the crop promises to be large from now on. Sweet peas are in oversupply, but really first-class stock is scarce. Peonies and cape jasmines are over for the season. Valley and orchids have had a big call, but only a limited stock is to be had. Easter lilies sold well all the week.

There are many seasonable outdoor flowers coming in. Fancy larkspur,

An important meeting of the St. Louis County Growers' Association will take place July 2 at 8 p. m. in the meeting hall at the Eleven Mile House. Secretary Deutschmann says that a strong appeal will be made for a large attendance. President Charles Meier will preside for the first time.

Mrs. Julius Koenig, secretary of the Ladies' Florists' Club, wishes to announce that the club will meet July 1 at 2 o'clock in Tower Grove park. It will be interesting for those who contemplate attending the S. A. F. convention in Detroit.

Messrs. Lurie, Windler and Rowe, trustees of the St. Louis Florists' Club, will meet sometime this week for work on the florists' picnic. They are open for any suggestions as to new features for this year's outing. Special prizes from any in the trade are also acceptable. These should be made known at once to any of the trustees.

Miss Margaret Kuehn, daughter of C. A. Kuehn, graduated June 19 with high honors, from Strussberger's Conservatory of Music, at the Odean.

The florists' publicity committee will hold meetings but once a month during the summer. The next meeting will be held at headquarters July 15. Special meetings are subject to a call from Chairman Bourdet.

Henry Berning says that his shipping trade during this month has been large and the local demand has been the best in many years.

Charles Young, head of C. Young & Sons Co., says he never saw such a season as this in the demand for plants, for which they have a large shipping trade, and they are still expressing them out.

It has been rumored that John Connon will return from Idaho next month, and again take charge of the Connon greenhouses in Webster Groves, Mo., which he had leased since he left a few years ago. This news will please all of Mr. Connon's many friends in the trade.

Herman Knoll was married last week to Miss Elsie Marty. The wedding took place June 19, and the happy couple departed for the east to spend their honeymoon. Mr. Knoll is building a home near his place of business on Kansas street, which will be completed on their return.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Weber, Sr., will leave the last of this week for their usual summer vacation at Williams Lake, Wis. They expect to visit Detroit in August during the S. A. F. convention.

There are many seedsmen from here at the American Seed Trade Association's meeting at Chicago this week. They left the evening of June 23. Members of the Missouri Seed Dealers' Association met here, to go in a body to the meeting.

Grimm & Gorly and Mullanphy, Florists, had numerous wedding decorations during the last week. At Grimm & Gorly's I noticed a large design for a tin wedding in the shape of a tree, on which were hung many designs in tinware. This was designed by Mr. Harvey and was much admired.

Sunday closing by the retail florists, especially during the summer months, is being agitated by some of the leading west and south end florists. A petition for signers will be circulated this week. This is a good move in the right direction.

The Westover Nursery Co., of Clayton, Mo., which is managed by H. W. Enders, reports an unusually heavy business this year in all kinds of nursery stock. J. J. B.

PRICES WILL STAY UP.

Higher Level Permanent.

We are continually hearing discussed everywhere the subject of prices, when they are coming down, etc. Of course, this is in regard to all commodities. Under present conditions, there is nothing to effect price reduction; in fact, the market will continue to rise for at least two years. And after all, what does it matter whether it be $2 or $4 in actual figures when it only brings the same value in energy expended? So that, considering it all in all, we are merely raising our standard of living to a higher level than that on which we based it before war conditions set in.

Sacrifice Quantity for Quality.

We are never going back to old-time conditions. Our future efforts in the florists' trade should be to produce higher-grade stock, that will net greater income without the difficulty, as in former years, of having too great a production into which quality does not enter.

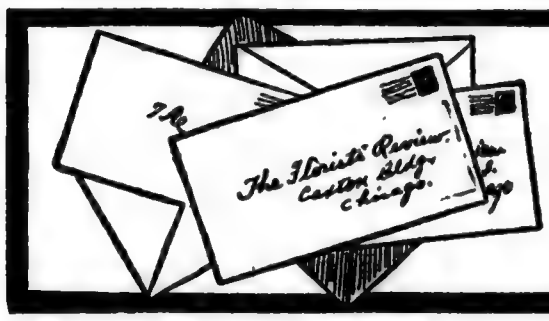
In other words, with our present condition to face, would it not be ideal if the grower could produce a higher and better grade of material, which would entitle him to a higher price, rather than to produce more material, much of which might be inferior, as is usual under such conditions? Also, to produce more flowers means more men, more labor and more expense, hence energy lost. Now, if we can have better material at a higher cost, can we not expect to obtain better satisfaction all around by better prices for the smaller allotment that each purchaser will eventually get? Incidentally, this will tend toward further uplift for wholesaler and retailer alike.

A Reasonable Solution.

This solution is a reasonable one when we consider the rising market we must expect to face continually this year and next, due to increased labor costs as well as to the increase in price of all other commodities which enter our markets. Men who have delved into these facts are already planning along these lines.

Florists generally have already risen to the situation and are sensing the fact that by operating their greenhouses to 100 per cent quality they will net more money with less worry and trouble, and will also eventually be able to cope with the shorter working day that will sooner or later hit the florists' trade.



This is merely a suggestion as to what the future holds in store for us. It is up to us to take advantage of the situation.

Henry Penn,
Chairman National Publicity Campaign.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Stock is holding up well and the quality is good. The cool, damp weather during the last week or ten days has kept everything in good shape, and the market has been well supplied with all the season's offerings. Business is beginning to slacken up since the rose carnival, and will be a little quiet for the next six weeks on account of the number of people leaving for the beaches and other vacation points.

The Rose Festival.

The rose festival that just ended was a great success. Portland gained much fame by staging such an affair.

One of the main attractions was the festival center, which comprised two city blocks. This was laid out and designed by Mr. Felan. These blocks were made up of beds of different designs, and the space was assigned to the different florists and growers.

Wilson-Crout-Gehr Co. displayed beds of coleus, geraniums and cinerarias.

John Holden had a large circular bed of hydrangeas and cannas and, for the centerpiece, a large container of cut Prince of Wales gladioli.

O. E. Panzer displayed a bed of schizanthus and fuchsias with a border of ageratums.

John Zimmerman had a variety of flowers, probably not less than fifty different sorts.

The Mountain View Floral Co. had an attractive bed of peach bells and larkspur, cannas and Japanese maples.

The Swiss Floral Co. displayed its famous petunias and bordered the bed with coleus.

Niklas & Son had a nice showing of cannas, hydrangeas, salvias and geraniums.

The Clarke Bros. bed, near one of the entrances, showed up to good advantage. Their main showing was geraniums, pink hydrangeas and snapdragons.

Various Notes.

The Portland Rose Society held its annual rose show at the city auditorium during the rose festival. Many rare and choice blooms were shown. There was also a large number of new and unnamed roses displayed. A number of them were grown at the trial grounds at the city park.

Robert Newcomb, of Chicago, representing the Burlington Willow Ware Shops, with one line of willow baskets and another of Japanese bulbs, was in town for a few days and reported a good business all over the country.

W. H. Danser, of Forest Grove, was in town, buying stock and taking in the rose carnival. L. T. S.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

Last week the retailers had the advantage over the wholesalers, as there have been several nice wedding and other decorations, using up the choicer grades of stock. Shipping has been difficult, owing to the great heat in the adjacent territory, and only the best stock will reach customers in good condition.

Roses are still of medium quality only, and do not ship well. A new crop of carnations is in and is extra good, but the bulk of the stock is of fair quality only. Sweet peas are of fair quality and the supply is hardly up to the demand. Orchids are more plentiful, principally gigas. Dahlias are getting into their stride and some excellent varieties are shown.

Ferns in all sizes are scarcer and hard to get. There are no other plants except a few hydrangeas.

Various Notes.

Arthur Gleave, of Gleave's Flower Shop, Santa Barbara, was a visitor last week. He reports fair business. Mrs. Beverley, wife of A. Beverley, of the Mission Oak Nurseries, was another Santa Barbara visitor.

Reeve Darling, of Darling's Flower Shop, has gone east for a few weeks and, in the meantime, Manager J. Gordon is tending to the stand. Among the recent orders was a big wedding decoration for Pasadena.

Since the opening of the store in the Alexandria hotel, Mr. Barron reports a big increase in sales. Orchids, roses and other choice stock have been in big demand. In fact, one wholesaler says that the Alexandria hotel store has bought more orchids this season than any other customer. It is pleasing to note that Mr. Barron is in much better health now than he was a few weeks ago.

In J. W. Wolters' store there is always something a little different. The various late-flowering shrubs shown this week were most attractive. Some good decorations were reported.

The Athletic Club Florist is making an attractive window display of Ohio pottery and reports a good demand for it. Besides the attractive appearance of the roses, the flowers last better in them than in the ordinary glazed vases.

F. R. Hills has returned from Catalina, San Clemente and other big sea fishing points, with stories of the big ones that make one think he missed his vocation. Mrs. Hills was not along, so there is no means of checking up on him, but according to Mr. Hills one albacore was so big that he towed the boat seven miles before being eventually landed. And there are other stories! Mr. Hills always tells the truth—about his ferns.

From the Redondo Floral Co. come reports of good business. Frank Reymond says that he must be at the store by 5:30 a. m. to keep up with the funeral work. A. F. Borden still keeps his war garden going in spare hours, and A. Knopf spends all the spare time he has at his lemon ranch at Santa Ana.

Wright's Flower Shop is making the usual fine summer display of water lilies and other aquatics. H. R. Richards.

WATSONVILLE, CAL.

H. A. Hyde has leased a 20-acre ranch near Aromas, which he will make into a model bulb farm in connection with his other plantings. On this tract will be grown Godfrey callas, of which he already has one of the largest fields in America; the special strains of colored freesias which he is developing, and the new seedlings which he is producing of æthiopica and yellow callas. A few of the highest-class gladioli, such as Europa, Pendleton and Myrtle, will also be grown.

Watsonville, Cal., has the honor of being the first place to have its fruit products delivered by aeroplane. The consignment was of strawberries from the New Oak Grove Berry Co., of which H. A. Hyde is president, to Mrs. Louise Rider Worthington, of San Diego. It was delivered by her son, Lieut. Robert Worthington, of the air service, while making a round trip from San Diego to Palo Alto.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

Stock is not plentiful and the quality of cut flowers is poor. With the exception of a fair cut of Cecile Brunner, roses are in indifferent shape. Good Russells are hard to find and where obtainable bring 50 cents to $2.50 per dozen, wholesale. According to wholesalers, there are not enough roses on hand to supply the country market. Ophelias are bringing 25 cents to $1 per dozen and are by no means in perfect condition. Retailers are paying a similar price for good Hadleys, but other varieties are practically out of the market. American Beauties are exceedingly rare, high in price, and of unremarkable quality.

Even ordinary summer flowers are in poor condition. Sweet peas are hard to find and those in the market are badly blighted. Marigolds are cutting well now, also some coreopsis, gaillardias, cornflowers, etc. Gladioli are in better shape than almost any other flower, but varieties are practically limited to Halley, Panama and America. A few excellent Bermuda lilies have found their late way into local retail stores and are proving welcome additions to the stock.

There is a scarcity in potted plants, with the exception of hydrangeas, which are in fine bloom at the present time. Some splendid blue hydrangeas, of a particularly intense shade, are selling fast, as they are most desirable for wedding decorations. Beautiful specimens of paniculata grandiflora arrived last week and the dainty white blossoms in combination with other shades are extremely attractive.

Orchids are still a rarity. Gardenias, too, are somewhat scarce, due to a quantity being used during the last few days for several weddings and funerals.

In spite of the general condition of stock, retailers and distributors both report excellent business. A good clean-up is effected each day and prices for all cut flowers remain fairly firm.

Weddings are exceptionally numerous, even for June, and other social affairs, such as luncheons, teas and dinner parties, stimulate a good trade among all the retailers.

Various Notes.

An interesting wedding of the week was the Waterman-Triest affair, held in the Empire room of the Fairmont hotel. A. O. Stein did the decorating, using hydrangeas and Dorothy Perkins roses. The entire altar was massed with various shades of pink, blue and white hydrangea blooms, while the rest of the room was decorated with garlands and festoons of Dorothy Perkins. The wedding bouquets were of orchids and gardenias. There was a rush in this store for orders for the Greenebaum funeral as well, and the cut stock was closely sold out. P. S. Orr, of the Stein force, has left for an extended vacation tour, expecting to be away for four or five weeks in the northern part of the state. Mr. Stein's motor car was badly damaged by fire a few days ago. While Mr. Stein was across the bay on a shore trip, the car caught fire in the garage and was badly burned.

Louis Picetti, manager of the Market street store of the Charles Navlet Co., states that all plants are moving nicely. This establishment has a good supply of hydrangea plants on hand, as well as a fine selection of pansy, aster, chrysanthemum and zinnia plants. Carnation plants for fall planting are also ready. Mr. Picetti says that business is brisk so far this month. A good bulb season is anticipated by this firm, and the management is bending every effort to secure deliveries on a wide selection. A good clean-up was reported on dahlia bulbs, there being only a few bulbs of a special variety left in the shop.

F. D. Pelicano, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., is back on duty after an illness of more than a month. His associates are extremely glad that his condition is so much improved, besides welcoming the fact that he is now able to relieve the situation in the store caused by the absence of several other members of the staff. Nick Canevaro, B. Pagano and William de Brun are still on the sick list, thereby necessitating extra work for the rest of the force. Scarcity of stock is the only difficulty. Otherwise, business is good for the month of June. Some of the blue hydrangeas grown by Frank Burns, of San Rafael, formed a striking window display in this store, combined with a huge sheaf of Halley gladioli. A few good potted specimens of red ramblers were also obtained by this firm for special decoration work.

C. Kooyman keeps busy and is cleaning up his stock nicely each day. In spite of the short condition of the cut flower market, he states that he is well pleased with the month's business so far.

Domoto Bros. are expecting the first cutting of asters within the next two weeks.

Henry Avansino, the new manager of the E. W. McLellan Co., was busy with a number of out-of-town shipments last week. He is completely cleaned up on stock of all kinds. This firm is expecting a fine stock of asters and chrysanthemums this season and anticipates strong demand for them.

A particularly fine pansy display in the windows of Podesta & Baldocchi's store on Grant avenue attracted much favorable comment last week. Blooms in profusion were massed in several low baskets, the color notes being skillfully brought out by a background of Irish Elegance buds and single lavender scabiosa. This concern furnished the pall for the Greenebaum funeral. It was made of orchids, rhododendrons and baby roses, producing an unusually beautiful effect. Mr. Podesta has no complaint to make concerning business, being well satisfied with the general condition of the market, with the exception of the scarcity of stock.

Mrs. Copeland's store, on Sutter street, has been kept busy with numerous wedding orders and is using all available stock. With great difficulty Mrs. Copeland succeeded in obtaining enough American Beauties to furnish large wreath for the Greenebaum funeral, in addition to many other smaller orders from the same source.

The pall for the funeral of Mrs. Charles Coleman, wife of the manager of the St. Francis hotel, was furnished by Julius Eppstein.

The Art Floral Co. is decorating for a number of weddings this week, and Mr. Matraia states that it has been difficult to get enough stock to fill the orders.

Three of the members of the MacRorie-McLaren Co. force are on vacations. J. Armstrong and Joseph Thomas are enjoying a motor trip to Lake Tahoe, and George Duffy is visting at Petaluma.

Robert Newcomb, representing the Burlington Willow Ware Shops, of Burlington, Ia., visited the trade last week.

Earl Aldrich, of the M. Rice Co., of Philadelphia, has been spending some time on the coast, and it is understood that he will open a western distributing point in San Francisco in the near future. He is on his way back to Philadelphia now, but is expected back again within thirty days, in connection with the opening of the new depot.

F. Lichtenberg, retail florist, of Los Angeles, Cal., was a San Francisco visitor last week. M. M.

What efforts are the florists making to keep up, through their local newspapers, a connection with the campaign advertising in the magazines? As has often been pointed out, the wide publication in the magazines of our slogan, "Say It with Flowers," with hints as to daily uses of flowers, necessarily conveys our message to prospective customers in the community of every florist, and these same people are more than likely to connect a reproduction of the advertisements by a local florist in a local paper with the magazine advertising. This would undoubtedly result to the benefit of the local florist; in fact, many who have followed this course assure us that it does.

Aids for Summer Advertisements.

In view of the splendid results following the publication of the series of small advertisements published in thirty-three national magazines during January and February, and in order to keep our slogan before the public during July and August, ordinarily dull months for the florist—which really need not be the case, for there are nearly as many uses for flowers in those months as in any other—our publicity committees have decided to run a similar series during the summer months. There will be six advertisements in the series, and by using one of the slogan line electrotypes provided by our promotion bureau, a local florist can reproduce the wording of any or all of the advertisements without further expense, and include his own name and business address, with any other matter desired.

Coming Magazine Advertisements.

To enable anyone to see what these advertisements are, we give here the list of the magazines in which they will appear, and the dates of the issues. Where a magazine is given more than one date, it is meant that a different advertisement is used on each date. The large monthlies are on sale from one to two

The Market.

The week wound up with a temperature more agreeable to human life and plant growth. The great supply of outdoor flowers, which caused the market to be overburdened, is growing smaller. Peonies have had their day. The end of the week saw them almost absent from the list of obtainable stock. Roses have gone down much in quality. Even Beauties have extremely small heads. The stems of nearly all varieties are fairly good; perhaps with a few cool days the heads will improve greatly.

Carnations are in bad condition. Had the extremely hot weather continued for a few days more, they would have been off the market list. Some extra fine orchids have arrived during the week. They have found a ready market at good prices.

Graduations are calling for more Beauties this year than ever. The supply will hardly equal the demand already booked for this week.

misfortune of losing his sister. She died June 16. She had control of the store, while he attended to the greenhouses and outside buying.

The Sunday closing ball has been started rolling among the stores. The list of signers is already long and almost complete. So far there is only one man who cares to keep open.

The Florists' Club will have its outing July 23. Much entertainment is promised. The place chosen is the Auto club.

The Market.

It seems like old times again. Business conditions have revived, due to the exceptionally big number of June weddings and commencements, which increase as the month advances. As a matter of fact, during the last week both wholesalers and retailers have been on the jump practically day and night. Trade conditions were much better than expected.

Prices continue practically the same, a trifle higher in some cases. Products are of as good quality as can be expected, considering the heat, which to date has broken all records for June in this vicinity.

Each day the market is almost, if not entirely, cleaned out. Both American Beauties and orchids are shy, blooms of the latter being disposed of at from $1.50 to $2 each. Gladioli are not plentiful, and consequently there are many back orders to be filled. The first candidum lilies of the season have arrived and they are being disposed of at the rate of $2 per dozen.

Various Notes.

G. P. Weaklen & Co. were headquarters for the floral decorations in connection with the return of the 80th Division June 18. They supplied 250 white-clad high school girls with approximately 25,000 roses, carnations and peonies, to bestow upon the returning soldiers. Mr. Weaklen is a member of the East Liberty business men's welcome committee and has been active in this as well as in all other war-time service.

Mrs. John M. Foss, of Main street, Sharpsburg, plans to give the boys of the 305th Motor Supply Train a royal welcome July 4. Mrs. Foss's chief inspiration in so doing is her son, Corporal Herbert G. Foss, who has just returned from sixteen months' service in France.

Edward J. McCallum, and Homer D. Wood, who is manager of the supply department of the McCallum Co., returned June 17 from a ten days' visit, combining business and pleasure, in New York city.

Thomas Silverblatt, proprietor of the corridor store in the William Penn hotel, left June 16 to spend a week or ten days in Philadelphia and Atlantic City. During his absence, his two nephews, David and Harold Silverblatt, are looking after the business.

has just returned from Washington, D. C. He was connected with the air service there for two years.

John Matsukes, formerly an employee of the Liberty Florists, has been called to Chicago on account of the illness of his father.

James F. Smith, at one time representing the W. J. Boas Co., of Philadelphia, Pa., spent several days in the city last week in the interest of the Edwards Folding Box Co., of the same city.

Mr. McNiff, of Kansas City, Mo., of McNiff Co., was another visitor in town last week. This company is composed of himself and a brother. While here he disposed of a large amount of exceptionally attractive horticultural advertising matter.

H. L. Thompson, of Rochester, Pa., has just moved into larger and more attractive quarters.

A severe attack of tonsillitis has confined William R. Wampler, traveling salesman for the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., to his home for the last ten days.

The rapidly increasing business of the McCallum Co. has necessitated moving the supply department to bigger quarters on Beaver avenue. At the same time the basket department, which was opened a few months ago on the corner of North avenue and Esplanade street, was moved to the Beaver avenue plant. Shipping consignments will be attended to there, while local trade will be taken care of at the downtown store. The new enterprise is in charge of Earl Shuler.

The Market.

Business with the wholesalers has quieted down considerably the last week. Stock is so plentiful that prices on most of it are not being quoted. Roses sell for whatever dealers care to pay. Outdoor stock is so abundant and of such good quality that everything is being held down. Carnations and gladioli are the only flowers quoted. The former are from $10 to $15 per thousand, and the latter $5 and $6.

Retail dealers report good business for this time of year, but nothing out of the ordinary. The usual summer quiet is expected, but no one thinks of complaining after the record business of the last seven or eight months. A little rest is rather welcome, as everyone in the business is weary and eager for even a brief vacation.

Various Notes.

E. C. Pruner, of Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, was in the city last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Marshall, of Okmulgee, Okla., were recent visitors.

The American Beauty Shop, 3031 Main street, with R. P. Short as proprietor, is a recent addition to the list of retail stores.

Lawrence Schweiger, of the Lang Floral & Nursery Co., Dallas, Tex., is visiting here. Mr. Schweiger formerly lived in Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Jarrett, Fifty-sixth street and Troost avenue, have been renting the cherry trees on their property adjoining the greenhouse for the last three years. In the summer of 1917 the trees were loaded with cherries, and Mr. Jarrett did not have time to pick them. His wife decided that it would be a good plan to sell the entire crop of each tree, and customers were quite willing to take advantage of the offer, nearly all of them engaging trees for the following season. This is the third year and the number of applicants is many times greater than the twenty-six trees. The price charged is from $3 to $5 per tree, according to amount of fruit. Some trees have as much as five bushels.

William Wade, local manager of the Pinehurst Floral Co.; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Newell and their daughter, Marion; Edward Kise, Mr. and Mrs. F. Kise and Miss M. Cline motored to Pleasant Hill, Mo., Sunday, June 15, and enjoyed a picnic supper at the lake on the grounds of the Pinehurst Floral Co. They returned to Kansas City in the evening.

The Humfeld-Orear Floral Co. is enlarging its store, at 3042 Troost avenue, to take care of its growing business. The changes will give one-third more space, a larger display window, flush with the street, and improved facilities for working.

Henry Kusik and family left June 19 for Chicago, Milwaukee and the lakes.

Arthur Newell is preparing to move from Tenth street and Grand avenue to 1122 Grand avenue. The new store is being remodeled and will be ready for occupancy the early part of July.

J. G. Eggleston, 4314 Pearl street, is putting up two houses, one 13x73 feet and the other 27x73, also an office and workroom. In one corner of the workroom he will have a large icebox, as he intends to grow carnations. Up to this time Mr. Eggleston has devoted his attention chiefly to plant growing, porch boxes being his hobby, and his business in all lines is double this season what it was a year ago. Mr. Eggleston has been most successful the last two years in selling potted tomato plants. To a man who visited the greenhouse to buy two of these plants one day last week he sold in addition $69 worth of flowering plants. Among his customers are a number of employees of a large mail order house here who have a community garden.

E. C. Weber, of the Linwood Floral Co., and Miss Margaret Richart were married June 18, at the home of the bride, in this city. J. E. K.

PAHUDS PLAY POLICE.

A man with a pronounced weakness for flowers, and particularly for ferns, was checked in his designs to rob the greenhouses of the Pahud Floral Co., Indianapolis, Ind., by two wide-awake and armed florists, namely Charles and H. L. Pahud.

The florists had missed valuable fern plants while the remodeling of their greenhouses was going on, and last week laid a trap for the thief. When he entered about 11 p. m., he was greeted with a shower of bullets, but despite the efforts of the Pahuds, he escaped. A block away from the greenhouses the florists apprehended a man in an automobile, who had a box of ferns on the ground near his car. This man protested that he was innocent and only a victim of circumstances. He said that one of his friends, who he supposed was in the employ of the Pahud Floral Co., had agreed to furnish him with some ferns for the porch boxes of his house, and he had driven the man to the greenhouses to get them.

NEWS OF THE SEED TRADE

THE CHICAGO CONVENTION.

Trade's Annual Conference in Progress.

The convention of the American Seed Trade Association is being held this week at the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, under conditions that have become ritual through thirty-seven annual repetitions of the program with only minor variations. To employ a phrase wholly new and entirely original, the seed trade conventions are as alike as the peas in a pod, a metaphor which, if not accepted as coined for the occasion, will be recognized as strikingly apt because, as with the peas, so with the conventions—the principal difference is in size. This is a big one, like the pea in the middle of the pod.

The American Seed Trade Association has 234 members. Last year the initiation fee was raised to $50 and the annual dues to $25. It has not affected the membership at all. Of course the members are not all present or represented, but as a large percentage of the members now are corporations of considerable size, sending more than one representative, the attendance at the conventions increases as the members grow, which is faster than the membership grows. There must be close to 400 present, counting members, their representatives, their wives and the constantly increasing number of camp followers, though really these latter seem to get little for their pains.

There never has been a convention which brought together so many seed growers. The Californians especially are well represented, only one of the well known houses being absent, with a number present who have not been seen in years. It is the state of the market that has brought them out.

Past and Prospect.

The real work of the association is done elsewhere than in the open meetings of the convention; were it for these alone not many members, probably, would make long journeys to be present. What they come for is to talk things over in little groups. There is some buying and selling, but not much by comparison with the annual volume and authority represented; the big idea is to renew personal acquaintance and to learn what one can for future use.

President Bolgiano summed up the business situation when he said, in his opening address: "The prosperity of the trade has been general. Abundant crops have again filled our warehouses to a greater extent than we have had in years, but a bare market and a hungry world have taken largely of what we might have feared, early in the season, would be unprofitable surplus." It has been a good season for seed merchants, but a poor year for seed speculators.

There are more seeds today than a year ago, and there were plenty then. There may be quantities of seeds which are not today worth what was paid for them, but they afford concern only to the man who has no established connection with the consumers of those items. The growers are the only members of the trade who are worried; a smaller part of their plantings than usual is sold on contract and at the moment the market is decidedly inactive. But confidence is strong for the reason that the consumptive demand is as certain as the seasons and unquestionably increases with the population; besides, American seedsmen now have possibilities of a foreign market heretofore unknown.

Getting Down to Business.

President Frank W. Bolgiano, whose war work will ever be held in thankful remembrance by the seed trade, started the convention without formality June 24, reading an address which mainly was a description of the association's activities during the war.

In his report as secretary, C. E. Kendel showed a gain of eighteen members last year, the loss of six and a present roster of 234, three of whom are honorary.

As treasurer Mr. Kendel showed financial operations summarized as follows:

Balance	$2,199.21
Receipts	6,448.38
Total	$8,647.59
Disbursements	7,451.24
Balance	$1,196.35

Of the total expenditure of $7,451.24, it was shown that $4,504 went to counsel, $3,750 for retainer and $754 for expenses. The reports were referred to an auditing committee consisting of Francis Stokes, L. W. Wheeler and J. M. Lupton.

The by-laws were amended to change the number of members of the membership committee from three to five. An amendment designed to place the expenditure of money under the complete control of the executive committee was voted down.

Secretary Kendel outlined a suggestion for putting the dues on a scale according to the size of each member's business, designed to raise $10,000 per year, but no discussion or action followed.

As the first session began to break up, Watson S. Woodruff said that probably so many men would not be together again and called for a roll call, Rotarian style, this feature having proved especially interesting as the younger men have come to participate in the affairs of the association.

Committee Reports.

It has not been an eventful year in the affairs of the American Seed Trade Association except as the war touched its activities and this influence, happily, ceased several months ago. The result was that most of the committee reports were brief and had to do with the period prior to November 11. The war service committees' work was of the greatest importance and was covered in the address of President Bolgiano.

The standing committees and their chairmen, most of whom reported briefly, are:

Legislative—J. M. Lupton.
Postal Laws—W. F. Therkildson.
Experiment Stations—L. L. Olds.
Obituary Resolutions—C. N. Keeney.
Tariffs—J. C. Vaughan.
Oriental Farm Labor—Waldo Rohnert.
Standardization of Field Seeds—C. C. Massie.

There also was a report from Curtis Nye Smith, who is counsel for the Seed Trade Association and also counsel for the American Association of Nurserymen.

In Mr. Therkildson's report on postal affairs attention was called to House Resolution 1127, which, if it should become law, will require the inspection of every parcel going through the mails containing live plants, by an authorized inspector of the state in which the addressee lives, before the postmaster can deliver to the addressee. This affects so many seedsmen's interests that it was referred to a special committee for appropriate action.

The representative of William Henry Maule, Philadelphia, followed Mr. Therkildson with a statement of his experience with the postoffice regulations regarding the blank space on catalogue envelopes. Others related similar and various experiences and every seedsman was cautioned to get the written O. K. of his local postmaster on his catalogue envelopes before ordering the printing.

By Their Company Know Them.

The committee posted the following list of proposals for membership:

Hogue-Kellogg Co., Ventura, Cal., proposed by J. C. Bodger & Sons Co.
H. C. King & Sons, Battle Creek, Mich., proposed by E. E. Dungan.
Binding Stevens Co., Tulsa, Okla., proposed by Schisler-Corneli Seed Co.

Papers and Addresses.

Edgar Brown, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, threw a bomb into the ranks of the association when he read his carefully prepared paper entitled "Is Seed Testing Worth While?" Mr. Brown asserted that it is not worth while for the United States government and some of the states to continue expensive seed testing laboratories if the results of the tests are to be used for the advantage of the seed trade alone and that to make government seed testing worth while it is necessary for the results of the tests to be passed along to the planters. He described the gentlemen's agreement which had been made between the officials of the Department of Agriculture and representatives of the seed trade early in the war, providing for the full labeling of all lots of field seeds sold in quantities above ten pounds. It is well known that the department last season purchased quantities of seeds in the endeavor to check up to see how generally the seed trade had lived up to the agreement, and that there was disappointment at the result. Mr. Brown exploded his bomb when he asserted that only ten per cent of the samples purchased showed fulfillment of the agreement. There were several speakers who, while not in position to question the accuracy of Mr. Brown's accusation, expressed the view that there were extenuating circumstances, putting emphasis upon the honor and integrity of the average seedsman. So serious, however, was the situation regarded that, on motion of J. M. Lupton, the president was instructed to appoint a committee to investigate the charge and to report at an executive session June 25.

W. A. Wheeler, also of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in charge of the seed reporting service, read a paper descriptive of his investigations of the seed situation in Europe, from which he has recently returned. He pointed out several opportunities for exporting seeds and put emphasis upon his belief that the demand for American seeds in Europe has not been benefited by exporting low-grade seeds, no matter if they are wanted by the purchasers.

R. A. Oakley, also of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was unable to be present, but sent a paper entitled "The Needs for Critical Study in Seed Production," which was read by Secretary Kendel. This was largely a discussion of the undetermined factors which influence seed production in clover and alfalfa and an account of the efforts made by government investigators to find how the setting of a full crop of seed can be secured.

Lester S. Ivins, of the Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C., read an interesting paper on "The Garden Army and Its Purpose." Leonard H. Vaughan, of Chicago, discussed the subject of commissions and Kirby B. White, of Detroit, had something to say concerning the high purposes of the American Seed Trade Association as described in Article II of its constitution.

Carl Cropp, of Chicago, read a short paper not on the program, dealing with the production of flower seeds in America. He gave carefully tabulated figures as to acreage and deduced that in most items of flower seeds the United States has become independent of Europe.

Prof. Clark, of the Canadian Agricultural Department, made a short address by way of greeting and friendly cooperation.

The Executive Session.

The program was so arranged that only one executive session was held. At it the executive committee reported, as did the legislative committee and the association's counsel. The interest in the session was keen, particularly as word had gone out that the question of contract obligations, short deliveries on a rising market, arbitrary advance of prices, etc., would be handled without gloves.

it desirable to eliminate junkets, but the Chicago seedsmen had prepared one or two diversions. Between the sessions June 25, luncheon was served the men at the Hotel Sherman. At the same time the ladies were taken to the Edgewater Beach hotel for luncheon and a song recital.

At a special session taking the place of the president's reception on the evening of the opening day Watson S. Woodruff showed six reels of motion pictures, occupying an hour and a half. The principal feature was a record of the seed trade's war service, as far as it was possible for Mr. Woodruff to secure photographs of the seedsmen who had gone into the army and navy. Pictures of opening flowers, etc., also were shown and the stunt was voted the best ever presented to the association at convention time.

The big feature of the lighter affairs of the convention was the annual banquet, held at the Chicago Athletic Club during the evening of June 25. The arrangements were in the hands of John C. Leonard, Charles Hollenbach and Leonard Vaughan, each a Chicago seedsman of the second generation. The dining room had been converted into a garden in a valley of the Swiss Alps, seemingly, and a variety of entertainment was provided, in addition to the dinner. It was informal. There were no speeches.

Trade Exhibits.

The seed trade does not exhibit at the seed trade convention; the exhibits are by those who have things they would like to sell to seedsmen.

Several seedsmen have rooms on the convention floor of the hotel, or the one below, for the entertainment of their friends. Among these are Everette R. Peacock Co., Chicago; Illinois Seed Co., Chicago; Leonard Seed Co., Chicago; Woodruff-Boyce Seed Co., Seattle, Wash.; W. H. Small & Son, Evansville, Ind., and C. C. Morse & Co., San Francisco.

The Hamilton Mfg. Co., Two Rivers, Wis., had an exhibit of seed display cases.

W. C. Heller & Co., Montpelier, O., showed miceproof seed cases.

The Brown Bag Filling Machine Co., Fitchburg, Mass., showed its packeting machine and seed envelopes.

The Torsion Balance Co., New York, showed seed scales.

The Brown Portable Conveying Machine Co., Chicago, has a moving picture display of conveying machinery.

The A. B. Morse Co., St. Joseph, Mich.; the A. T. De La Mare Co., New York, and the McFarland Publicity Service, Harrisburg, Pa., showed seed catalogues and N. R. Graves Co., Rochester, shows photographs for illustrating catalogues.

There also are several exhibits of articles seedsmen are asked to catalogue. Among the most active exhibitors are the purveyors of trade journals.

In the lobby of the hotel the Beeman Garden Tractor Co., Minneapolis, showed one of its machines, a center of much interest.

PRESIDENT BOLGIANO'S ADDRESS.

vited to make a short talk before the War Labor Advisory Committee of the U. S. Government, of which our fellow member, Mr. Funk, was chairman. The committee and a number of prominent members of the Agricultural Department were there. While it seems we made little headway in getting that which we so earnestly believed was for the best interest of the country, which was allowing the immigration of Chinese to this country, we feel that the position then taken is only now beginning to show its correctness. The labor situation today is almost if not quite as dangerous as it was during the war times; vast numbers of Greeks, Italians, Spaniards and other laborers are going back to their home lands. Our laboring men seem to be so shortsighted as to be willing to place the cost of production so high in this country that we fear that as soon as the abnormal wants of the world are supplied we shall see the trade needed so much for the prosperity of our country go to more conservative lands, and we shall again be put into the borrowing nation class.

Work with the Government.

We were called on frequently to assist in getting passports and permits for exports and imports of merchandise peculiar to our trade. We had numerous meetings with the officials of the War Trade Board, the Exemption Board and the Department of Agriculture. It was surprising to find that because of the interference of some seedsmen the cotton seedsmen were likely to be placed in the same class as the elevator men who handle grain, their profits being reduced below the cost of handling. The matter was threshed out and cotton seed was again placed in the same position as seed wheat.

Hardly had this matter been settled when we were notified that there was to be an important meeting of the War Trade Board. On arriving, we found such men as the heads of the large mail-order houses. The chairman went promptly into the matter of curtailing the use of paper, stating that there were 730,000,000 pounds of paper represented in the room, exclusive of the trade. He stated that many industries had been forced to retrench in the use of paper in every form, some even so much as fifty per cent. He then asked these men what they could do, mentioning that newspapers must reduce consumption twenty per cent and could not they do the same? They demurred. They were then told that from November 1 to May 1 the consumption of paper must be reduced ten per cent, and from May 1 to October 1 twenty per cent, and there was no certainty that these quantities would not be greatly reduced later on. It was said by one man that they had all the paper they needed in store. This party was promptly told that he must not use it, under severe penalty. It seemed at this point it was time for me to leave, which I did quietly. But in two or three days I was notified that we must either agree for the American seedsmen and hold ourselves responsible, or have the War Trade Board issue an order limiting the paper to be used for seed catalogues. We immediately took the matter up with the War Trade Board and after a strenuous day's work received a letter which in part said: "So long as you confine your purchases of paper to sizes and weights allowed and carefully comb your mailing lists to

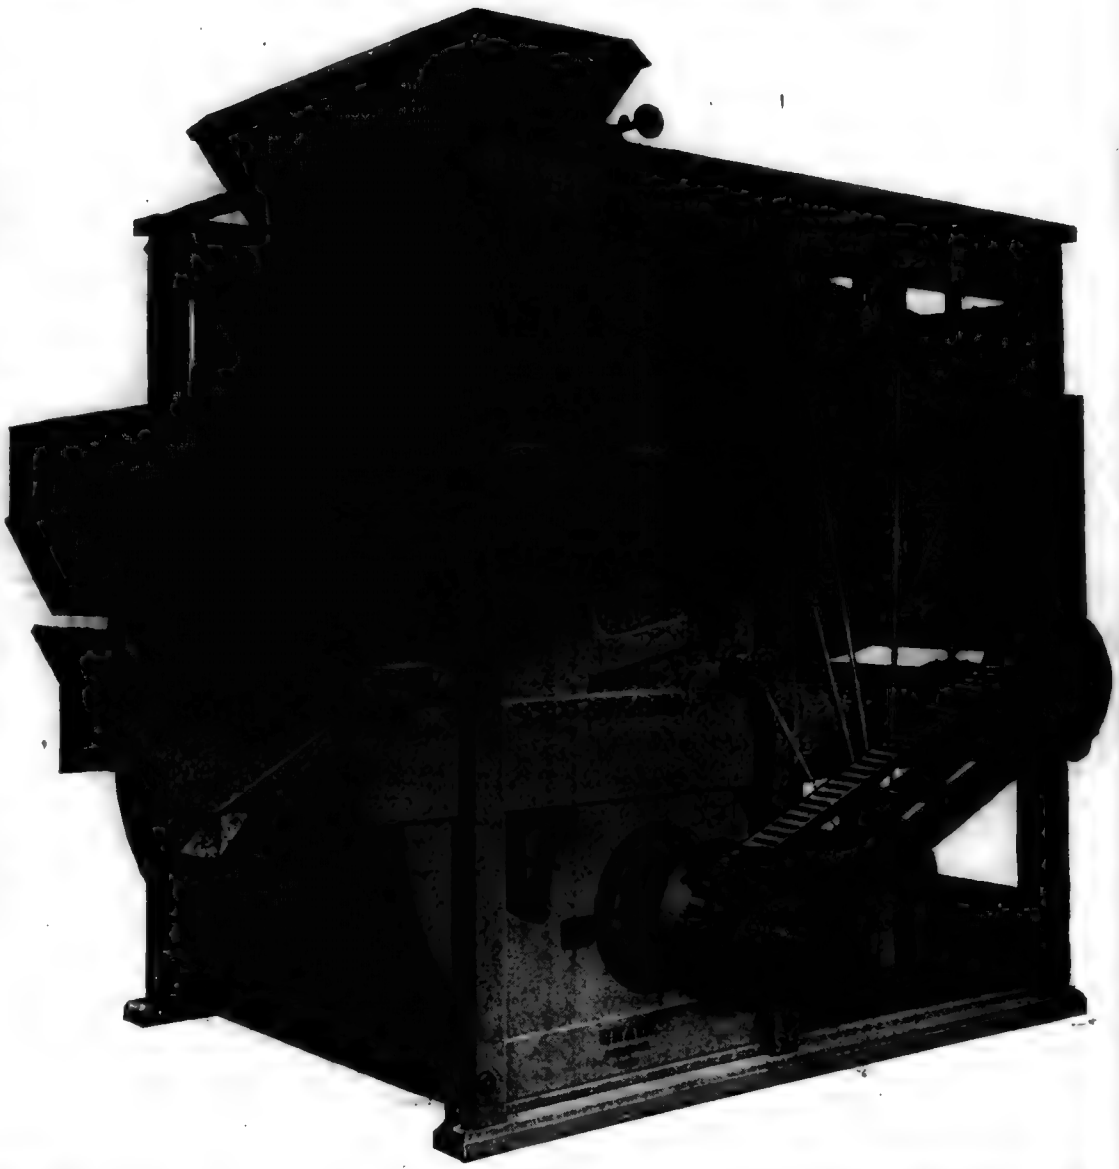
The "Clipper" Cleaners

Successfully Handle all kinds of

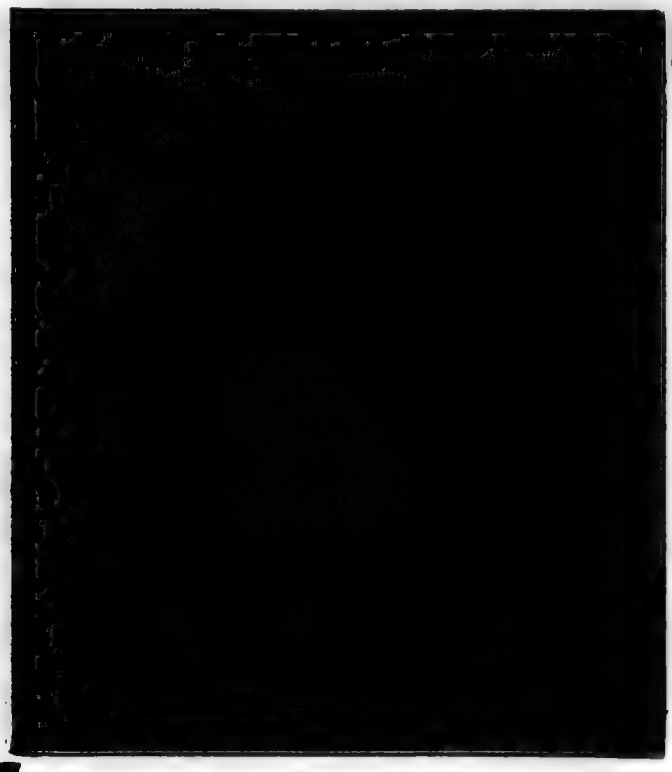


FLOWER, GARDEN and FIELD SEEDS

If you are interested in a machine for screening and grading any kind of seeds, grain, beans, peas or bulbs you might do well to investigate our claims in regard to our machines.

The "Clipper" cleaners are used by all the large seedsmen in the United States, also in many foreign countries.

The Cleaners shown here are equipped with air regulator and traveling screen brushes.



Different kinds of seeds and grains, and different conditions of the seeds or grains, call for varying strength of the air blast used in separating the dust, chaff, and light shrunken seeds or grain from the heavy, perfect seeds and grain. The Clipper Variable Air Regulator gives exact control of the air blast at every desired point. "From a Zephyr to a Hurricane" (and every intermediate point between) exactly describes the range of air blast that can be secured by this mechanical device. We can produce a blast strong enough to blow out the heaviest grain, or peas or beans, and by an adjustment requiring but an instant, reduce the blast sufficient for handling the lightest seeds, such as timothy, red top, blue grass or other extremely light or chaffy field, flower or vegetable seeds.

actual purchasers of seeds as far as you can determine, neither you nor your association will be required to show the definite reduction in tonnage of paper expected of the mail-order houses."

Gentlemen, we have sweat blood before, but this caused us more anxiety for the time being than anything we have ever experienced. When we saw how peremptory the order was to the mail-order houses we hardly thought it possible to make these gentlemen see that we were in a different class altogether; but we did, and the order was not issued against our business.

There were freight troubles as usual, but we were able to get our trade in the preferred class.

Our thanks can hardly go out too much for the work given this association by the gentlemen of the War Service Committee. I cannot say too much in their praise, for their patriotic and loyal service to their country and to our trade.

Work of the Counsel.

I want to say that the work of your counsel has been both arduous and unremitting. It seems that each year brings new conditions and new men to the various legislative centers that make it imperative that we should always have on the job a man who by training and natural ability is fitted to guide and direct us in our endeavors to get just and workable laws. Ill-advised laws are so easily made and results are so far-reaching that it behooves us to be always ready and watching lest we be taken unawares and be injured beyond repair. There never was a time, it seems to me, when the seed trade stood out so prominently as a necessary business as it does today. The world is hungry, prices are high for all foodstuffs and unless there is a proper distribution of seeds there may be disaster.

Curtis Nye Smith seems almost as the man who never sleeps. Before even senators or representatives know that a bill has been introduced, Mr. Smith is there with the goods in the shape of the uniform seed bill, which, as you all know, represents the work of the seed analysts more than it does the work of our association. I recommend that Mr. Smith be retained as counsel for the seed trade.

At a meeting of the National Association of Seed Analysts a motion was carried to appoint a committee to go further into the seed law and asking that a similar committee be appointed by the American Seed Trade Association, to coöperate. I therefore recommend that such a committee be appointed at the earliest moment. This committee should have power to act for this association.

Affiliation Needed.

In May we received from the Southern Seedsmen's Association an invitation to attend their convention at Montgomery, Ala. We thought it both wise and profitable to accept this invitation. At the same time we were informed that our counsel, Curtis Nye Smith, was asked to make an address at the same convention. There can hardly be any doubt that our association must in some way form a connection with the local seed trade bodies that are springing up all over the country. At Montgomery we found a live, wide-awake bunch of men who give great promise of a large future usefulness, but unless we can in some way act with them we may find that they, not having the experience of our long years in the work, make mistakes that will be costly to the whole seed trade. We must remember that the seedsman claims the world as his parish and what affects even the least of these affects the greatest. We therefore recommend that a committee, either a standing committee or a special committee, be instructed to see if some working plan may be devised and that they may be asked at least to contribute to the necessary expenses. We feel sure they are too honorable to do otherwise.

From lack of funds it was thought advisable to discontinue the "Bulletin" for a while, but we feel that it is going to be and should be a great factor in our trade and funds should in some way be provided for its continuance.

GRASS SEED DEALERS MEET.

Officers Elected.

One of the largest and most interesting meetings in the history of the Wholesale Grass Seed Dealers' Association was held at Hotel Sherman June 23, concluding with the electing of the following officers:

President—J. A. Smith, Toledo.

Vice-president—W. G. Scarlett, Baltimore.

Secretary-treasurer—C. A. Jones, Baltimore.

The three directors whose terms expired at this meeting were reëlected, Messrs. Smith, Duryea and Reynolds.

Subsequently President Smith announced the appointment of the following committees:

Legislative—A. E. Reynolds, George S. Green, W. G. Scarlett.

Arbitration—Fred Kellogg, E. T. Stanford, H. B. McCullough, M. H. Duryea, C. C. Massie.

Trade Rules—O. T. Watts, Roy Edwards, A. H. Hiss, H. W. Doughlin, F. W. Annin, Curtis Nye Smith.

The membership committee was reappointed except that Clifford Corneli, of St. Louis, was put on in place of his father, B. P. Corneli, who wished to retire.

Miscellaneous Matters.

The committee on trade rules held a protracted session, but no announcement was made.

The Kellogg Seed Co., of Milwaukee, and the Northern Field Seed Co., of Winona, Minn., were the new members elected.

At last year's meeting it was provided that the president should have the authority to designate one honorary member each year. Albert Dickinson was named as the first. This year's nominee was D. I. Bushnell, of St. Louis.

W. A. Wheeler, in charge of the U. S. Seed Reporting Service, read a paper entitled "Some Aspects of Seed Control." It was a discussion of legislation concerning the sale of seeds and of the seed trade's disclaimer, together with suggestions as to the lines of future development, both of legislation and of the seed business. attacked the disclaimer as a cloak for the protection of unreliable dealers and asserted that proper legislation, with a view to protecting the seedsmen as well as the consumers of seeds, will make obsolete the disclaimer in its present form. He argued for uniform stock records, especially for field seeds, as affording one of the strongest guarantees of the reliability of seeds purchased.

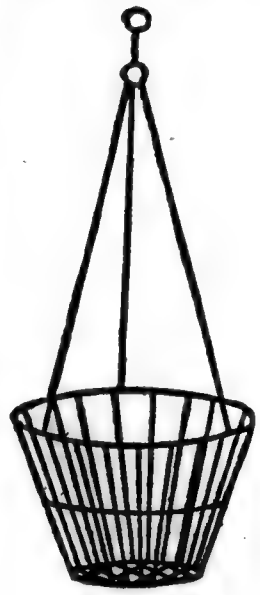
The meeting closed with the presentation of a diamond pin and a vote of thanks to President Reynolds, who was pressed to accept a reëlection, but declined. C. C. Massie also declined the presidency, but the association obtained the services of one of its strongest men in John A. Smith, who has been an active worker ever since the organization was formed.

"SEED DEALER" SENTENCED.

James S. Hyde, who more than a year ago conducted a seed business under the name of the Hyde Seeds Farm Co., from an office in the Pierce building, St. Louis, Mo., entered a plea of guilty in the United States District court June 18, to a charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud, and was sentenced by Judge Dyer to two years' imprisonment in the Leavenworth penitentiary.



It was alleged by the postoffice department that Hyde advertised seed potatoes at a remarkably low price, and that after receiving thousands of dollars, he departed from St. Louis without delivering the potatoes.

Postoffice Inspector Price said Hyde told him he had obtained about $200,000 by his scheme, but Hyde said Price was mistaken. He said his company did business amounting to $380,000, but the undelivered orders amounted to only $10,000 or $15,000.

Since he was in St. Louis Hyde has served a one-year sentence in the Wisconsin penitentiary for passing worthless checks.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

THE CHICAGO CONVENTION.

Market Development the Theme.

At the forty-fourth annual convention of the American Association of Nurserymen, which opened at the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, June 25, the subject of prime interest was the plans for amplifying the work of the organization for market development, whose activity in the last few months has attracted the eyes of all the trade.

There have been times when the nurserymen of the country stood in more need of developing a greater market for their goods than today. Several causes, however, have brought about the present favor, exceedingly enthusiastic on the part of some individuals, of the project for increasing the demand for nursery stock. The success of the florists' campaign and their famous slogan has had something to do with opening the eyes of nurserymen hitherto indifferent to fellow tradesmen's attempts to organize a publicity campaign. Then the fact that all businesses, recognizing the presence of high prosperty, are endeavoring to boost the demand for their commodities, has created a contagion that is catching. And, quite important, the realization of a demand that is strong enough to render quite unnecessary attempts to undersell one's competitors, gives the trade something in the way of tone, and makes the individual members readier to unite for common cause and to part with the contributions required for the support of an organized campaign. Altogether the prospects are rosy for a vigorous year in market development.

Mr. Rockwell's Prologue.

In the nature of a prologue was the meeting of the "Subscribers' Organization of Nurserymen for Market Development," held on the afternoon of June 24, the day preceding the opening of the convention. After John Watson, chairman of the directors of the organization, had reviewed what already had been done—chiefly the supplying of articles to some 750 newspapers during the last three months—F. F. Rockwell, manager of the service bureau, outlined the plans for which he had made out a budget for the coming year.

Asking for a total of $50,000 to $60,000 for the year, Mr. Rockwell summarized his proposed expenditures as follows: (1) The contest in conjunction with the Delineator magazine for beautifying homes and towns, in which the prize-money, $10,000, is to be paid by the nurserymen; (2) the preparation of illustrated lectures to be loaned to societies and clubs gratis; (3) a moving picture for similar purpose, costing $1,250; (4) advertising the "little blue tag," at an expenditure of $20,000; (5) advocating the planting of memorial trees, to the extent of $5,000 in advertising; (6) issuing free bulletins and booklets on planting and care of trees and shrubs.

When the method of raising the $50,000 or $60,000 came to be considered, it was learned that estimates had been prepared, based on the payments of members of the American Association of Nurserymen under the new system of fee in proportion to business done, indicating that about one-half of one per cent would be ample to swing the campaign, provided all got in the bandwagon. The total volume of business of the 322 members of the A. A. N. was, in 1918, Mr. Watson said, $14,320,000.

Only about half of the members of the association are subscribers to the market development campaign. But so unanimous were they in accepting the assessment as estimated, and so certain that all the other nurserymen would wish to participate, that they proposed making their campaign an association affair, and their subscriptions toward it a part of the membership fee. To this end the directors of the market development organization were instructed to meet with the executive committee of the association, and fix a definite, equitable percentage of assessment.

Opening Session.

By the time the first session of the convention of the American Association of Nurserymen was called to order, Wednesday morning, June 25, probably the largest assemblage of nurserymen ever in attendance at such a meeting had gathered at the Hotel Sherman, in Chicago. This hostelry had the day before taken on a trade aspect, fairly teeming with horticultural atmosphere, for the seedsmen and nurserymen had together crowded its corridors and lobbies with growers and dealers. When President Mayhew called the meeting to order about 200 nurserymen had registered, and more were at Secretary Sizemore's desk.

Following the opening ceremonies—invocation by the Rev. G. L. Robinson, D. D.; the address of welcome, by Wm. R. Moss, of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and the reply, by M. R. Cashman, of Owatonna, Minn.—President Mayhew read his address, which, covering a number of important subjects, was of some length. In reference to the possibilities before the association through market development, he said:

President on Prices.

"At Detroit in 1915 the nurserymen burned their bridges behind them and launched out upon a comprehensive business program, and every day since has been one of progress. If the conditions of the present had obtained in 1915, there would have been no occasion for a reorganization, but history will repeat itself, and conditions like those of 1915 will return, like Banquo's ghost, to haunt us. Our success of the present, if not safeguarded, creates a menace supreme. Good nursery stock for the fall of 1919 and spring of 1920 will sell at prices heretofore unknown. In fact, it is no longer a matter of prices, but rather a matter of procuring stock at any price. This condition of shortage will most probably obtain for two or three years; then look out! Stimulated by high prices, enormous plantings will be made, and about the year 1922-23 the bottom will drop out, unless the whole matter can be safeguarded. You who believe "this thing will take care of itself," mark my words. In about the year 1923 you will be crying for somebody to help you turn loose that bear of overproduction.

Secretary's Office.

"A year ago your executive committee engaged the services of Chas. Sizemore as secretary and traffic manager at a salary of $1,500 per annum. One of the duties of his office has been that of auditing freight and express bills of the members, and in the discussion of the possibilities of this feature of his work with the committee, I stated that if the membership would coöperate with this new office by filing with Mr. Sizemore their old freight and express bills, under the proposed plan of fifteen per cent of the claims collected to go into our treasury, ten per cent to the secretary and seventy-five per cent to the member owning the claim, the amount designated as the treasury's funds would largely pay the secretary's salary. How well my prediction has been verified is best told by the figures taken from the secretary's books June 1:

Total claims collected	$7,539.08
Funds returned to the members	5,654.31
Funds returned to the treasury	1,130.90
Chas. Sizemore's commissions	753.87

"In other words, June 1 the salary for the year paid to the secretary had been returned to the treasury with the exception of $369.10, and only twenty-nine firms out of a total of 400 had made use of this service. It can readily be imagined what the possibilities of this office would be if the entire membership would use the services offered, which, by the way, are cheaper by ten per cent than the same service offered by auditing firms generally.

Membership Firm.

"Fear was expressed quite generally a year ago that many of the larger firms would forfeit their membership rather than pay the advanced dues, and it is gratifying to be able to report that not only has this not been true, but a larger per cent of the members have paid their dues under the present schedule than on corresponding date of recent years. The last information coming to my office June 16, was that only fifty-nine members had failed to report, and not one of these was among the large contributors."

President Mayhew stated that the actions of the executive committee in regard to Quarantine No. 37 had been in conformity with the desire of the association as expressed in a resolution at the convention of 1917, which, he believed, the officers of the organization had to follow, whatever their personal beliefs regarding the exclusion of foreign-grown nursery stock. If the association wishes to withdraw its opposition to the quarantine, as expressed by the executive committee, it must, he said, rescind the resolution passed two years ago.

Following the president's address, Mr. Latshaw, advertising manager of the Butterick publications, repeated his effective message delivered to the market development meeting the afternoon before, explaining the advertising possibilities of the nursery business, which gave rise to vigorous discussion of the subject.

BUILD FUTURE ON QUALITY.

"There has been considerable uneasiness in the last three or four years as to the future of the nursery trade in this country. Owing to conditions as they existed at the time, that view was not without a considerable degree of justification," says Thos. A. McBeth, proprietor of the Ornamental Nurseries, at Springfield, O.

"But it is my judgment now that if the nurserymen will make up their minds to pay more attention to producing stock of good quality at reasonable prices, and not to see how much they can sell at cut-throat prices, they will find that their customers will respond, and the future then will be bright."

Rose Show.

The annual show of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held June 11. The exhibits were splendid and aroused keen competition. The feature of the show was the table decoration contest. Robert Jones was awarded first prize; Angus B. McGregor, second; William Milstead, third, and Thomas Henderson, fourth.

Awards in the rose section went to J. McCarthy, F. Johnson, J. Sutherland, J. Waite, F. Watson and A. Sheriff. Prizes in outdoor flowers were awarded to E. Harris and A. Stango.

Club Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held on the evening of June 11. President Joseph Adler presided. Ernest Westlake, who had been secretary of the club for the last six years, tendered his resignation. Joseph Muler, George E. Baldwin, Arthur Adams, Thomas Wade, Harry Baldwin and Dennis Minogue were elected to active membership. The club decided to hold a basket picnic sometime in August.

The next meeting of the society will be held July 9. It will be sweet pea night.

NEWPORT, R. I.

The Bellevue avenue store of the late Joseph G. Leikens will be continued in charge of Robert A. Clifford. This firm will have charge of the decorations for the wedding of Miss Edith Mortimer to Count di Zoppola, of the Italian army; at the bride's home at Roslyn, N. Y. The color scheme will be blue and pink, roses and larkspur forming the principal flowers.

Prof. Hollister, in charge of the entomology department of the Davey Tree Surgery school, Kent, O., was in Newport last week. The representative of the eastern territory of this company, Mr. Horn, took Prof. Hollister to view some of the fine estates here.

GODFREY CALLAS

When Mr. Godfrey, of Portsmouth, England, distributed his seedling callas, he sent to Richmond three varieties. The variety Devoniensis is the superior sort of the three and it is the true Godfrey as selected and distributed from the stock sent E. G. Hill Company.

Information has come to us that the Godfrey Calla sometimes fails. Send to the Fred H. Lemon Company and get the genuine Devoniensis variety and you will not be disappointed with results.

The Market.

Social functions incidental to commencement week at Brown University and Pembroke College, weddings and graduations made a few days of last week busy ones for those florists who were called upon for baskets, bouquets and decorations. A number of funerals also contributed to the demand. It is several years since June weddings and graduations have had such beneficial influence upon the flower market.

Market prices are about normal, with carnations $1 to $2 per hundred; roses, $1 to $8, and sweet peas, 50 to 75 cents.

Various Notes.

Frank L. Caswell has been appointed a member of the Narragansett Pier park commission for six years.

Elwood, Ind.—Press reports that local florists had depleted greenhouses and were unreasonably boosting prices brought florists to arms and to the editorial rooms. The paper immediately denied the assertions.

Lansdowne, Pa.—S. S. Pennock was awarded the red ribbon prize for the second best rose grown in Lansdowne gardens, at the flower show held here June 7. Vegetables were also included in the exhibits. Mr. Pennock won the prize for beets and lettuce, while C. W. Conard captured the ribbon for rhubarb.

Greenhouse Heating

Subscribers are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

COAL MINERS LEAVE COUNTRY.

Increased coal production is less probable than it was if it is true that approximately 1,300,000 aliens in the United States are planning to return to their native countries.

This estimate, while higher than previous ones, is declared by Ethelbert Stewart, director of the investigation and inspection service of the Department of Labor, to be a conservative one. It is based on investigations made recently covering the steel mill districts in the vicinity of Chicago, Detroit and Pittsburgh, and the coal mining areas of Pennsylvania.

A large proportion of the foreigners who intend leaving the United States for the countries of their birth are employed in the coal mines. The mine labor is composed entirely of immigrants who have arrived rather recently on our soil. With the ability to lay away large savings in the last two years, they have prepared themselves for return to the freed lands of Europe, where the economic situation is such as to make their future as full of opportunity there as it would be here.

This reversal of the flow of immigration will, in all probability, force the price of all rough labor still higher. The lesser skilled trades will have greater difficulty in finding men. And the present underproduction of coal is not likely to be remedied—not, at any rate, in time to help next winter's supply. Shortage of fuel seems almost certain.

HOUSE AND ATTACHED HOTBED.

Enclosed are plans of a greenhouse which I built this spring. It is 20½x50 and ten and one-half feet high to the ridge, with sashbars twelve feet long. The north wall is solid concrete and is four and one-half feet high from ground to eaves. The south side is the same height, but contains eighteen inches of glass. Attached to the south wall is a hotbed. The hotbed sashes, which are six feet long, connect with the lower edge of the eighteen inches of glass in the greenhouse wall. Under the eaves of the hotbed sashes there is a concrete wall eighteen inches high. Thus the entire width of the structure, including both house and hotbed, is twenty-six feet. The wall at the west end of the house is concrete to a height of three feet; the rest is glass. The east end is double-boarded, with paper between, up to the eaves; the rest is glass.

I have a No. 518 Lord & Burnham hot water boiler, which has heated the old houses satisfactorily. If I add two sections to the boiler, do you think it will then heat the new house also to the temperature required, or will three extra KROESCHELL BOILERS have no bulky, soot-accumulating surfaces – you avoid the disagreeable work and trouble indispensable to cleaning boilers with complicated and tortuous back and forth fire passages.

The superiority of our boilers has resulted in the removal and abolishment of hundreds of cast iron sectional boilers—in every instance KROESCHELL BOILERS give more heat with the same piping with less fuel.

Heated by No. 15 Kroeschell Boiler, Kroeschell 2-inch Return Piping System and Kroeschell Generator. Greenhouses each 28 feet by 200 feet. Garland Construction.

The mains are arranged to take care of a future addition of 40,000 sq. ft. of glass; 2-inch returns are used throughout the entire range and each 2-inch return line is controlled by 1-inch gate valve (strictly a Kroeschell feature), insuring perfect control. It is a gravity job; the circulation is perfect, reaching the extreme ends of range in fifteen minutes. The Kroeschell Generator (the high speed gear for hot water heating) is also used for this system.

"Your No. 15 Kroeschell Boiler heats our entire range. We maintain a temperature of 60 degrees in our greenhouses, and this temperature is easily maintained even in the very coldest weather. Your boiler has given entire satisfaction. It is the best and quickest heater I have ever used or seen. I have found the boiler very economical in the use of fuel and labor, as it is not necessary to use the best coal, and any labor will do for a fireman. The Kroeschell Piping System with Generator works like a charm. When I want to sulphur, I can heat the water up to 230 to 240 degrees and I get the same results as from steam. Seeing is believing—all Growers are invited to call. Any further information concerning boiler and piping system will be gladly given. We had a large number of Florists at our place recently, and they all thought we had the finest equipped plant in the business."

sections be needed? I have about fifty feet of 2-inch pipe and 125 feet of 1¼-inch pipe which I wish to use.

G. B. M.—Pa.

The piping suggested in the diagram—a 2½-inch main and two 2-inch flow pipes in the new house—should be satisfactory, although we would prefer to use a 3-inch main from the boiler, with a 2½-inch overhead flow on each line of purlin posts, if the hotbed is also to be heated.

For the coil on the north side of the house we would suggest using three 1½-inch and two 1¼-inch returns, although we would prefer to have them all 1½-inch were it not for using the pipe on hand. In the south coil use three or four 1½-inch returns, starting this coil, as well as the other, at the door and following around the ends and sides of the house to the boiler.

If the hotbed is to be heated, run a 1½-inch pipe upon each wall. These may be supplied from the overhead flow on the south purlin posts, and the two returns may be united and carried back through the new house to the boiler in a 2-inch pipe. If two 2½-inch overhead flows are used in the house, only three returns will be required for the coil on the south side. With this arrangement the fifty feet of 2-inch pipe on hand may be used for one of the pipes in the hotbed.

Had the size of the present houses been given, with the temperatures desired in them, we could have offered an opinion upon the possibility of supplying the radiation in the new house by adding two or three sections to the No. 518 Lord & Burnham boiler now installed. The grate is only eighteen inches in width, and we would not consider it worth while to add more than two sections. The No. 518 boiler will handle about 800 square feet of radiation with soft coal. The new house and hotbed will require about 350 square feet of radiation, which would leave 450 square feet for the present houses. The addition of two sections to the boiler will add about 250 square feet to its capacity, but, of course, will make it necessary to use more fuel and to give more attention to the firing, especially in zero weather. With seven sections we would expect to be able to heat the new houses to 45 degrees, and 700 square feet of radiation in the old houses.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Business throughout this section continues to be fairly good, although the terrific heat plays havoc with all flowers. Everything is drying up for want of rain. The last good shower here was several weeks ago. Outdoor flowers are short-lived. Immense quantities of them arrive daily, many of them going to waste before they can be sold. Much of this surplus stock is sold daily on the streets by some of the returned soldiers. Large quantities of peonies, roses and carnations that would otherwise have been a complete loss have thus brought in a little money.

June with its deluge of weddings is truly felt by all the florists, but there appear to be no large decorations as in former years. Funeral work continues to be heavy and consumes much stock.

All kinds of stock are showing signs of the extreme heat. The poorness of much of the indoor stock is visible. Carnations are particularly poor and do not keep well at all. They are being offered at low figures in order to make a clearance. Roses are in abundance and as soon as exposed to the air open up wide. They do not sell readily.

Good stock arrives daily and includes Russell, Hoosier Beauty, Ward, Sunburst, Maryland, Ophelia, Prima Donna, Columbia, Kaiserin, White Killarney and Killarney. Good American Beauties arrive, but the demand is not large. Orchids have not had a large sale during the last week, nor is the supply large. Late varieties of peonies are just about over for this season. A small supply of gladioli reaches us daily and is chiefly of the America variety. Other good colored seedlings are seen and sell readily. Delphinium is better both in the light and dark blues, the cut being fair and well flowered on account of favorable weather. Foxgloves and snapdragons are making their appearance in profusion. Gaillardias, coreopsis and daisies are plentiful, most of the stores making excellent window decorations with them. Outdoor roses are arriving in large quantities, but do not sell readily, owing to the fact that almost all residents have them on their property.

Among other flowers seen are marigolds, Canterbury bells, Spanish iris, calliopsis, cornflowers, mignonette, sweet peas, gypsophila, marguerites and sweet william. New ferns, Asparagus plumosus and other green goods are fairly plentiful, the demand being good.

Rochester Rose Show.

The Rochester Rose Society held its initial rose show on the evening of June 20 in the lobby of the Chamber of Commerce building. That Rochester has been rightfully named the Flower City was proven in the qualities and beauty of the many varieties of roses that were exhibited. Notwithstanding the fact that the excessive warmth had caused roses to break in bloom earlier than usual, there were remarkable exhibits. There were more than 500 visitors. Hybrid tea roses were the most popular. The park department had more than 100 vases on exhibition. Other rose growers made up the remainder of the exhibition, and had as many as 150 varieties on view.

Members of the Rose Society met in connection with the exhibition and decided to hold a rose show in connection with the coming industrial exposition.

Various Notes.

Fred Price, advertising manager for James Vick's Sons, is spending a couple of weeks at the lake shore, accompanied by his wife and children.

George Reising, of L. Baumann & Co., Chicago, Ill., had a fine display of artificial flowers and novelties at the Whitcomb hotel this week. He reported excellent sales throughout his trip.

Alberts the Florist had a pleasing window display last week, in which were dainty basket arrangements. Several small dolls were grouped in the foreground, making an added attraction.

The scarcity of good Boston ferns in this section is particularly noticed, the supply having dropped considerably during the last few months. H. J. H.

Help Save the "White Coal of Industry"

The boiling hot water resulting from condensation in your steam lines is worth money. You have paid for it in terms of coal. It contains valuable heat units. It is the "White Coal of Industry"—it should not be wasted.

And it need not be wasted. The Morehead Back-to-Boiler System will save it for you by returning it to the boiler at temperatures as high as 400 degrees Fahrenheit. It reduces coal consumption an average of 20%. At the same time your steam will be "drier" and more efficient; your production speeded up and profits increased.

The Market.

Increased demand last week made stock scarcer. Every available bit of good stock was used for the numerous corsages, weddings and funeral work. The leading demand of the week was for corsages, and every florist sent out hundreds of them for the high school commencement dance and other commencement festivities. Weddings were numerous and many called for elaborate decorations. For these, rambler roses, especially Dorothy Perkins, and hydrangeas, were mainly used, although Mrs. Francis King and America gladioli were also used with good effect.

The quality of cut flowers has shown no improvement, as hot weather was with us all through the week. However, cooler temperatures prevailed Saturday and Sunday, and it is hoped that these conditions will continue. Carnations are deteriorating, not only in size, but also in color. Even roses show the effects of the continued heat. Every variety, including Russell, is off color and opens too soon.

Indoor gladioli are of fine quality, particularly America and Mrs. Francis King. A few calla lilies are on the market, but Easter lilies are over for the season. Lily of the valley is none too plentiful and the demand is heavy. Orchids are not nearly equal to the demand.

In outdoor flowers, gaillardias appeared on the market for the first time last week. Coreopsis, calendulas, pansies, forget-me-nots, achilleas, delphiniums and feverfew are all in good demand. Foliage plants are in good supply and meet with good call. There is little variety in blooming plants. Begonias, gloxinias, hydrangeas and pelargoniums constitute the offerings. There is a great need for blooming plants at this season of the year.

Various Notes.

Decorations in the Anthony hotel ballroom for the high school commencement dance were done by the Flick Floral Co. This firm sent out many corsages for the commencement dance and had a large number of weddings last week.

Herman Leitz, of the New Haven Floral Co., has recently bought another range of greenhouses at Hicksville, O., about fifteen miles from New Haven, Ind., where his present range is located. He intends to conduct both ranges and will grow a variety of cut flowers and plants.

Edgar Wenninghoff had a heavy demand for corsages and wedding work last week. He carries a good variety of outdoor flowers and specializes in Russell roses.

Miss C. B. Flick, of the Patten Flower Store, Toledo, O., arrived in this city June 14 for a two weeks' visit with her niece and other relatives. She reports a fine spring business, but says the effect of the Toledo strike upon the florists' business has been noticeable.

Paterson, N. J.—The displays of Bobbink & Atkins and Croes Bros. at the flower show here June 7 attracted much attention. Awards of gold medals were made to Bobbink & Atkins for the best collection of hardy plants, and to Croes Bros. for the best collection of roses.

A Glazing Putty of Real Value

In all our experience and investigation we had never found a preparation for bulbing over the outside of a greenhouse that was quite satisfactory, until we ran across PERMANITE. This was about four years ago. At that time we set about investigating the merits of PERMANITE and proceeded to watch the results of its application to greenhouse roofs.

Last year we were entirely convinced of its high quality and durability, and accepted the western agency for the sale of these goods.

We applied PERMANITE to hundreds of greenhouse roofs, over almost every part of the United States.

The results obtained were highly satisfactory indeed. Glass roofs of all kinds, both old and new, were made water-tight and air-tight, saving thousands of plants from being spoiled by water dripping on them and saving many hundreds of tons of coal by making the roofs proof against the wind and storms of winter.

We give PERMANITE our unqualified endorsement and recommend it highly for all kinds of glazing.

We have a very large stock on hand in our warehouse and can ship immediately.

The Market.

Business was fair last week. There was a good demand for flowers for commencements and weddings. This helped out considerably. The supply has shortened much since last writing.

Roses, except white ones, are fairly plentiful and generally of good quality. Carnations are in good supply, but the cut is not so heavy as it was. Easter lilies may be had. A few sweet peas are available. The list of outdoor stock includes cornflower, coreopsis, candytuft, feverfew, larkspur and Shasta daisies. Gladioli sell fairly well. Water lilies have been popular. Among other offerings are a few lilies of the valley and snapdragons.

Greens of all kinds, including new eastern ferns, are selling well.

Various Notes.

Reports from the bedside of H. W. Sheppard indicate that he has successfully passed the crisis in his illness and is now on the road to recovery.

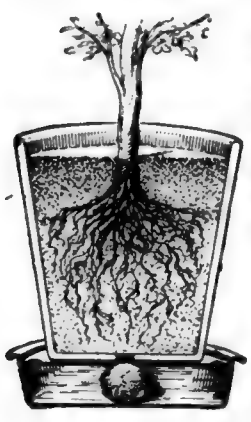
E. G. Gillett has been finding an excellent market for C. J. Ohmer's asparagus from West Palm Beach, Fla. In spite of the long trip, careful packing helps the shipments to come through in good condition.

T. W. Hardesty & Co. are making use of a long iron pan in which they are displaying pond lilies as part of their window decorations.

George Klotter has been sending choice gladioli to the store of L. H. Kyrk the last fortnight. C. H. H.

NEWARK, N. J.

The Market.



June weddings continued to be the source of considerable business. Funeral work was not so large as it had been. There is still a little graduation work from private schools. Many flowers which were plentiful during the spring months have disappeared, and there is not the variety to choose from now that there was; but other flowers, such as gladioli, which have appeared but recently, are now arriving in larger quantities.

Various Notes.

Charles J. Connolly, 320 Bank street, reports considerable wedding work now. Funeral and graduation work is small. The total volume of business is fair, but nothing to boast of. R. B. M.

RITO

Is Coming to America!

WONDERFUL RESULTS have been obtained by the use of RITO in Great Britain during the last three years. Owing to the war it has been impossible to export, but now we are free to do so. Horticulturists of the U. S. A. will at once avail themselves of this unique method of increasing their products and of getting their stuff ready for the market some weeks earlier than they have hitherto done, and so secure a much higher price.

WHAT IS RITO?—RITO is a humus, organic or natural fertilizer, a stimulant and energizing medium for soil bacteria.

WHAT IS HUMUS?—Humus is a complex substance or mixture of substances present in the richest of soils. It is black in color and hence renders the soil darker. RITO contains Humus in the right form for fertilizing the soil.

WHY ADD HUMUS?—Because most soils contain very little (if any) Humus, and it is necessary for the proper development of the useful soil bacteria. The bacteria find in the Humus constituents a suitable medium for their robust propagation.

That is, Humus is a source of food and energy for the soil bacteria.

WHAT IS THE ANALYSIS OF RITO?—It has very little chemical analysis and it does not come in the same category as fertilizers. It is essentially an energizing medium for soil bacteria. Phosphates and potash are present in all soils, but in the ordinary way they are not readily available. RITO, by energizing the soil bacteria, is calculated to make the phosphates and potash available for the plant. It also stimulates the nitrogen fixing bacteria into action, so that the consequent development is out of all proportion to its analysis.

RITO takes the place of farmyard manure, or it may be used in conjunction with farmyard manure or any recognized artificials. RITO is free from weed seeds, spores and germs, and from the eggs or larvae of noxious insects.

It is well known that the soil is not a dead inert mass of matter, but that it teems with bacteria, which only need to be treated properly to be called into activity. There are millions in every spadeful of soil.

RITO may be used in the open or under glass.

What RITO Users Say:—

"I used RITO in the soil for my Tomatoes this year. The result was the best crop I ever had, and I started picking two to three weeks earlier than usual, from seed sown same date as previous years."

A market gardener says that his RITO-treated lettuce were ready for the market a month before the untreated ones, with the result that the treated ones brought 2s. 6d. per dozen and the untreated ones, when they were ready for the market, brought 1s. per dozen.

"I tried RITO last year on Potatoes, and they yielded 30 per cent. better than those not treated."

"Every ounce of fruit from both the treated and the untreated Tomatoes has been gathered and carefully weighed. The weight of fruit gathered from the treated portions average just five times the amount as from the untreated portion."

"I have used RITO in the Peach Houses, and find that it greatly improved both the quality of the fruit and also the growth. I also find RITO very good if used when mixing soil for potting various plants, and I have also used it on my Vines with excellent results."

"I have pleasure in testifying to the merits of RITO. It is 'Right Ho' and no mistake. I never saw Tomatoes do so well as when your RITO was applied as a top-dressing mixed with the soil; the roots the plants made in this way were extraordinary, and the crops correspondingly good. The same applies to Cucumbers, also Chrysanthemums and to plants generally. It seems to consume the moisture, hence less watering is required."

"RITO-treated Chrysanthemums made a much quicker and better start than they have usually done—in fact, the plants show a great improvement."

RITO is packed in double bags, and the price is $5.00 per 100 lbs. ex Quay, Boston or New York. Terms—Cash with order.

Please address your orders at once to The Molassine Company, Ltd., East Greenwich, London, England.

RITO SUITS EVERYTHING THAT GROWS

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

The Market.

Flowers are plentiful. Business is rather quiet. The latter condition partly accounts for the former, although June is a month of flowers and a scarcity could hardly be expected. Outdoor flowers have been abundant and thus it has not been necessary to call on the florist. June weddings have prevailed, but accounts of the majority read, "The house was a bower of Dorothy Perkins roses."

Carnations are to be had by the score, but are so poor that no one wants them. Plenty of roses are available, but the hot weather hurts their sale. Daisies are also in large quantity and are popular because of their keeping qualities. Lilies are on the short side and are available in but two varieties, Easter and candidum.

Gladioli are becoming more conspicuous. The outdoor ones are now putting in their appearance. Their prices have been cut to $5 and $6 per hundred. Outside snapdragons are also here. Other newcomers are baby's breath and cornflowers.

Various Notes.

For some time the Pahud Floral Co. has been missing stock, but not until lately were the members able to discover who was guilty of the thieving. Walter Gakstatter, a well-known kleptomaniac, has for some time been getting bedding stock and selling it among his friends. The Pahud brothers, Harry and Charles, had been "laying" for the thief, and June 13 they put a good supply of buckshot in his anatomy. He has been arrested on a charge of grand larceny. This company has closed the lease for a store in the new Lyric theater building, which will be opened about August 1. They will continue to run their present store.

D. L. Fern, of the A. L. Randall Co., and Samuel Young, of Casey, Ill., were visitors last week. Joseph Hill, of Richmond, was also here visiting friends.

Baur & Steinkamp have had an unusually heavy demand for young mums.

Temperley's are erecting a new greenhouse 35½x200 feet.

By the end of July Bertermann Bros. Co. will be cutting Golden Glow chrysanthemums. E. E. T.

The Market.

The best description that can be given of the market of last week is that "the bottom dropped out." There was never a better demonstration of supply and demand regulating prices than in the Baltimore market last week. While the demand has been fairly good, there has been so much stock on hand that, after the day's business, to look over the stock instead of the books, one would suppose no business had been done. While June weddings have been using their full share of stock, commencements, which usually take much stock at this season, have, for some reason, fallen short of previous years. But it will not be long before the supply will have fallen off and business will again be down to normal.

No florist has any room to complain of this spring's business; bedding plants, for instance, reached prices this spring that were never heard of before, and while there is no doubt that these prices will fall a little in the future, they will never go back to their once low level. The writer recently saw verbenas sold at 25 cents each, while he himself has sold thousands of them for 50 cents per dozen in previous years. A corresponding advance seems to be the case with all lines of bedding stock.

There is one thing which has been shown by the market in bedding stock this spring, that the public is going to have flowers for the places about their homes no matter what the price may be.

Club Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Florists' Club was held in the Royal Arcanum hall, its new home, June 9. Never was there a more enthusiastic meeting. W. F. Ekas was on hand with his two hobbies, one, representation on the board of directors of the S. A. F., and the other, publicity. Mr. Ekas thinks it is the duty of the local club to become a part of these two movements; he is trying to arrange for a visit from John Young and Major O'Keefe at our next meeting.

BALTIMORE NOTES.

"The finest I have ever seen" was the way every member expressed himself on a vase of seedling delphiniums exhibited by Fred Bauer. These were all semi-double. Mr. Bauer has made a hobby of perfecting them. President R. A. Vincent appointed a new set of judges to pass on all exhibits; they are C. M. Wagner, W. J. Johnston and W. F. Ekas. The first work of the new judges was to award to Mr. Bauer a cultural certificate of merit for his delphiniums.

A visitor to the club was D. T. Connor, of the Lord & Burnam Co. Mr. Connor addressed the meeting and was most optimistic in his remarks on the future of the florists' business.

Various Notes.

One of the oldest retail florists' businesses in this city is about to pass from the present owner into other hands. Years ago the father of the present owner, Edward Kress, started a modest little establishment at the Baltimore cemetery gate. The trade outgrew the location; so a tract of land was secured, and a range of houses erected, while the original location was retained for a retail establishment. Mr. Kress feels that he has worked long enough, and is going to retire and take life easy.

Robert Johnston, son of Mrs. Mary Johnston, has finally been discharged from the army and is now back at his old job. Robert felt that a vacation was coming to him, but decided to put it off until the family go to their New York home, about July 1. It is whispered that Robert will bring a bride home with him. Tate.

BEST AND EASIEST ORCHIDS.

What are the three best and easiest varieties of orchids to grow?

F. C. B.—Fla.

This is not an easy question to answer. Undoubtedly, cypripediums are of the easiest culture and C. insigne might well be one of your trio. Commercially, however, you want other varieties and I would suggest Dendrobium nobile and Cattleya Trianæ. The cattleyas are the leading commercial orchids and, if you choose to restrict yourself to this genus, I would cut out the cypripediums and dendrobiums and substitute Cattleya labiata, a fall bloomer, and C. Mossiæ, a late spring variety. C. W.

AN INVITATION
To Chicago Geranium Growers and Others Visiting Chicago this Summer.
Come to my greenhouses and inspect the stock of a Geranium to displace Nutt—
WALL'S WINNER.
This Geranium appeared five years ago among a batch of my own propagation, and from the day of its discovery has stood out above every other sort on the place.
COLOR—Bright, glowing red.
GROWTH—Easy to root. Branches without pinching. Makes short, compact plant. Early, free bloomer. Large trusses carried well above the foliage. Stands sun and drought.
I am discarding Nutt and believe other growers will do the same when they have WALL'S WINNER.
All interested parties are invited to call.
If you can't come, send a mail order. First shipments in August.
2½-in. plants, dozen, $4.00; 25 for $7.50; 100 for $25.00; 50 at 100 rate.

WOOD LABELS

LABELS FOR NURSERYMEN AND FLORISTS.
Benjamin Chase Co., Derry Village, N. H

Austin, Tex.—The florists of Texas anticipate the greatest convention in the history of the organization. Florists have all made money and are feeling better than they have ever felt, and from reports the convention will have a great attendance. The managers are anticipating a large trade display, from which to make fall purchases. The florists of Texas are stocking up for a big business next year, which is a good indication that the trade exhibitors will make a large display in Austin, July 9 and 10.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The final meeting of creditors of Hattie B. Whitted was held at the office of the referee, June 3, for the purpose of examining and passing upon the final account of the trustee and his attorneys, and the attorney for the bankrupt, and for disposing of the uncollected book accounts at public sale. The report of the trustee shows that he has realized in cash the sum of $6,538.26, for the sale of merchandise and fixtures and collection of book accounts; that the bill filed by the attorneys for the trustee is $670. A second dividend will be declared to creditors.

It's no use!

—you can't salt down enough heat during the next three months to last you all winter

You've got to produce the heat in your boiler room when the rude winds are forcing the frost in at every keyhole and the mercury in your thermometer is hunting cover.

So it's up to you to save on your fuel bills, and you can only do this by actually getting the MAXIMUM heat at MINIMUM cost. To do this you want and must have an economical, non-wasting heating system that will give you your full money's worth. You want and must have a boiler you can rely on for 100 per cent efficient performance.

All this means that you are entitled to, and have a right to demand, quality, service and price consideration. You are entitled to all these in addition to the merchandise you get for your money. And when you buy the McKee you get everything to which you are entitled.

As a matter of fact, we've grown a bit proud of the uniform satisfaction given by McKee boilers, and the nice things people say about them. And—do you know?—it's a genuine pleasure to sell boilers that win unsolicited praise.

So let us tell you about them. We'll be glad to, if you'll tell us where we can reach you.

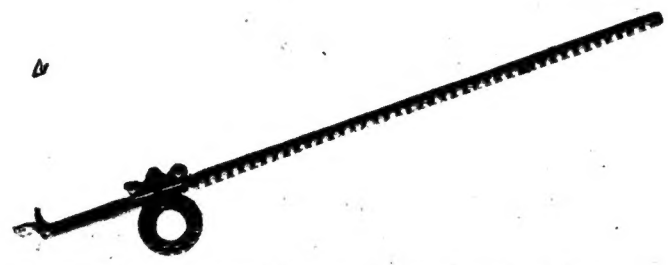
A Prominent Rose Grower Said to Us the Other Day:

"You have the finest Ventilating Apparatus I have ever seen."



Note machine operates on worm and gear principle. All gears are entirely enclosed so that no water or dirt can get onto them.

This man has a lifetime experience in greenhouses and has used every known make of ventilating apparatus. He knows what he is talking about.

This is the shaft hanger. There are 9 white metal rollers all operating loosely in their case. No pins to bind or break.

Steel lifting arm working on the rack and pinion principle. The very least amount of leverage and smoothest operating.

Our elbow arm is made entirely of steel. No castings to break.
